Endowment Policy.

THE prudent man looks ahead and provides. Pre-paredness forestalls defeat and, when reverses come, provides a haven of refuge. The young man who carries an Endowment Policy with the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company is building for to-morrow. He knows that if he lives to his allotted span, he is systematically providing for his unpro-ductive years. If he dies, he is leaving his dependents in a position where they will not be compelled to seek charity. There is no better way of building for to-morrow than by an

WAR SUMMARY

Way Commissioners. Way Commissioners. THE DAAYS EVENTS REVIEWED THE DAAYS EVENTS REVIEWED The DAAYS events revealed by the Canadians the other day, had to be evacuated by them under a heavy attack by two fresh German divisions yesterday. The first heavy German counter-attacks gained a footing in the trenches northeast of the village, but a counter-charge ejected the enemy. Then he sprang his heavy assault with two resh divisions, and these, attacking the Canadian right, left and centre, succeeded in pressing back the left wing from the village and wood. The extent of ground gained is probably small; in fact, merely a geographical is how the Germans managed secretly to move up such a large force as is how the Germans managed secretly to move up such a large force as two divisions to take the village by surprise.

This recovery of Fresnoy marks about the first German recovery of any ground against the Canadians this year. It is certain that they paid a sufficient price in losses for it. Two hundred prisoners, the enemy Just right for May says, fell into his hands. The desperate struggle which is proceeding in those regions testifies to the strategic importance of the ground. The enemy is striving with all his strength to retain Lens, because Lens stands on an immense bed of coal, and the loss of that coal will seriously hamper the German operations. It is said that Lens coal has generated the electricity for the searchlights, underground refuges, trolley lines, and even munition factories behind the German front. It has supplied the fuel for the locomotives on the railways under German control, while the French have had to import practically all of their coal for munition factories and railways from Great Britain and the United States.

west. Altho the enemy is delaying his retreat as much as possible by the sacrifice of great numbers of men, in order to wreck the mining ma- BELGIAN PIANIST HEARD chinery in this Lens region, it is probable that the allies have prepared to meet this contingency by having new machinery ready for installation as soon as they secure possession of the mine fields. The regaining of this area for France will materially ease the strain on allied shipping. A further easing of the strain would inure from the recovery of the Lorraine iron mines before Verdun. A little further advance in this region would also hand over the German iron mines and the coal mines of the Saar. The distribution of minerals in Europe has greatly modified the strategy of the war. . .

Beyond the repulse of the Germans before the positions stormed by the French south of Berry-au-Bac, the proceedings on the French battlefront consisted only of artillery actions. Various raids brought many batches of prisoners into the French hands, so that the total taken unwounded since April 16 numbers 29,000 to 30,000. As the Germans issued a statement by wireless that the total Germans unaccounted for, dead, wounded and prisoners, in the battles between April 8 and 20 were about 7500, the French have permitted the publication of the conne varie, Handel; Le Coucou, Daprisoners taken from each German division between April 016 and 20. Two French armies, for example, captured Germans from thirteen divisions, over 13,600 prisoners alone between those dates.

In Macedonia the war proceeds monotonously as a war of attrition. Thus the advance of Franco-Venizelist troops in Serbia provoked three Bulgarian counter-attacks in 24 hours. The Germans report that the Russians, French and Italians began heavy attacks on a four-mile front against the Cerna salient on Monday, and that they were continuing them yesterday morning.

A London despatch says that this week's forthcoming report on the submarine losses around the British Isles in the past seven days will show a substantial reduction in the figures. It is believed that the new British anti-submarine measures have brought about this change. Nothing official, however, confirms this supposition.

On the Russian front the trench warfare has become more lively with the improvement in the weather, as noted by greater Russian and German activity on the lengthy lines. In Turkey, the Russians report that their cavalry crossed the Diala River, but that it was attacked by the Turks and had to recross the stream.

Lord Devonport will abolish the meatless day in Great Britain, because it has increased the demand on breadstuffs and other substitutes. plentiful than meat. The main and vital factor in the situation, he said, was to secure a diminution in the use of breadstuffs. He expects that if the people respond to the call for a reduction and if the efforts of the submarine do not succeed beyond reasonable likelihood, they will get thru with a fairly satisfactory balance on hand to the time when the new harvest becomes available. The consumption of bread has not yet sufficiently fallen in the country generally, he told parliament yesterday.

IN VARIED PROGRAM

A select audience of several hundred of Toronto's music lovers thoroly enjoyed the recital given by the Belatan pianist, Francis de Bourguig-non, in the C.O.F. Hall last night.

The noted musician, who is still a oung man, showed remarkable maswas rendered, in addition to several of his own compositions, in a way that won the unstinted applause of his criti al audience. His first number, including Chaquin; Toccata, Paradies and Dandrieu's Les Fifres, placed him as an unusually fine instrumentalist, and for ered a wide range that showed De Bourguignon's mastery of interpretation.

Among his own, compositions was a theme with variations for the left hand alone that was an unusual exhibition of the possibilities of the piano for single hand compositions, and a revelation to the audience. A number from Chopin, including the Nocturne in F. sharp major, and Scherzo, B. flat minor, were well rendde Bourguignon will be a welcome addition to the musical talent of Totwinkling stars.-In watching shell fire it is interestng to watch a shell break some dis-tance away and then to hear the oncoming rush and then the explosion the same projectile. The noise of its burst is far more terrifying, reminding one of childhood days when the thunder held more fright than the lightning.

Birds Sing Under Fire. Leaving the zone of the guns at midnight for a brief respite from the ear-splitting roar, one walked but a ear-splitting roar, one walked but a short distance back on the projecting promontory to reach a bit of shell-scarred but still living wood, now green with the first tender leaves of spring. In the fringe of this wood were several nightingales singing with all their little hearts. Their chants are still immeture but in them are are still immature, but in them was the promise of the full-throated lay the promise of the full-throated lay that will come with a fortnight. The woods were lighted with gun flashes and the crack and the crash of artillery reverberated in the near distance, but the mating birds seemed entirely oblivious to the world mad-ness raging about them. Still deeper in the wood a jealous old owl would screech hoarsely now and again. The battle flared with full fury till neary three o'clock this morning when the fog put an end to all visibility and hushed the guns as if by magic. A few moments later the men had flung themselves into the deep sleep of fatigue and another night of "hate" had passed.
