THE BOOM IS ON IN THIS CITY

Prospects in Building Trade Never Looked Brighter, Says F. Neil Brodie

The advocates of a bigger, better and busier St. John find encouragement in every direction. The year 1910 has opened with many indications of progressive enterprise. Last year was a good year, but this year will be better. There is more confidence, more of local enthusiasm, and a more general determination to have a share in the forward movement.

That the prospects never looked brighter for the building trade than the present time, is the opinion expressed by F. Neil Brodie, architect, to a Times man this morning. Judging from the work in view at the present time, 1910 is likely to be one of the busiest years for building that St. John has experienced for some time. Among the projected contracts will be the remodelling of the Second building at the head of King street, for F. W. Dandl & Co.; remodelling of the building at the corner of Market Square and Chipman Hill, for J. M. Robinson & Sons; remodelling the building on King street, formerly occupied by Reid Bros., for E. G. Nelson & Co.; remodelling the London House building on Charlotte street for the Mart Millinery Co. and the remodelling of the Grant house on King street east for H. J. Garson, who recently purchased the number of new dwelling houses are also being planned, and two new brick blocks are being completed.

There will doubtless be many others, but those mentioned give some indication of what the trades will have to start on.

CREOSOTE MEN LOOK OVER THE CHANCE HERE

Quietly Investigate With View of Establishing Industry—Cement Company Also

It is quite definitely understood that representatives of a highly capitalized English syndicate interested in the manufacture of creosote have been in the city within the past few weeks looking into the natural facilities and advantages of St. John with a possible view of establishing their plant here. They were given every facility for complete investigation possible in order that they might take full advantage of St. John might be seen.

It is understood that they expressed themselves as being very well pleased with St. John on account of its being a lumber centre as well as a shipping port. From here it is understood that they went to Ottawa where it is thought that they had a conference with the government concerning the sale of their product to the railways for the preserving of ties. They have since returned to England without making any definite decision.

Another interesting item it is rumored has been investigating the possibilities of St. John as an English syndicate capitalizing at $20,000,000 interested in cement.
