The SECRET of the SUBMARINE

DEATH STARED THEM IN THE FACE. Through the open hatch-way the sea was pouring in a torrent. For those in the submarine it was but a matter of seconds. The navigating officer, beads of sweat glistening on his forehead, frantically manipulated his horizontal paddles in the hope that the boat would rise, but it did not respond. Lesson For Parents in GEM The Dividend

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING FOR YOUR BOY?" That is the big question many a father will ask himself, after he has seen this picture, human interest picture. Greed for gain makes father neglect youth at danger time. The comes the gay whirl, finally the sums and a fearful retribution for the father.

An impression of an opinion held that the picture is a masterpiece for its gruesome realism, is given by Charles Ray in "The Dividend."

Twenty-one Years In Big Leagues

Larry Lajoie, Veteran of Many Seasons, Has Never Played on Pennant-winning Team; Is a Canadian

Larry Lajoie, king of the second basemen, is rounding out his twenty-first season in the major leagues, with the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I've been up here for a long long time," said Larry, "but I never have played with a pennant winner. The breaks were always against me."

The breaks indeed were against the veteran Frenchman, who has so heroically resisted the hand of Time. Always a great player himself—one of the greatest, in fact, who ever trod the diamond, he never has played on a team that won the championship. A men, mere striplings, leaped into series, but he labored in the ranks.

Larry's dream of empire almost was realized in 1908, when he led the old Naps right down to the last day of the season, fighting a grim battle with the Detroit Tigers, but the Naps lost the deciding game, and the Tigers met the Cubs for the world's championship.

The history of baseball never will be complete until a full chapter has been written of the deeds of Lajoie. He always will be spoken of as perhaps the most graceful of all fielders, a fielder whose skill often deceived the fans as he made the most difficult play look easy. No drive was ever too hot for Larry to cut it down, and he had the ability to move in any direction and make a play. Working to right or left, coming in on the slow bouncers, or moving back to judge the hops of a wicked bouncer, he was perfection itself.

In twenty years of major league baseball Lajoie has the grand batting average of .343. Once he rose well above the 400 mark. That was in 1901, in the first year of the American League's existence, when he played with the Athletics, and hit .422. On numerous occasions he crowded the 400 mark pretty closely.

In 1897 he piled up a mark of .375, and in 1900, his last year with the National League, playing with the old Phillies, he topped the ball for .346. Some of his averages are as follows: .281 in 1903 and 1904; .311 in 1906; .384, .365 and .368. In 1913 the Frenchman piled up his last 300 mark, hitting .385.

Lajoie came to the major leagues from the Fall River City league in 1896 and joined the Phillies.

Lajoie is one of the many Canadians who have "made good" in the major leagues.

"For!" Just a moment too late the golfer gave warning. The ball had struck the shelve by wayward who was passing by the golf course, and rendered him unconscious for a few moments.

When he recovered he found the culprit bending anxiously over him and apologizing. Moreover, in his solid palm he found a new golf ball.

"Thankee, sir," he said wearily, as his golfing eyes lingered on the compensation. "And when will ye be playin' again, sir?"

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

T. H. Munnane writes in the Boston Globe of Sept. 6:

In regard to the dropping of Lowell and Lawrence clubs from the Eastern League, continuing the league as an eight-club organization from today to Sept. 16, the following facts may give baseball followers a better understanding of the matter.

From the start of the season the Eastern League officials realized that a 10-club schedule was not the ideal combination for a baseball league and how to get back to the eight-club circuit was bothering the magnates.

The Lawrence club a few weeks ago changed owners. Then Andrew Roach of Lowell, announced that he would throw up his franchise after Labor Day.

The eight clubs left in good standing at Lowell announced that they would Thursday night and voted to continue the season, as originally planned, to Sept. 16. This was the only way they could hold the territory.

The league then made a satisfactory settlement with the new owner of the Lawrence club, who had been willing to suspend his franchise until the end of the season, and asked if he was bound to quit, as stated in his letter. He answered that under no circumstances would he go on with the Lowell club after Sept. 1.

The league then voted a new schedule for the eight clubs that remained, to go into effect today. The players were distributed between the second division clubs as far as wanted and the others released.

The league magnates were anxious to have Lowell remain as Andrew Roach had up a bond of $2000 to finish the season. It was agreed to allow the Lowell magnate to withdraw his bond provided that he paid players and his league dues to Sept. 4.

The Eastern League simply protected its rights in the matter and had no dealing with Jesse Burkett.

FATHER AND SON; MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Last evening in the Fairville Baptist church there was held a father and son, mother and daughter banquet. It was connected with the gymnasium and social hall, and was a most successful affair.

The banquet was held in the gymnasium and social hall, and was a most successful affair. The young people of the church, who were twelve years and upwards, were the guests of honor, and the hall during the winter months was laid out for the occasion.

A young woman brought her father and mother to the banquet. The two young people were seated at the same table, and a beautiful supper was served by the men and women who were not invited to sit at the tables.

After the meal was finished the following programme was carried out: Songs by all present; toast to the king.

BASEBALL Diamond Notes.

Eddie Edmonson, right fielder of the New Orleans club of the Southern Association, this week went through his 75th successive game without a fielding error, equalling so far as games are concerned, the record of Sherwood Mearce of the Boston Nationals. Edmonson handled faultlessly 154 chances against 170 for Mearce.

Harry Walter, formerly of the Yankees has been purchased by the Cubs from Frank Chance's Los Angeles club. Walter has been batting in the 300 class on the coast.

New York fans have a rooting interest in the Brooklyn, with Merrile, Chief Meyers and Marquand in the line-up. Jack Coombs is pitching grand ball for the Robins. He is ready to help Chalmers, Marquand and Sherrod Smith in the rush to the wire.

The Phillies have purchased Pitcher Zorn from the Waco, Texas, league club. Pat Moran's scouts got in ahead of the Tigers and Yankees.

The scramble to strengthen pennant contenders by pulling off trades with the weaker clubs at this time of the year, may result in a scandalous day. The

Summer Complaint Was So Bad He Could Not Work

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY Cured Him

Mr. Stephen H. Shaw, Farmington, Me., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and must say it is a fine medicine for Summer complaint. We have so much alkali water here in the west that last harvest time I had summer complaint, and became so weak I could not work. I was advised to try 'Dr. Fowler's,' so I got a bottle, and in a few days I was as well as ever."

"Dr. Fowler's" is the original "Wild Strawberry." It has been on the market for the past seventy years.

There are a number of preparations on the market today, claiming the same curative powers, called similar names, and trying to trade on the reputation of this wonderful bowel remedy.

There is nothing "Just as Good" as Fowler's on getting it when you ask for it.

Freddie Jacks to Meet Wye
Halifax Echo—The appearance of Freddie Jacks, the English featherweight, will be an event somewhat out of the ordinary in Halifax boxing circles. It is only by a stroke of rare good fortune that the management was able to announce such a splendid attraction.

Jacks is at present visiting relatives in Canada and has given the opportunity of an engagement in Halifax before his return to England. His record shows a win over Alf Wye, the ex-champion bantam-weight of England at the National Sporting Club in London.

Charlie Sheppard, who will box Jacks here on Friday, Sept. 15, is doing well in his bouts at the Boston Athletic Club. He is going better than ever before. This match will be fast and clever, as both men have good foot work and are scientific.

London, Sept. 9—William Bow, a shipbuilder, has forwarded a check for £2500 (£2,500), to Lieut. William Robinson, who brought down a Zeppelin that engaged in Saturday night's raid on London.

Mr. Bow had offered that sum to the first aviator to bring down a German airship on British soil. Several other awards, amounting altogether to $8,000, have been offered.

ANN INTERESTING EXHIBIT
From "Somewhere in Belgium" there came to Waterbury & Rising Ltd. this week a pair of trench boots to be re-soled. The boots are now being exhibited in their King street window.

They give unmistakable evidence of having had much severe wear, and have stood the test remarkably well. During the last season Waterbury & Rising have forwarded a large number of pairs of these trench boots and anticipate an increased trade this fall.

Apartment Hotel For Chipman Hill

Plans are well under way for the construction of a five-story apartment hotel at the corner of Chipman Hill and Union street. J. A. Likely, the owner of the large vacant property there, and H. Green, former proprietor of the Clifton House, are interested in the project and some outside steel firms are figuring on the framework.

The building will cover the entire vacant area at the corner and will have a capacity of sixty rooms. It is proposed to build of steel, concrete and brick and to provide every convenience and up-to-date equipment. It is intended to reserve a certain portion for permanent guests and leave the greater part for transient trade. The building is to be erected in such a way as to permit of extension.

Gets After Short Weights
Acting upon numerous complaints Commissioner McCallan paid a visit to the city market recently and seized the butter of one merchant, who was selling rolled butter that was decidedly under weight. In four pounds there was a shortage of six ounces. This butter comes from the farmers and small shopkeepers. They are obliged by law to put their name and the weight of the butter on the outside of the tub. Many have failed to comply. The name in this case was obtained and the shipper was informed in future to observe the Dominion-wide regulation. Complaints have reached the commissioner re the shortage in coal, especially in small packages.

WORKINGS OF THE NEW FARM LOAN SYSTEM

The much discussed Rural Credits bill, as so far as passed, and signed by President Wilson on July 17, was not the same in detail as when it left the guardianship of Senator Hollis in its original form. The bill, as amended, is a masterpiece of compromise. Its provisions are so multifarious that the shrewd member of congress, nor a writer, has been able to state them accurately, and those who base their criticisms on what the bill contained several days prior to final conference are likely to founder in a maze of error.

Yet the spine and ribs are there as constructed by its creators, namely, the dual system—the co-operative system with units to be formed, by farmers who desire to borrow, organizing local co-operative "National Farm Loan Associations" comprising any ten or more farmers, whose mortgages must aggregate $20,000 or more. These units are to operate through a "Federal Land Bank" and there are to be twelve such banks, the country to be divided into twelve districts, as in the case of the Reserve Bank system. Although these districts will not necessarily be coterminous with the Reserve Bank districts.

Second, the joint stock bank system, not at all co-operative, but capitalistic and for profit to its stockholders. These joint stock banks will have no connection with the twelve Federal Land Banks nor with the local "National Farm Loan Associations," but will be in direct competition with that co-operative system; their interest will be to discourage co-operation.

The two systems will be under one general control of the Farm Loan Board, consisting of the secretary of the treasury, ex-officio, and four members appointed by the president of the United States—two from each political party. This board has power to appoint appraisers, examiners, and registrars, who will be public officials. At first it will also appoint the directors and officers of the twelve federal land banks, but in the course of time the stock of the land banks will pass to the ownership of the National Farm Loan Associations and the directors and officers of the banks will then be chosen by the representatives of the co-operative Farm Loan Associations. In the meanwhile all appointments will be selected by the Farm Loan Board regardless of civil service, and since every farm to be mortgaged throughout the nation, must be inspected by one or more of these appraisers, it is clear that a considerable army of appointees is to be built up, outside of civil service rules. After it is organized, it will be taken into the shelter of civil service, by executive order.

From the Rural Credits Law as Enacted by Paul V. Collins, in the American Review of Reviews for September, 1916.

The schooner Ruth Robinson, Captain Fye, which was several days overdue, has arrived at Charlottetown, P. E. I., from Liverpool, England. The vessel encountered a series of gales, had her rudderhead damaged and lost one of her topsails. She also sprang a leak.
