WORK BEGINS IN CLEARING LOCAL RADIO TROUBLE

Official and Equipment Car Come From Ottawa—Some Causes

Radio broadcast fans in this vicinity will be glad to learn that by the first of next week work will be commenced here by the Radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries in an effort to clear up local interference to radio broadcasts. Plans and others have been making strong representations to the government at Ottawa and as a result a fully equipped automobile, for the purpose of tracking down local interference, will be here probably on Monday.

This car reached the province on Friday morning at Edmundston, and H. H. Brannen, radio inspector at the port here, has left to meet it and the field man assigned to him. When the car arrives in Saint John, Mr. Brannen, who is in charge of the radio department of Seville Brothers, Ltd., will be assisted by A. E. Megarity of the radio department of Seville Brothers, Ltd.

The method of locating inductive and other interference is by the use of a directional loop. A receiver is used in the car and the loop is set so as to indicate the direction from which the interference comes. By the taking of three bearings from certain points it is a simple matter to locate where the interference comes in. At that place, the work of locating the cause is started and electrical equipment, wiring, etc., is searched for the break. Most of the interference is due to be of an inductive nature and may be caused by leaky transformers, insulators, dirty brushes on generators, defective electric irons, stoves and other everyday equipment.

Most of those losing power by faulty equipment, it was said, were glad to have their loss shown to them as it was a matter of dollars and cents. While there was no law to make persons replace equipment, with the exception that they might be prosecuted on the ground that they were causing a public nuisance, it was said today that most big concerns were glad to help in clearing up the trouble as they not only saved money but gained the goodwill of the community by assisting in clearing up the interference.

TESTS IN CITY

A local professional with a direction-finding outfit, walked about the city yesterday looking for interferences and located some tricky ones. The delicate instrument he was using disclosed leaks and had contacts that were spoiling the radio reception of scores of instruments in each locality visited. Defective electrical motors, leaky lighting wires, faulty transformers and badly working elevators were some of the causes attributed. In one home in the suburbs a small violet-ray equipment, it was said, threw a half dozen big radio sets into disuse whenever a lady patient made use of it.

Rev. Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor is Inducted at St. Andrews

Rev. W. M. Townshend, moderator of the Saint John Presbytery, returned to his home in Fairville last evening from St. Andrews, where he inducted Rev. Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor as minister of Greenock Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. R. M. Stevenson of Moncton gave the charge to the newly-elected minister, and Rev. W. L. Newton of Knox church gave the charge to the congregation. Rev. Dr. Taylor is a man of scholarly attainment. He comes from St. Columba Presbyterian church, Vancouver, and is being warmly welcomed by the people of Greenock church, as was evident by the large congregation at the induction service, including many interested friends from the Presbyterian church of St. Stephen. Telegrams congratulating both Rev. Dr. Taylor and his congregation from the church officers in Toronto and also from his former congregation at Vancouver were read.

Porter appeared for him in the Police Court this morning, saying that the undertakers of Saint John took exception to calling a motor hearse a truck, and that they were preparing a bill to come before the Common Council that would not class them as such. The case was held over until information could be made.

Suggests Water Supply Drawn For Sunday

TOMORROW the city will receive its supply of water from the Little River reservoir, and, in consequence of the Loch Lomond supply being cut off, the pressure on the higher levels will be low and in some cases may be lacking altogether. Commissioner Wigmore said this morning that it would be well for residents on the higher levels to draw a supply of water tonight sufficient to keep them going while the pressure was low. The water will be shut off at 6 o'clock in the morning and will be turned on again as soon as the necessary repairs to the wood stove pipe have been made.

As Hiram Sees It

"There's an Injun canoe with a white boy in it," says I—lookin' at the patch o' moonlight on Long Reach.

"That," says the town feller, "is the ghost o' John Gyles. When the Injuns destroyed Pemoquid, in Maine, in 1689—after they had took Duver an' killed Major Waldron an' twenty-two others an' took twenty-nine prisoners, John Gyles an' his men took the Injun river. He was twelve years old an' was a captive for nine years. His brother an' another feller that tried to get away was caught an' tortured an' burned at the stake. John had one vessel took Capt. Chubb an' his men from Fort William Henry to Boston in 1696. He was three years there an' then they set him free an' he got to his relations in Boston—an' in 1736 he wrote a book about it. It's a main-rat-in story of sufferin' an' cruelty an' life among the Injuns. It's a wonder he ever lived to tell it. But he helped Madame d'Amours one time to save her home at Jimsong from Hawthorne an' Church's raidin' party from Boston that was goin' up the river—an' a year after d'Amours got home from France John was sent down to take ship for Boston. That was his ghost we just seen in the moonlight on the river. He passed down Long Reach for the last time two hundred an' twenty-eight years ago."

DECISION IS AGAINST PLEA OF LANCASTER

Railway Board Gives Judgment Against Free Express Delivery

The Board of Trade this morning received a copy of the judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners in the application of the Board of Management of the Parish of Lancaster for an extension of the free delivery zone of the express companies to include certain portions of the parish. The board have dismissed the application on the ground that any ruling would have to be of general application and could not be made to apply to any particular district. In the judgment the chief commissioner, Hon. H. A. McKewen, intimates that an application for tariff for such a service as asked by the petitioners would be considered.

When the hearing was held, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., J. King Kelley, K. C., and G. Earle Logan appeared for the Board of Management, the argument being made by Hon. Mr. Baxter. The application was opposed by the express companies.
