An Astonished Old Lady.

An old lady whose home is in the country, and who hadn't been in Cincinnti for several years, came in to do some trading, her principal business being one of the few eventful incidents in her 'i e, the purchase of a rew bonnet. She hadn't had a new bonnet since she was in Cincinnati das last time, and that was seven years ago; nor had she seen any of the new fingled contrivance—"trifles light as air"—which the women wear nows a days in the place of bonnets. As a new bonnet was the engrossing theme in her mind on entering the city, of course she was on the alert at once to see what the fushion was. Imagine her

She lookaled the price of the same Mr. Stevens found in the course of the same Mr. Steve learned the accompanying prices. She looked at her old bonnet, which had been preserved so carefully during the changing fashions of to day, when the old lady fairly wept. She declared it was enough to drive one crazy, to see such vanities as the women are running to who now have the legal title to the lands ar and the original Atlantic Company held a meeting in this city yesterday, to consider the proposed reduction of tolls upon business transmitted over the Cable. Quite unexpectedly to the general public the motion for a reduce speech against Reuben Stiles' Tiger Cat bill is a case in point. It quite disconfited poor Reuben and left his construents to fight those ferocious animals on their own account.

His manner would strike a stranger as being too reversed for a successful politician, and we know that some cases the reserved is mistaken for hateur, which it is not. He sometimes loses votes by a missapprehension on this point. The wax populi delights in the man who is everybody's particular, confidential friend, and fellow. Mr. Stevens will not descend to this, and hence he is not a good canvaser. He always polls a good vote, which is solely owing to a recognition of his ability and worth.
