

THE WEATHER.

Maritime — Fresh southerly and southwesterly winds; fair today. Showers or storms in many localities at night.

RETURN FROM TOWN PLANNING CONVENTION

W. F. Burditt talks about the work accomplished at Toronto — Many fine exhibits.

The St. John delegates to the sixth annual town planning convention held in Toronto during the first three days of this week returned home yesterday.

W. F. Burditt, who was a representative of the Board of Trade, spoke enthusiastically of the work of the convention.

The attendance was the largest of any convention yet held and delegates from all parts of the continent were present.

New Orleans, San Francisco, New York and cities nearer to Toronto were represented. Upper Canadian cities also sent large delegations.

While Halifax, St. John, Fredericton, Moncton and Campbellton were also represented.

Calgary had a fine exhibit in which plans for city improvements were shown together with transportation facilities.

New York also had a large exhibit, as well as Toronto. The Toronto exhibit particularly dealt with transportation and showed the proposed diagonal streets necessary to relieve the central congestion.

In Toronto the work of town planning is carried on by private means. The convention was practically a meeting of planning experts, and the papers and discussions dealt with the different problems of towns rather than the fundamental principles of town planning.

The delegates were royally entertained, but the entertainment was not allowed to interfere with the work of the convention.

J. C. Chesley, who succeeds G.H. Flood as local agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department.

WEST SIDE FIRE.

The West Side fire department was called out last evening to extinguish a fire on the dump behind the old Gordon mill works.

Viewed Scene of Forest Fire.

Commissioner Wigmore went to Spruce Lake yesterday afternoon to view the city property there and see to what extent the property was in danger from the forest fire. Commissioner Wigmore found that the fire was about a mile distant, and just before he arrived at the lake there was a change in the wind and the flames were driven away from the city property. He found no houses in immediate danger, and believed that all danger, as far as settlements were concerned, was over unless there was a heavy wind and a general change in the direction.

Fraternal Visit.

Coming to St. John, to deliver a bunch of sticks, a party of Oddfellows from Sussex arrived in the city yesterday. Included in the party were Simon Friars, F. W. Wallace, Geo. H. Warren, W. P. Lutz, Almon Gills, H. W. Folkins, Gen. H. White, A. E. McAuley and M. A. McLeod. The party paid a visit to Pioneer Lodge of Oddfellows last night and delivered the bundle of sticks with due ceremony. It was explained that the object of bearing about this bundle of sticks or twigs was to encourage fraternal visits.

EDWARD READ DIES AT MIDDLE SACKVILLE

Sackville, N. B., May 29.—Death of Edward Read occurred at Middle Sackville this morning at three o'clock after an illness of only a few weeks' duration. Deceased was seventy-three years of age, was for many years postmaster at Middle Sackville, and his death will be mourned with deep sorrow by his many friends. He is survived by a widow, two daughters, Misses Mabel and Emma, at home, and three sons, James, of Amherst; William, of British Columbia; and Bert, of Alberta. Funeral will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

ANXIOUS PARENTS AWAIT NEWS OF F. W. HAMILTON

Hoping against hope that their only son survived terrible disaster in St. Lawrence River—Popular young man rose rapidly in C.P.R. Service.

"They say that 'no news is good news,' and I sincerely hope that that statement is true," said John W. Hamilton, father of Frank W. Hamilton, C. P. R. ticket agent on board the Empress of Ireland, and the only St. John man in the great disaster. Not a word has been received from the young man, but his parents and friends still hold out hope that he may have been saved.

Anxiously awaiting news of their only boy, a kind father and a loving mother are probably more interested in the latest word from the great disaster than any other residents of the city or province. It was indeed a sad home that of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton at 256 Waterloo street. Under the great strain that must necessarily come under such trying conditions, worrying over the fate of their only child Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton endeavored to bear in as much as they could. Frequently they enquired from The Standard whether any word had been received from "Frank." "We are terribly worried about our son," said Mrs. Hamilton, "and want you to please communicate any news of him as soon as you get it."

Continuing, Mrs. Hamilton told of how her son's frequent visits to Saint John endeared him to her. Mr. Hamilton always availed himself of the opportunity to visit his parents and throughout the winter, when the Empress of Ireland docked at Halifax, from Liverpool, he would hurry to Saint John on the first special train to see his parents here. His visit was eagerly looked forward to and was all the more so for both parents and son. He was in Saint John about four weeks ago and remained here for about a week visiting his parents. The trip was the last that the Empress made to Halifax and also marked the close of the season's sailings at that port.

Always Visited Home

"Frank always made it a point to come home and see us whenever he got a chance to do so," said Mr. Hamilton. "Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When the winter season closed we realized that he would not have such a good opportunity to come and see us from Montreal. Still we knew that he would come down when he possibly could. You cannot realize what it means for the time to steadily pass without word from Frank. But still they say 'that no news is good news' and I hope that that statement is true."

There is still a very strong possibility that Mr. Hamilton may have been saved. According to his mother and father he was a strong swimmer and as it was reported that parties from the Empress were being picked up on the wreckage along the shore of the St. Lawrence they still entertain hopes that he was not a victim of the great disaster.

From different friends about the city came numerous enquiries to The Standard regarding the Saint John boy on board the ill-fated steamer. The presence of the local young man on board the steamer brought home to residents of this city an even greater realization of the terrible occurrence than would otherwise have been the case. On all sides were heard words of deep sympathy for the parents of Mr. Hamilton in their anxious hours.

Unable to Get Word C. D. Strong, the acting district passenger agent of the C. P. R., in the absence of W. B. Howard in the old country, was communicated with by The Standard this evening and he said that despite the fact that he had been endeavoring throughout the day and evening to get some word regarding Mr. Hamilton that he had been unable to do so.

"We have tried both Rimouski and Quebec in an endeavor to learn some news of Mr. Hamilton, but we have been unsuccessful," said Mr. Strong. Continuing, he expressed the hope that would come that he had been saved. Mr. Strong said that Mr. Hamilton was one of his great personal friends and was a popular officer of the company.

"Needless to say we were pleased to see him on every occasion. When

INTERESTING EVIDENCE IN MENZIES CASE

Cashier of Company tells of alleged shortages in accounts—Witnesses tell of affair.

George F. Menzies, the ex-agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who is charged with appropriating money belonging to the company for his own use, was before the police magistrate yesterday. In the morning session, Mr. Menzies was recalled and testified that on August 26, 1912, the receipt book of Catherine E. Joyce showed receipt by Menzies for fifty cents. On September 9 the receipt was for ten cents. The agent's return showed twenty cents from Catherine Joyce for August 26. Several other amounts were shown to be short on the agent's return book, as compared with the policy-holder's receipt. The magistrate said to Mr. Menzies: "You will have to show that the deficiency was not made up in later returns, because return of money although on the wrong date, would constitute a criminal offense. Mr. Tilley called the magistrate's attention to a couple of initials being identified as Menzies' signature."

Afternoon Session Robert L. Johnston of St. Patrick street testified that he had his two sons insured in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, he paid money to Menzies who gave a receipt for the same by signing witness's receipt book. Witness testified the signatures in the book were those written by the defendant.

To Mr. Tilley witness said Inspector Hughes of the company had called on him to inspect the books but had not said that Menzies was short in his accounts.

Mrs. Mary Ann Whalen, 302 Brussels street, was the next witness and gave evidence that she paid for policies for herself, her husband Francis, and her sister-in-law. She had paid money to Menzies who receipted her pass books.

To Mr. Tilley—Inspector Hughes had looked over her books while Menzies was collecting and said he suspected it was alright. A few weeks ago the inspector went over the books and said there was a shortage.

Mrs. Margaret Graham, another policy-holder, testified to paying money to the defendant and receiving a receipt.

To Mr. Tilley witness said she had been behind in payments at times but always caught up.

Miss Weatherhead, cashier of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was recalled. Referring to 10th September, 1912, receipt books showed four payments of twenty cents each, amounting to eighty cents on the Johnston policies. Looking at the agent's collecting books only twenty cents was entered making a discrepancy of sixty cents on that date and that amount has not been paid in to her or accounted for.

On the 9th and 16th of September, 1912, receipts showed six payments had been paid in showing ninety cents on Margaret Whalen's policy. The agent's collection book only showed five payments amounting to thirty cents, making a discrepancy of sixty cents.

Another receipt book of the 9th of September shows five payments were made to Menzies amounting to $3.75 on the accounts of Margaret, Mary, and Francis Whalen. On that date Menzies only credited in agent's book one payment of seventy-five cents making a discrepancy of three dollars on the five policies.

Another receipt book of September showed forty-five cents having been paid on the Whalen policies and Menzies entered in collection books only nine cents, making a loss of thirty-six cents.

On September 5th receipt books showed thirty cents to Menzies. On Sept. 10th twenty cents on policies of Harry Graham, while his collection books showed only twenty cents credited for both collections. On September 5th, Harry Graham's policy, Menzies gave receipts for thirty cents, while he only credited ten cents, making a shortage of twenty cents. On the 10th of September another discrepancy of ten cents. Also on September 5th receipts given for twenty cents and agent's book showed but five cents paid in.

These shortages have not been accounted for.

The case was adjourned until Monday morning.

LATEST NEW YORK STYLES IN DRESSES FOR STREET AND GRADUATION WEAR.

M. R. A's annex window, King street presents an interesting display of the newest in dresses for the sweet girl graduate; also some striking models for street wear. These garments are in Organdy, Muslin, Crepes, Voiles, Nets, in all white, also in rose, tango, blue, etc. and afford a fine opportunity for new style study.

Russian tunic dresses are the latest trend in summer fashions in New York. The long tunic effect is commanding all attention at the moment. P. W. Lau 41 Co. is showing a number of these dresses. In the newest summer wash materials. They will be pleased to have their customers call and see them.

Walter Pedersen, the rose grower, will have another big sale of roses today at 35 cents a dozen. Those who came late last time should come early. Carnations and all other cut flowers will also be sold at very low prices. Deliver bouquets to all cemeteries free of charge.

Don't forget the store, corner Princess and Charlotte streets. Telephone—Main 2590; hot house, Main 2377.

WANTED—Two kitchen girls. Apply Royal Hotel.

PARK HOTEL, KING SQUARE.

THE PRINCE WILLIAM HOTEL.

J. A. Grant for E. G. M. Cape & Co.

RECOGNIZE BRAVE ACT

E. G. M. Cape Company presents Diver Lahey with Clock for assisting Diver Doyle.

Yesterday the E. G. M. Cape Company presented Diver Lahey with a handsome clock in recognition of his service in assisting Diver Doyle when he got caught at the bottom of an excavation at the Ballast wharf the other day. Mr. Lahey refused to accept any money for his service in assisting a fellow diver, accompanying the gift was the following letter:

"Mr. Lahey, Dear Sir: I wish to express my thanks to you on behalf of the firm for the prompt and efficient manner in which you answered our call to assist Mr. Frederick Doyle who was caught while down in the strainer pit of the Atlantic Sugar refineries. We very much appreciate the manner in which you effected his release and feel very gratified to thank you for such a splendid spirit existing between the divers of this port, which in work of this description is very important. We are sending to you a little souvenir of the occasion which we will be glad if you would accept as a mark of our appreciation for your work. Yours faithfully J. A. Grant for E. G. M. Cape & Co."

ROCK HURLED BY BLAST HITS CHILD

Four year old Margeritta Carlin, of Municipal Home sustains serious wound on head.

Struck on the head by a fragment of rock hurled through the air by a blast at Courtenay Bay, four-year-old Margeritta Carlin had a narrow escape from instant death while playing with companions in the playground of the Municipal Home yesterday morning. Hitting the little girl a glancing blow, the jagged fragment of flying stone made a gash 2½ inches long in the back of her head, laying the skull bare and rendering her unconscious for a time. She was carried into the Home, and Dr. James Christie, was summoned and dressed the wound. The little girl suffered a great deal, but it is believed her injury will not prove fatal.

This is the first time an inmate of the Municipal Home has been injured as a result of the blasting operations at Courtenay Bay, but damage has occasionally been done to the Home, and there have been several narrow escapes. Only the other day a piece of rock weighing 3½ pounds fell into the playground. In the accident yesterday the flying stone hit the fence and rebounded before striking the child.

Phillip Grannan, M. L. A., and W. S. Clawson, members of the board of governors, who visited the Home yesterday told a reporter that the blasting operations had been causing a good deal of trouble at the home. Not long ago a stone fell through the roof of the Home causing considerable damage. Complaints have frequently been made to the Norton Griffiths Company and the board of governors have sent in bills to the company for making a hole in the roof, breaking windows and other damage to the property.

At present there are 200 or more people in the Home, of whom between 40 and 50 are children, and it is hoped the Norton Griffiths Company will take measures to prevent fragments of rock being hurled into the children's playground in future.

Canadian Pacific suburban train, leaving at 4.10 P. M., Atlantic time, will be held tomorrow, Saturday evening, May 30th until 10.15 P. M., Atlantic time.

W. B. Howard, Dist. Pass. Agent.

Bargain Sergees.

Another shipment of those fine pure wool British sergees have been received by F. A. Dykeman & Co. As these goods come direct from the makers to this firm, they are able to sell them at practically the wholesale price, and in connection with the Alteration Sale they are going to offer the 75 cent sergees for 59 cents a yard. These come in navy, shades of navy, cream, cardinal, garnet and brown. They have also received another shipment of those silk embroidered morning wear, which are the daintiest and most serviceable shirts that have been devised in a long time. They come in all colors and will be sold at the extraordinary price of 99 cents.

A ST. JOHN MAN RETURNS FROM MEXICO

William Raymond, Jr., returns after a year spent in strife-ridden country—Saw many fights.

After a year in Mexico William Raymond, Jr., son of Wm. Raymond, proprietor of the Royal Hotel, returned home yesterday. Mr. Raymond, who is an engineer attached to the staff of the Buena Vista Mining Co., Ltd., was employed at Santa Eulalia, in the State of Chihuahua. Here his company has a silver mine high up on the mountain side, and from this vantage point the men in the mining camp witnessed several engagements between the federal troops and the rebels or constitutionalists.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Mr. Raymond went to Mexico some time after General Huerta with a federal force had succeeded in pacifying the north. After the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces, foreigners were advised by their respective consuls to leave the country, and Mr. Raymond was one of the first to do so.

Lawn Mowers

Some tear the grass out by the roots, others like ours cut it evenly, easily and smoothly.

THE STAR	12	Price $4.85
----------	----	--------------