The new South of England home for these floating towns is the baby of British seaports, but the near future will witness great changes. When, the new superdocks are finished another town superdocks are finished another town. seaport in the whole world.

A Sixteen-Ton Loaf!

The Majestic is the last word in shipbuilding. Apart from her colossal ton-nage—56,000 tons registered weight, but which could be increased to 64,000 tons if necessary-the vessel is mamdriving the 100,000 horse-power tur-bine engines cover no less than five pushing this floating town, numbering 5,000 persons all acres, and perform the miracle of water at more than twenty-six miles an hour, faster than the average train.

the furnaces, enough to build several houses. The anchors and cables are the largest in the world and weigh in all 230 tons, the weight of one of the battleships in Nelson's time.

Imagine the great provision stores aboard one of these ships. It takes over 12 tons of fresh meat to feed the people on board, and something like 50,000 eggs are used on every voyage of five days. Fancy 14 tons of milk and a loaf weighing 16 tons! It takes This is an English family name wide-

In Come from this place to the state of the fact, the Majestic is 180 times bigger than Nelson's old flagship, the Victory. If the liner were put on end it would

These massive ships glide alongside the docks as easily as trains run into stations, and it is rare, indeed, if they are a few minutes behind the advertised time. Within an hour of the landing of the "town" there is hardly at trace left of its hundreds of inhabitiants; they are speeding away to various parts of the country, unconscious of the vikings left settlers in many localities, thereby bringing as much influence upon the nomenclature of England and Scotland as did the Danes.

In the north of England, as well as along the west coast of Scotland, the Norse influence was at one time very strong. In fact, numerous expeditions of the Vikings left settlers in many localities, thereby bringing as much influence upon the nomenclature of England by Huguenot refugees.

The given name of "Sveinbjorn" would naturally, within a few generator of the world the town authorities, together with the South-Western Rail.

Mothering the Majestic.

The docks have been planned to take the largest vessel ever likely to be built, and a new floating dock is to be built which will pick up the 56,000 ton Majestic out of the sea as if a cork. This dock alone is more than a million to build. is costing

The five great piers which are to be the berths of these floating towns are to be similar to those of New York, only much finer and longer. They will only much finer and longer. They will face oceanwards, so as to give the greatest convenience to the incoming ships. Behind these piers new rati-way lines are to be constructed to join up all the main routes to every part of the country. Industrially, the new town will be a wonder. Immediately behind the landing piers factories on a colossal scale are to be built, to manufacture goods for all parts of the world.

How Far Can You See?

When it comes to judging distances the average man is apt to go sadly

Careful tests show that the following are distinguishable at 100 yards:-The parts of the body, slight move-ments of the head, arms, or legs, and the details of dress.

Let the man be another 100 yards away and his face becomes almost a blur, it being impossible to distinguish

Let him stand 400 yards away and his face is a speck, but it is still pos-sible to perceive movements of the legs or arms. When he is 600 yards way he is merely a form.

Fresh Water Spring in Ocean.

A fresh water spring which comes from the bed of the sea with sufficient force to be distinguishable from the salt water which surrounds it is one of the curiosities which may be wit-nessed at this time of the year off Elbury Cove, Torbay, England.

The real source of the phenomenon has never been located but it is surmised that the accumulated rainfall somewhere in shore creates pressure sufficiently strong to force an outlet on the ocean floor one hundred yards from shore.

The difference in color is marked enough so that the fresh water can be told from the salt from the beach and yachts have been able to refill their water casks from the supply of fresh water which is absolutely untainted.
