LONDON TRIED HARD IN NINTH, BUT WERE NOSED OUT BY ONE RUN

Pitching airtight ball for eight successive innings, Benny Gilbert, the lanky London castaway, held his former teammates unrelentingly and looked as good as any pitcher who has appeared on the mound at Athletic Park since the season's opening.

Up to the ninth inning, it appeared as though Gilbert was due to chalk up Kitchener's first shut-out victory of the year, but like the T. mesh of old who fought to the very last, the visitors made a game effort to overcome the four run lead against them and came within an ace of doing it, too.

In this period, after the fans were on their way out of the grounds, they were halted after Manager Hagel, who assumed the leadership of the Londoners last week, opened the frame with a nicely placed single and was advanced to second on a pass ball. Lipke and Mitchell filed out to Nicholson and Kyle respectively, but Gursky drew a pass and Vernill made things rather embarrassing for Mr. Gilbert with a corking single which scored Hagel and Lipke. Gurney, another ex-Canadian Leaguer, came through with the third hit of the period, scoring Vernill, but the rally was eventually shut off when Pittinger grounded out. Hefter to Beatty, the score being 4-3.

Up to the ninth inning, it was a pitchers' battle between Tanager and the visitors were held to three hits, two of which were of the scratch variety. Tanager was a trifle wild, however, but has the earmarks of a corner.

The Beavers broke into the score column in the first session after Beatty had beaten an infield tap and after being advanced to third, stole home. Beatty again came to the fore in the sixth inning when he brought home Hefter who reached first via the pass route, with a single to deep center. Hefter was on second at the time but the ball was quickly returned to Catcher Lipke who tagged the runner in ample time to make the out, but dropped the ball.

In the seventh, Scanlon's second three base wallop in as many games sent home Westlake who had previously singled and Nicholson who also drew four wide ones, after two men were out.

Today is Ladies' Day, and the game originally scheduled for 3.30 has been shifted to the twilight hour.

ON THE SIDE

Even the Cookneys drew a packed house last evening. Those who expected to witness a slaughter, were agreeably surprised by the performance put up by the visitors. They played snappy ball on the field, but their weakness is evidently in the hitting department. Young Tanner's performance was good enough to win any ordinary game, but his teammates did not come across with the punch at the psychological moment.

Benny Gilbert has the makings of a big leaguer and will probably last there if he keeps up the good work. He had plenty of stuff on the ball yesterday and has the build to hold it out in the big show if he continues improvement. It is a mystery how he was ever passed up by London.

The Yanks on the circuit were idle yesterday there being a blank in the schedule. They resume hostilities today, however, the Custers appearing at Flint and the Aces at Bay City.

Un-Anderson's fog horn voice could be distinctly heard all over the park. He may have been a trifle wide on a decision now and then, but he was good on the whole and would tolerate no nonsense from the players.

The Red Sox suffered their second successive shut-out, this time to the Hans in Tippecanoe yesterday, losing 8-0. Shettler allowed the visitors only three hits while Walker and Goley were batted freely. The game was attended by the season's largest crowds.

Harrison lambasted a long fly to Gursky in the seventh inning. It was a long backward run for the outfielder and he fell after making the catch but held on to the ball.

Nicholson appeared on the line-up for the first time with Kyle in centre and Westlake in left field. With the trio going good, and the pitchers showing signs of improvement, the Beavers are expected to begin to climb.

SEMI-FINAL TO BE PLAYED HERE

The race for the championship in the W.F.A. Hough Cup series is interesting, as the winner will be eligible to enter the final is still unknown.

The deciding semi-final game will be played at 6.30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the local park when Listowel and Dunvill high schools will play off. The game will be expected to be a fast exhibition.

GROWING SUGAR-BEET SEED.

To the Editor:—Thus far the general interest in the production of sugar beet seed, in the province of Ontario, has been of meagre description. It has usually been taken for granted that this article, when required, must be imported from Europe, and, although hundreds of tons of this commodity have been required in recent years by the farmers in the production of sugar beets, yet none has been imported seed was sown, except a few plots for experimental purposes. Grave suspicions prevailed among experts in this article, that the Canadian-grown seed, produced beets deficient in sugar as compared with those grown from imported seed. The fallacy of this suspicion has now been discovered, and expert experiment has proved conclusively, that Ontario-raised seed compares favorably with seed raised in any other part of the world. This at once puts the production of sugar beet seed beyond the experimental stages in this province and places it on the basis of an established industry. Of course, very localities are not favorably situated for the production of sugar beet seed, nor does every locality possess the conditions necessary to the successful operation of this industry, but a large portion of this county and neighboring municipalities are certainly eminently designed for its operation. There are hundreds of acres at this present time in the neighborhood of New Dundee, devoted to this highly remunerative industry, in fact one farmer in that locality, has in the neighborhood of seventy-five acres devoted to that purpose, partly in setting out plants for seed and partly for the production of plantlets for next year, because the plants for setting out must receive special attention and be raised thickly together so as not to grow too large. The seed produced from an acre usually amounts to from six to eight hundred pounds. I am informed that the government in order to encourage this industry pays three cents a pound of a bonus to the farmers on all seed produced by him and the sugar manufacturers pay twenty-two dollars an acre for the land; of course the farmer must put the land in good order for seeding and planting, but after that he is paid for all his work liberally by the sugar company.

The seed-top is cut with an ordinary old-fashioned reaper hook or sickle, and when fully dried, is threshed through an ordinary threshing separator. We understand that the farmer mentioned who has around seventy acres devoted to the sugar beet industry, has from fifteen to twenty Belgians working all the time, supplied of course by the sugar company. The vast variety of production of this country, is simply beyond comprehension. The timber, the minerals, the game and fish, the agricultural productions, the variety of manufactured articles, the productive quality of the soil, the vast wealth of opportunities to promote one's happiness and the happiness of others, all placed within the reach of the democratic inhabitant of Canada, force a compulsion forever succumb to the higher characteristics of true manliness and liberty. Thus the genuine Canadian, on the voyage of life, finds his native ship freighted with every means of happiness and progression. Let no pessimistic dispositions prevail, because there is abundance of everything in Canada, for the whole of us, all that is required is the proper use and distribution of existing benefits. This will take place just exactly in proportion as our people ascend the high tableland of peace, charity and wisdom.
