CONUNDRUMS

Which would you rather have a five pound note or five sovereigns?—A five pound note; for when you put it in your pocket, you double it; and when you take it out, you see it in creases.

Why is an angry man like a loaf?—Because he is crusty.

Why is hot bread like a caterpillar?—Because it is the grub that makes the butter fly.

What four letters would frighten a thief?—O. I. C. U. When do two and two make more than four?—When they are 22.

When is a clock on the stair dangerous?—When it runs down and stikes one.

Take one from nineteen and leave twenty—Draw Roman figures so: XIX, XX.

What is the difference between twice twenty-five and twice five and twenty?—Twice 25 is 50; twice 5 and 20 is only 30.

What is the difference between an engine driver and a school master?—One minds the train, the other trains the mind.

Why does the sailor know there is a man in the moon?—Because he has been to sea (see).

Why is a little dog's tail like the heart of a tree?—Because it is farthest from the bark.

Why is a crocodile the most deceitful of animals?—Because its countenance is most open when it is taking any one in.

Mrs. C. M. Vaughn, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Annie M. Borden, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Tait, of California left on Tuesday afternoon for Boston, where Mrs. Borden will spend the winter. Her many friends are glad that her health has very much improved and that she is able to take her usual trip for the winter. Mrs. Tait, who has been spending some months in Nova Scotia, will leave for her distant home, after spending some time in Boston and Washington. Mrs. Vaughn expects to return before Christmas. —Acadian.

WRITE IT LARGE

Write it on the liquor store. Write it on the prison door. Write it on the gin shop fine. Write, ay, write this truthful line.

"Where there's drink there's danger."

Write it on the workhouse gate. Write it on the schoolboy's slate. Write it on the copy book. That the young may on it look, "Where there's drink there's danger."

Write it on the churchyard mound. Where the drink slain dead are found. Write it on the gallows high. Write it for all passers-by "Where there's drink there's danger."

Write it on the ships that sail. Borne along by stream and gale. Write it in large letters plain. O'er our land and past the main, "Where there's drink there's danger."

Write it on the Christian dome. Sixty thousand drunkards roam Year by year from God and right. Proving with resistless might, "Where there's drink there's danger."

CANADIANS MINE THE GERMAN LINE

Two Trench Raids Were Also Successfully Carried Out By Our Troops

London, Dec. 4.—The following communique has been issued by the Canadian War Record Office:

"On the night of November 27-28, our troops sprang a mine some distance in front of our lines, and at once occupied the crater. They consolidated it, and held it successfully against all counter attacks.

"During the same night and on the same sector they undertook two trench raids. One raiding party got into the enemy's front trench, explored it for several hundred yards and returned with useful information. The other party, who got through the wire, found that the trench at this point was so strongly held that the party was obliged to return without accomplishing anything of importance.

"Towards noon the enemy bombarded our lines in retaliation, but did no great damage.

"On the night of November 28-29 one of our patrols in 'No Man's Land' met a party of Germans and put them to flight capturing two prisoners."

THE HERO'S MOTHER

Those clustering curls, those roguish eyes I see them still through blinding tears; I hear the little pattering feet; That merry laugh rings in my ears My bonnie baby boy.

Another memory comes, but now Boldly, in scout's array, he stands He seems to face and dare the world Ready for all that life demands— My manly, noble boy!

But soon grim warfare claims his strength; At country's call he bravely goes See! See! he leads a valiant charge! He falls but yet no conquest knows— My gallant hero boy!

More glorious now the vision grows; Nought else could soothe his aching heart; I see him midst the ransomed throng In higher service take his part— My own, my angel boy! —In Sunday at Home.

FOR THE RED CROSS

We are knitting, knitting, knitting, As the days are passing on, For we want to send some comforts, Where the soldier boys have gone.

Far across the dark blue ocean, They have met a foe so strong Who would gladly take our country, And would do us every wrong.

Some are sick, and maimed, and wounded, To their homes they'll ne'er return. Though the friends within the homeland For them do grieve and yearn.

They were in prime of manhood, But their life's sun now is set. In the tumult of the battle They a cruel death have met.

So 'tis right we help their comrades— Our protestors true and brave Who have left their homes and kindred And have crossed the ocean wave.

With their life-blood they are parting, That our country's name may live; And 'tis right we send these soldiers All the comforts we can give.

From various homes and callings, They in this strife engage, And rich and poor are equal Amid the battle's rage.

They have left from sense of duty, To that call we too reply, When we work in Red Cross interests, As the days are passing by.

While we are working, we are praying That this cruel war may cease And over all the world may spread An everlasting peace. —B. L. Cambridge. Burton, N. B., Nov. 28.
