Beautiful Hair and lots of it—if you use Crystolis

Here's good news at last for men and women whose hair is falling, who are growing bald and gray, whose scalps are covered with dandruff that nothing seems to keep away and whose heads itch like mad.

Good news even for those who imagine themselves hopelessly and incurably bald or who suffer from hair or scalp trouble of any kind.

We have secured the sole American rights for the great English discovery, Crystolis, the new hair remedy that in Europe has been called the most wonderful discovery of the century, having been awarded Gold Medals at the big Paris and Brussels Expositions.

Already, since securing the American rights hundreds of men and women have written us to tell of phenomenal results obtained by its use. People who have been bald for years tell how they now glory in their beautiful hair. Others who have had dandruff all their lives say they have now a clean, healthy scalp and that hair stopped falling after a few applications of this wonderful new treatment.

We don't care whether you are bothered with falling hair, prematurely gray hair, matted hair or stringy hair; dandruff, itching scalp, or any or all forms of hair trouble, we want you to try "CRYSTOLIS," at our risk.

We give you a binding guarantee without any "strings" or red tape, that it won't cost you a cent if we do not prove to you that "Crystolis" will do all we claim for it, and what's important, we have plenty of money to back our guarantee. We have deposited $1,000 in our local bank as a special fund to be forfeited if we fail to comply with this contract. evils of moderate drinking, for if there were no moderate drinkers there would never be any drunkards. Every moderate drinker will not necessarily become a drunkard, but every drunkard was at one time only a moderate drinker.

What is really required is the TOTAL PROHIBITION of the iniquitous business throughout the entire country. But if we cannot succeed now in sweeping away the abominable thing, let us not slacken our labors one whit, but rather let our energies be stimulated to secure the entire abolition of the curse of the liquor traffic as early as possible.

There are thousands to-day who are alive to the evils of drink, and who have banished the accursed thing from their homes, treating it as they would the leprosy. But shall these thousands sit calmly by and permit their neighbors' lives to be blasted and their homes to be ruined and their families to be turned into the streets to starve while the brewer and publican wax fat on their insensate lust for the vicious fire-water? No! A thousand times NO. Let every man who knows what an accursed thing drink is (and who does not?) rise up and say with one voice:—

think they may reduce my appetite for beer. I hope so," and he hurried away for fear the tell-tale listening in his wife's eyes would break him up. But he didn't take any beer with his lunch that day, nor on his way home, and that was the beginning of Jim Ford's choice between beer for himself and berries for the family.

Perhaps more wives and mothers can inaugurate a similar "division of goods."—National Advocate.

Beer and Berries

"Ain't it jess a leetle extravagant, M'r'i, to have strawberries for breakfast in April?" and Jim Ford looked a bit apprehensively at his meek little wife.

"Oh, I don't know as 'tis!" replied the meek little wife with just a touch of something that was not meek in her voice. "The berries cost fifteen cents yesterday, 'n there's enough for you, Junior, the baby 'n' me—each a dish-ful. They make our plain bread-'n'-butter meal a little bit appetizing, 'n' they don't cost any more'n your three beers do that you 'down' all by yourself. You might share with us once in a while without being much of a crank. Yes, I will stay here for it, I guess," and Mrs. Ford looked Jim square in the eye, pleasantly, but with some determination apparent.

Jim fidgeted uneasily, but said nothing, for that phrase, "three beers," had caught his attention and held it. Jim wasn't a bad sort of a man, and he really loved his family; but with his moderate salary, high cost of living, and rather free-and-easy way with money, the family had been living rather narrowly, first one thing and then another being cut out of the menu; so he was a little startled when he saw the strawberries on the breakfast table so early in the season. He finished his breakfast, and after kissing his wife and babies good-bye said to her: "Get some more berries for to-morrow, M'r'i, please; they're good for all of us, and especially for me, for 'm inclined to
