THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. APRIL 9.

DEATH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST .-

This section of the chapter opens by teiling us how the fame of Jesus had spread abroad, and what different people said about Him (verses 14-16). The most noteworthy of these sayings is that of Herod, who said that this new teacher must be John the Baptist risen from the dead. This shows the workings of a guilty conscience, for Herod had been the murderer of John under the circumstances narrated in the following verses of the section. Our notes on the subject are culled almost entirely from Dr. Morison's quaint and graphic commentary.

"Verses 17 to 27 constitute a long and intensely 'sensational' paragraph. Its sensationalism, however, is the quiet efforescence of truth, not the noisy effervescence of fiction. It is 'truth stranger than fiction'—deeply instructive truth, moreover, giving glimpses into scenes behind the curtain of court life, and revealing the hollowness of the pleasures that are founded on immorality. At the bottom of these plea. sares there is an opening into an abyss of disappointment and woe. The paragraph is introduced into the narrative to account for Herod's notion regarding Jesus. It would, however, be gladly introduced by the Evangelist, partly because of the intensely striking character of the facts narrated, and partly days, but finally recovered. These are because of the opportunity which it afforded for giving information regarding John the Baptist, who stood in so intimate a relationship to our Lord."

The reason why Herod had shut John up in prison is very explicitly stated. It was at the instigation of Herodias, who was deeply offended at John's having plainly reproved her sinful union finger, reject it. with Herod. "It was a sadly scandalous affair all through. He was not only Philip's brother-he was also his guest, in Rome, at the time he stole Herodias's heart. He had, moreover, a wife of his own, to whom he had long ago been married, and who had been entirely faithful to him. She was the daughter of Aretas, King of Arabia. She fled to her father on discovering that it was the intention of her unfaithful lord to get divorced, that room might be made for her sister-in-law. A bloody war was the result; and a total and humiliating defeat was suffered by Herod. Thus hard in the long run is the way of transgressors."

It is very clear from verse 20 that John for a time had great influence over Herod, and that his conscience had been touched by his preaching. It is noteworthy that he heard him gladly and yet feared him. The monarch would feel that he was in the presence of 'an honest man' who was as great as he was good. It is often so with sinners still. They are attracted by preaching of which got they are afraid; they like to hear the truth, but are unwilling to give up darling sins.

It is probable that Herod would never have gone to the length of putting John to death, but for the unfortunate incident which was the immediate occasion of it. The incident gives evidence of a deep design on the part of Herodias to entrap Herod under circumstances when he was probably not altogether sober, into making such a promise as he did; and which she had previously determined to turn to her own account for the gatification of her cruel revenge. The king was sorry; but his sorrow had come too late unless he was prepared to break his oath in the presence of all his guests. It would have been better if he had done this, for there is less sin in breaking an oath which never ought to have been made than in committing a crime in order to fulfil it; but Herod had not the moral courage to contend with the reproaches from Herodias and his guests if he had broken his rash promise. "Had Herodias instructed her dauguter to demand Herod's own head. no doubt this pretended respecter of oaths would have excused himself from the obligation." It is very likely that there were amongst the guests some of those persecutors of John through whose influence Herod had committed him to prison .- Sunday-School Mag-

OVER-WORK AMONG WOMEN.

One way in which women are overworked by their own fault-a sin of ignorance frequently—is in the use of foolish clothing. We are all more or less in bondage here, for woman's dress is radically wrong It is a weight and a hindrance everywhere. Clothing devised to suit the needs of the human body would be much more easily made and taken care of, and it would give a woman freer movement, greater ease and comfort about her work and play, and would be an aid to good health lather than, as now, a drag upon her strength. But a genuine reform cannot be made by any one woman, for it awaits the development of public opinon. But cannot we all lend a hand here, and say on all proper occasions, that woman's dress is absurd, and inconvenient, and unhealthful, and that we wish for something bette: ? Most of us can put less work and care upon our trimmings, and none of us need wear a trained skirt, or one that touches be floor, We may all wear loose and Warm clothing, and bear the weight Won our shoulders rather than over be hips. Various female weaknesses y much climbing of stairs in the purtait of one's daily industry. They hay be aggravated by these causes after they have been once induced, but I have serious doubts whether these Weaknesses are often really attributable the causes above named. Corsets and heavy skirts are the real offenders. It is usually the case that the same work might have been done-the standing and the climbing—had the muscles of the body, both external and internal, been left free and unweighted by the clothing. How many feathers' weight are added to her burden of toil and worry by a woman's long skirts, as she goes about her work in-doors and out. up-stairs and down, around the kitchen fire, or cleaning the floors in an unsuitable dress?—American Agriculture

WARNING TO VACCINATED PEO-PLE.

The Troy Times gives the following warning to persons who have recently been vaccinated: "Don't pick your nose with the finger that has shortly before come in contact with vaccine matter. A man in a neighboring village acted contrary to this rule, and as a result the matter took kindly to his nose, made the acquaintance of the membranes, spread all over his head. and he is now just able to leave his bed after a confinement of more than two weeks. A Glen's Falls' lady scratched the bite of an insect on her foot with the fingers that had been tosing her vaccinated arm. The following day the foot swelled and shortly exceeded the size of the traditional Albany girl's feet. She was crippled for a month, and pined away over the No. 11 shoe for the remainder of her will bear the caution they point out."

Potato flour, or the dried pulp of the potato, is attaining considerable importance in the arts—so much so, in fact, that in Lancashire, England, some 20,000 tons of it are sold annually, and its market value is stated to be much greater than that of wheat flour. The article is extensively used for sizing and other manufacturing purposes, and, on being precipitated with acid, is converted into starch. After having been calcined it is used with advantage as a dressing for silk.

One of the cheapest medicines that mortal can uso is sleep. It is a sone reign remedy for weakness: it relieves languor; it cures restlessness, uneasiness, and irritability; it will remedy headache; it also cures nervousness. When weary|we should rest: when exhausted we should sleep; to resort to stimulants is suicidal; what weary men need is sleep. The lack of sleep causes neuralgia, paralysis, and insanity. Many a person dies for want of sleep, and the point where many a sufferer turns his feet from the very gates of death to the open path of life is where he sinks to sleep. Of almost every sick man it may be said, as of Lazarus, " if he sleep, he shall do well."
