Kerr, and B. S. Heistermann. There was an unusually large attend-ance of legal talent. E. V. Bodwell, Q.C., and J. P. Duff, Q.C., who appear for the plailntiffs in the action, had associated with them Mr. C. S. Voorhees and Judge Kellam of Spokane. On the other side, representing the B.A.C., were Hon. T. Mayne Daly, Q.C., of Rossland, the solicitor of the corporation; E. P. Davies, Q.C., of Vancouver, C. H. Barnard, Vic-M. Peyton?' W. E. Heyburn, of Spokane, and Howard Spensley of the Middle Temple, London, England. Hon. C. H. Mackinformerly manager of the company, was also present.

Mr. Bodwell addressed the jury at great length, reciting the whole case. He con-cluded by stating that finally an arrange-ment was reached with the Turner faction whereby they were to receive $7.25 per share, as well as the proceeds of the smelter cleanup at Northport. The Tur-ner interests included 205,624 shares. The Peyton intersta were, therefore, entitled to this difference per share plus the profits of the cleanup over the $6 they had received on 261,909 shares. They held that the actual amount due them was 597,714.57, irrespective of interest.

C. Oliver, manager of the C.P.R. tele-graph in Rossland, then took the stand and testified that the cables of 1898, pass-ing through his office, had all been destroy in accordance with the company's

Mr. Hayden, manager of the Spokane Northern Telegraph company in Rossland, gave similar evidence.

The plaintiff, Williams, was then en amined by Mr. Bodwell. He told of the reyton's office in Sp but nothing important was elicited. The goes on tomorrow.

P. Davis, who is noted for his shrewdness in cross-examining. Williams was questioned at length and closely regarding the sale of shares, but he held to his statement concerning the agreement to the effect that more than $6 per share was to be paid, providing those of the other faction received more than $6 per

D. L. Henley, a barrister, of Spokane, was also placed on the stand today, and gave evidence confirming that of Williams in regard to the meeting in Spokane with Valentine Peyton and C. H. Mackintosh. Valentine Peyton and C. H. Mackintosh. He said at this meeting there had been some talk as to what would be done should the sale not be confirmed, and Mr. Mackintosh had talked about buying greater portion of the stock. With had then said that the majority of the shareholders would sell for $6 if they were paid what Mackintosh was com-pelled to pay the Turner faction. Mackintosin, witness said, then stated: "Cer tainly I will pay that; we will not injure our friends and reward our enemies."

At the meeting an arrangement was made for the turning over of the stock to Mr. Wakefield in trust, for him to hold, anticipating the closing of the deal. Wakefield to hold the stock subject to instructions. Tomorrow the case will be continued. Coast Notes.
