THE MOST NOTABLE GATHERING

Ever Assembled Within Four Walls in Brantford

Dr. Bell and Distinguished Guests at Kerby House

Other Features of the Doings of the Day

Mr. W. F. Cocksbutt, M.P., presided at a most memorable banquet in the Kerby House. On a previous occasion has the historic dining room contained so many distinguished visitors one time. On the present occasion there were appropriate references to the phone for each course and the members of the Brant Chamber, Daughters of the Empire, acted as waitresses in a most capable manner. They looked very attractive, indeed, in their white dresses and caps and were loudly cheered.

At the head table, sitting to the right and left of the chairman, were the Duke of Devonshire and Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor, Dr. Bell; Senator Fisher, Paris; Dr. Wm. Robertson, representing the Dominion Government; Sir Byron Walker, Toronto; Hon. W. D. McPherson, representing the Ontario Government; Col. Leonard, St. Catharines; E. L. Gould, of the Parks Board; R. Neville, Ottawa; Major Bowby; C. L. Hubbard.

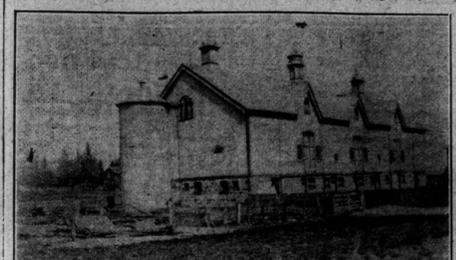

At the other tables, Lloyd, Harris, W. E. Edwards, R. M. McIvor, H. Watson, John J. Edson, Jr., A. A. Allan, Geo. Kippax, W. S. Shapley, John Muir, H. H. Griffin, Kalspell, In Grobb, Geo. S. The Governor-General's Address When His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire rose to speak, he was greeted with loud applause, long continued. In opening, he said that before he left the Old Land to undertake his new duties here, he had been told that he would find the Canadians a warm-hearted people, and his experience from the moment that morning of a French victory was of a most heartening and inspiring nature. Britain's great ally in the tremendous struggle had indeed shown all the qualities worthy of the best traditions of the nation. The fight for human liberty was not, however, yet ended. "We are confident that we can win, but confident only on one condition; that every man, woman and child does his utmost." The most serious period of the struggle was now approaching, for the enemy must be brought into such subjection that offers of peace upon his part must be from a beaten foe. Canada had made great sacrifices in men and money, and would undoubtedly do still more. "It is due to those whom we mourn as dead, to see that their deaths have not been in vain." The Duke expressed his sincere congratulations to all those concerned with the program, and concluded: "I shall always remember the warmth of the welcome extended to me here to-day."

Dr. Bell was received with a thundering ovation, again and again renewed. In his charming way he again repeated the story of the phone in Brantford, and said that his heart was always with Brantford and his Canadian home of early days. "I have been a good American for forty years, but I cannot help remembering that before that I was a citizen of Canada, and before that a Scotchman." From the very first his sympathies in the war had been with the Allies, and it was needless to say that the present course of President Wilson had his entire approval. It was a striking incident that the day which had also been set apart to do him honor was also Liberty Loan Day in the States, to raise three billion dollars, and of the whole-heartedness with which the people across the border would carry that object and any other endeavor in connection with the war there was no question. Personally, and with a heart full to overflowing, he had again to thank the good people of Brantford for still one more expression of affection and good will. Mr. Cocksbutt read a letter of regret from Premier Gouin of Quebec, for inability to be present.

Son-in-Law Mr. Gilbert Grosvenor, editor of the National Geographic Magazine, and a son-in-law of Prof. Bell, made a most happy speech. The previous day, Oct. 23, celebrated his admission to the Bell family, and Oct. 23 and 24 would always be red letters days in the memory of that great man, as long as life should last, and he knew to their descendants after them. In this regard, he remarked that there were six grandchildren, who would, without doubt, make pilgrimages to Brantford and their descendants after them. He referred to the fact that the phone was not only in use in the trenches, but also another wonderful invention of Dr. Bell, the painless probe for bullet wounds. The warm reception extended to American and British officers and stripes, as part of the memorial display, had touched all their hearts. Most sincerely indeed did he return thanks to the people of Brantford on behalf of the Bell family.
