A wonderfal Difference.

Recently Rev. C. O. Johnson of Napance, stated from his pulpit that while there were sa many women as men in Canada, and while they were subject to the same laws and the same punishments for law breaking, there were but 80 women in the Kingston penitentiary against 520 men. "The young women," he said, "very largely spend their evenings at home, or at the prayer or other church meetings, and take a lively interest in the Sunday schools and good reading, while too many young men parted on the side of a high hill one going around it one way, the other in a contrary direction. Some time after the report of a gun was heard. One of the boys called not answer. Several calls were given and then the shouter started off in the direction of the shooting. He soon came upon his brother bathed in blood and dead. He was horrified but speedily raised an alarm. An investigation was held and as far as ascertained it would seem that the boy had pulled the trigger but the gun would not go off. He had then started upon an exampled crops and fairly good off.
