

WANTS TO HELP OTHER WOMEN

Grateful for Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for backache and for weak and dreary feelings caused by my condition. Sometimes I felt so bad that I couldn't do my housework. My neighbor told me of your medicine and I read about it in the 'Toronto Telegram' and thought I would take it. I got very good results. It built me up and I have told several friends what it has done for me. You may use this testimonial as it may be of help to some one who has suffered as I have."—Mrs. J. Lee, 25 Harvie Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Lee is willing to write to any girl or woman suffering from such troubles, and answer any questions they may like to ask.

Women suffering from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, pains, bearing-down feelings and weakness should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Not only is the worth of this splendid medicine shown by such cases as this, but for nearly fifty years letters like this have been received from thousands of women.

Edmundston Locals

The latest reports are that there are 131 cases of typhoid in town.

Vital statistics for March: 25 births, 1 marriage and 9 deaths.

The editor of the Observer was laid up for two or three days the beginning of this week.

Miss Helen Stevens left on Thursday for St. Stephens where she will be a visitor for a few weeks.

Dr. W. D. Rankine of Woodstock was a professional visitor to town this week. He came to see Douglas Dunbar who has been very ill.

Mrs. R. B. Owens, who has been visiting friends and relatives at St. Andrews and St. Stephen since Easter, is expected to arrive home this week end.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Pea Gagnon who died on Monday leaving a husband and four sons to mourn her loss. Also in the prime of young manhood, Dennis Cyr leaving a wife and two children.

Married on April 10, Alphonse St. Onge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Belonde St. Onge of Madawaska Parish to Miss Amelia Morin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morin of the same parish, at the Immaculate Conception church by the Rev. Father Conway.

Married April 10, Joseph Stanislaus Paul Henry Plote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanislaus Plote of St. Bruno, P. Q. to Miss Marie Anne La Gasse, daughter of the late Fred and Mrs. St. Pierre of Edmundston, at the Immaculate Conception Church by the Rev. Father Conway.

Our readers will be interested in the announcement in this week's paper relating to the taking over of the Palatine Fire Insurance Agency held formerly by George Theriault, by G. N. Begin. This company is an exceedingly strong one and Mr. Begin is to be congratulated on acquiring it.

A meeting of doctors connected with the Provincial Board of Health was held at the residence of Dr. LaPorte on Tuesday. Among those present besides Dr. LaPorte were Drs. Desmond, Wade and Cyr. We are glad to report to our readers that the medical men believe that the epidemic is well in hand and that the cases are diminishing.

We hear great praise on every hand of the concert held in the Casino last week in aid of the Catholic church. The talent was of the very best, the songs were well received, and there was a snap about the whole program which appealed to the big audience. Miss Molanac in her dances brought down the house and was repeatedly encored. The concert was such a great success that it had to be repeated this week and the second performance was fully as good as the first.

There will be an exhibition of sewing the work of the evening classes on the evening of the 24th at the new school building. It will be remembered that last year the work which these classes did was of a very high class. The work that has been done this year, we are told, is just as good if not better. The public is cordially invited to come. Vocational work is what is needed here and in every town and village in Canada. Let us give the students, the instructors, and the trustees of the school the support which they are entitled to in this matter of vocational work which helps in the building up of a happy and comfortable home.

The Hunch Cat

When you go to call a number Put a Hunch Cat on the Phone You will never get a "busy" For the wires left alone.

NOTICE!

The Town Council has appointed Tuesday, May 5, as Dittsen's Clean-up Day. Every citizen owning property in town is asked to clean up around their place and put the refuse in a suitable container, place it at the side of the street and the town will furnish a team to haul it away.

Every citizen should take advantage of this offer and co-operate with the Council in making the Town look as respectable as possible.

The council is also taking steps to provide a hitching place for teams and thereby remove the annoyance of having horses tied to the telephone poles along the streets.

IN-KNOCK-YOU-LAY-TED

Nervously I paced the doctor's office. What would he do, and what would the outcome be? A faint shriek reached me from the physician's sanctum sanctorum, followed by still another, and yet another. A moment afterwards a bevy of young girls came out, holding their arms gingerly, and somewhat tenderly, and they looked with a certain hauteur on those of us in the medicine waiting room, a look as much as to say "We have a superior knowledge to you."

Presently the white robed nurse appeared and asked whose turn next it was, and all present in extremely courteous manner wished the other one to go forward. But, alas, they all spotted me as the one who had been there the longest, and drawing in a long breath, and gathering my courage I followed the doctor's fair assistant.

The doctor was in his element. No nervousness here. He greeted me warmly and smiled as he casually mentioned that I was the seven hundred and fifty-ninth he had worked on that day. "Would you prefer it on your arm, or your collar bone?" he politely enquired. He mentioned casually that it would not hurt—much. He also mentioned that the inoculation consisted in burying just a few thousand million dead typhoid germs in your body. He took out a needle—a hollow needle—that looked a yard long. He filled the syringe with "bacilli typhoidi". The gentle smile on his face, the doctor advanced with military step, they rubbed you with alcohol, to clear off the place you were to wash when you got up, and then he stuck you, and in a moment a thousand million dead germs are coming through your many veins. I am quite sure of the number, because the doctor and I counted them previously, and we had to go to the second bottle, because the first bottle was just five short. That is how I am so SURE of the number.

Oh, no, it didn't hurt—you rather enjoyed it, especially the other fellow got done. There comes a big man, obviously nervous. The doctor deals with him gently, and he is gently led away to recuperate. There comes a great war veteran, Oh! he's an old hand at it, he tells you that he has been inoculated for everything from chilblains to lovesickness. He says in the war they inoculated the men every morning before breakfast, just to give the doctors exercise. He shows you his arm, which looks like a pin cushion with all the pins taken out.

Next there comes a nonchalant business man. He says he doesn't mind in the least—but you know that at that moment he is a denier of the truth.

I wish I were a doctor, and could choose some of my patients to inoculate. There are so many of ones friends to whom it would be a real pleasure just to stick that little innocent looking needle—thirty-six inches long—more or less, into.

Next one please!

D. E. SCRIBE.

HARVEY M. FULTON

Died at Knoxford, April 10, 1925, of chronic Bright's disease, Harvey M. Fulton, in his 44th year.

The serious nature of his trouble was entirely unsuspected and only when an attack had seized him, did his condition become known. He leaves to mourn, his wife, formerly, Miss Vera Kitchen of Jacksontown; his aged, frail mother to whom he had been not only a devoted son, but a companion and friend. One brother and three sisters survive: McDonald Fulton of Knoxford, Mrs. Cyrus Kinney of Greenfield, Mrs. Elmer Shaw of Jacksontown, Mrs. Dudley Hamilton of Klamath Falls, Oregon, besides numerous relatives and friends. He was a member of the United Baptist church at Lower Knoxford. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. I. F. Kierstead of Royalton, from Heb. 9: 27. Rev. R. A. Barrows assisted in the services.

Severe Kidney Trouble

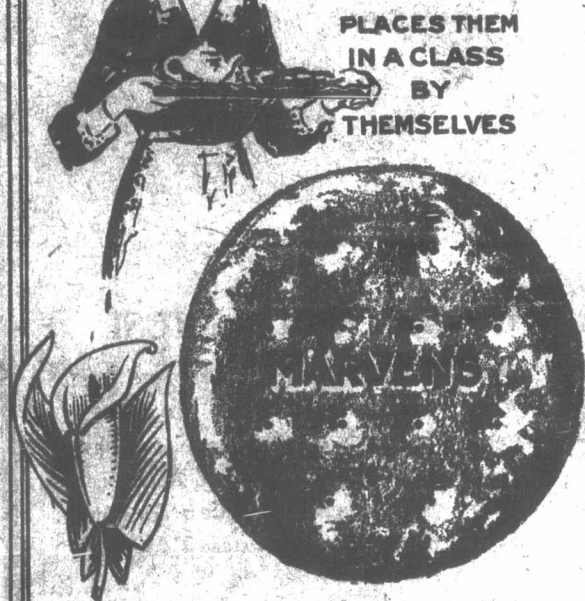

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

One pill a dose, 3 or 4 times a day. All druggists or Wm. L. Chase, Boston, U.S.A., Toronto.
