The morn is over the world,
And the sunlight floods the sea;
I sit and dream as the waters gleam,
Of the dear, dead past and thee—
Of the fair dead past, too fair to last,
And the heart that lived for me.

O heart that loved me so! Still in your dreamless rest;
You are not dead, and I lay my head
Once more on the tender breast,
I hide my face in its olden place,
In the place I loved the best.

Dear lips, pressed close to mine!
You are not cold in death,
For close to my ear sweet words I hear,
And feel on my hair your breath,
And a voice says low, "I love you so!
With a lowe that knows no death."

I open my eyes and look
Far out on the sualit sea,
And the waters gleam, but my tender

dream
Has passed from my heart and me,
And the grasses wave on a lonely grave
That holdeth my heart and thee. But the leve that blessed us so spheres Under a strange, bright sky.

I pray God hold thee fast,
Close in his strong embrace,
And some fair day I will come and say,
Viewing thy radiant face,
"Dear one, stoop low, for I love thee so!
With a love that time nor space
Nor all the tears of desolate years
Could rob of its heavenly grace."

The prevalence of scrofulous taint in MOULD-The breakened of scrollous tank in the blood is much more universal than many are sware. Indeed, but few persons are free from it. Fortunately, however, we have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most potent remedy ever discovered for this terrible affliction.

-A story is teld of a priest going to the venerable ex-Bishop (R. C.) of Birmingham. "My Lord, I have certain difficulties on my mind as to my priestly functions." To which the Bishop simply replied: "Indeed, pray what is her name?"

When Bahy was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria When she had Children, she gave them Castor
