

is CLEVELAND Year.

Everything for

Looks.

When purchasing a Bicycle this is all some people look at. Generally the poorer the bicycle the more profusely they are ornamented with gaudy enamel and decorations. If you cannot afford to buy the best buy a lower-priced bicycle made by a manufacturer who is known to possess absolutely unequalled facilities for accurate and economical construction, even though it is plainer in finish. CLEVELAND Bicycles are made in various grades to suit all purchasers.

THE ... UNION ADVOCATE

is one of the most up-to-date newspapers in the province. Of late we have been obliged, on account of our bountiful advertising patronage, which is the largest of any paper on the North Shore, to publish only the most important news in a condensed form. In the future we intend to issue a two page supplement which will contain a high class serial story entitled "Between Two Sins," by Bertha M. Clay and will be continued from week to week for about two months. Don't fail to read it.

OUR JOB PRINTING PLANT

is equipped to do any class of work in the latest and most up-to-date styles for which we ask very reasonable prices. We have a good variety of stationery and paper stock to select from.

We also solicit orders for the celebrated E. B. Eddy Co.'s wrapping paper, bags, etc. We have in stock a few rolls of wrapping paper in the following lengths;—15, 18, 24 and 30 also 100lbs. of cotton twine. Write us and you will save

THE SPRITE OF THE HILLTOP.

When you are hot and very still,
It's he for the sprite that lives on the hill,
Strutting about from peak to peak,
Over the stones in the mountain brook,
Along the path where the cattle go,
On a street where the bill follows now,
Down he flies him into the valley,
Then the shillie wheel round and round,
Goes rolling and rolling without a sound,
And a silver shimmer runs over the road,
And he runs after, and on he goes,
Swings the wild shillie round by the wall,
Tucks the far of a squirrel, and that is all,
A shillie of a squirrel, and that is all,
He is here again on the look of a shadow,
And he's already on a shillie along the track,
His quick feet make on the shillie's back,
Off he jumps and, whirling up,
Sells himself out of a shillie's track,
And yellow lines, all shiny and lacy,
Tumble headlong off the shillie's back,
He tucks the rib of a fat old toad,
And smoothes the malice with smoke of the road,
The fun's just beginning—still, all still,
The sprite has come to the top of the hill,

OMAHA CLAY.

Said to be the Best in the Country For Making Bricks.

"Omaha clay is the best in the country," says an old brickmaker, "either for machine or hand made bricks. This is because it is quick-drying and has very little sandstone in it. There is only a small amount of joint clay anywhere around. The latter will crack either in drying or burning and is found chiefly under the soil, running from one to six feet deep. But underneath it is the quicksand clay. A brickmaker who knows his business would strip off the soil and the joint clay before beginning to use any of it. But the good yellow quicksand clay, which is found under the joint clay, in many places around Omaha is crops out at the surface. This quicksand clay burns red, as it has a great deal of iron in it. To make good bricks in this country the bricks should be set quite green, or they will break in burning. This good clay runs from 10 to 15 feet deep around Omaha, and good clay can be found in all the hills. It is free from limestone, which, as every brickmaker knows, is a great drawback. If there were little pebbles of limestone, even if no larger than a pea, they would be burned in the bricks without being known. Then, when the brick became moist, the limestone would stick and the brick burst to pieces.

"This splendid clay for machine work because it is free from these pebbles and also from tree roots, which clog and break machines. It will stand any amount of rain, can be mud-baked, and does not burn in the bricks without being known. Then, when the brick became moist, the limestone would stick and the brick burst to pieces.

"It dries very fast and will make the hardest of vitrified pavement bricks. It is splendid in dry clay pressure work.

"But it is not an easy clay to burn. Ten days is the quickest time, and cannot dry fast as brick, but after the water smoke is off it can be burned rapidly.

"Bricks made from Omaha clay will not mildew in the walls or turn white as will some kinds, caused by alkali in the clay.

"Green bricks of this clay weigh about six pounds when green and five pounds when burned. When burned very hard, they are as heavy as when green."—Omaha World-Herald.

Antics of Electricity.

The mention of electricity of a frisky behavior will suggest to most people some of its actions on the trolley or electric street cars or in connection with electric light wires when it breaks loose which are all too dangerous a character to be amusing; nothing not as all its pranks on their own deck, though no "live" wire be within a mile of them. It does not always occur to our minds that electricity is playing a little trick when we take a sheet of writing paper from a pile and find it does not come alone, but drags along another sheet or more, sticking closer than a brother.

Similar action of the immense sheets of book paper in a printing press, and the states of the atmosphere—when one is ill on the form of type and has one or more others partially adhering to it for a moment, then taking flight away from the press to some dingy resting place—frequently leads the pressman in an uncomfortable state of digest.

Such action results from the attraction and repulsion of frictional electricity of the same kind that is produced by the chafing of the silk filaments against the rotating glass disk in the so-called "electrical machine." An experiment with the same kind of electricity which can easily be tried is to apply gentle friction to the face of cloth or paper, when, on bringing it near the wall of the apartment, it will be attracted thereby and adhere to the surface—be it wood, plaster or paper—for a brief time.—George J. Varney in Lippincott's.

Booth and Keen.

So far as we know, nobody ever commented on the character of older Booth in "Richard III," who, when the time came for him to fight Richmond, walked to a side room and received a sword from an invisible attendant. This frank conventionalism is not unamusing. Richard was there to fight, and he did fight, and how he got his sword was an inconceivable trifle no man need note in that moment of supreme effort.

Julius Bruns Booth's simplicity here is far preferable to Charles Keen's conduct in calling to the actor who played the part and who was crossing the stage at a rehearsal of "Macbeth" to answer the dead knocking at the gate. "Don't hide that key in your hand," cried Keen, "as if it were an ordinary key! Let everybody see it. It is a key of the period!"—"The Conventicles of the Drama," by Brander Matthews, in Scribner's.

His Mistake.

"What do you consider the greatest mistake of your life?" asked the chairman of the committee of women that was looking into the conditions existing in the penitentiary.

"Giving up good coal to a poor lawyer, bitterly repudiated the convict who has just been 'sent down.'"—Chicago Post.

Discouraging.

Adorer (feeling his way)—I—suppose your sister does not like my coming so often, does she?

Little Brother (confidently)—Oh, you needn't worry about sister! She can endure 'most anybody!—Philadelphia.

The Turks, Arabs, Persians and Egyptians drink coffee to excess, consuming some occasions not less than 80 cups a day. The cups are small, and they sip it as hot as it can be borne.

It has been demonstrated that the voices of women prompters are more distinct on the stage and are less audible in the auditorium than those of men.

"They Live in a House."

There are flats that rent for as much as houses do, some that rent for far more than many houses, but most flats rent for less than houses, and where this is true there is no doubt a certain degree of distinction in living in a house. The difference is perhaps taken note of more by children than by adults, but it may be that parents living in flats ask of their children about children of their acquaintance, "Do they live in a house or a flat?" and this though so many thousands of the city's population are now housed in flats.

"They live in a house" is a simple and yet curious modern phrase, with a simple enough and yet interesting significance.—New York Sun.

Successful.

"I hear Parker has written a novel."
"Yes."
"Successful?"
"Very. Whole edition sold in two hours."
"Indeed! That's fine."
"Oh, no! His father-in-law bought it in for his daughter's sake."—Person's Weekly.

Washing the Tiger.

A good story has been copied in the papers from a Moscow dispatch about a Cossack, ignorant of the French language and equally ignorant of fear, who was hired at Moscow by the Russian government to clean the cages of his wild beasts. Their understanding or misunderstanding was arranged by means of gestures and dumb show, as that unfortunate tower of Babel hindered intelligible speech between the Frenchman and the Cossack, and Pezon thought that the man thoroughly understood what he had to do.

The next morning the Tartar began his new duties by entering with buckets, sponges and lemons into the cages and began to wash the tiger, which lay asleep upon the floor. The fierce animal awoke and fixed his eyes upon the man, who calmly proceeded to wet the large sponge and, unstartled, to approach the tiger. At this moment Pezon appeared upon the scene and was struck with horror. Any sound or motion upon his part would intensify the danger of the situation by rousing the beast to fury, so he quietly waited till the need should arise to rush to the man's assistance.

The monkey, sponge in hand, approached the animal and, perfectly fearless, proceeded to rub him down, as if he had been a horse or dog, while the tiger, apparently delighted by the application of cold water, rolled over on his back, stretched out its paws, and, purring like a kitten, every part of its body to the Cossack, who washed her infant. These things the Cossack would have repeated the hazardous experiment upon the tiger's head, had not Pezon drawn him off with difficulty.—Emily Mayer Higgins in Lippincott's.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S RUSE.

Led to an Innocent Display of Her Father's Artillery.

Colonel L. N. Walker is the authority for a story which, as he says, is a proper one for the parlor and one which contains several suggestions of value to young ladies and their mothers, who may sometimes be in a position requiring the use of diplomatic tact. This story avers that in a certain place not very far away and at a time not very long ago there was a young man who was on better terms with his father than with his friends, another young man who stood high in the esteem of the community was on the other hand, was seriously afflicted with the ambition of meeting some nice young lady of culture and refinement who he had seen in a magazine, and when his accommodating friend told him of a very handsome maid of his acquaintance, he was not slow to visit to one of his friends, another young man who stood high in the esteem of the community was on the other hand, was seriously afflicted with the ambition of meeting some nice young lady of culture and refinement who he had seen in a magazine, and when his accommodating friend told him of a
