ber of very good acts on the new bill and now that the Lenten season is passed the management looks for large audiences all week. It would be hard to say which of three or four, turns is entitled to the position of honor on the bill. An artistic sketch entitled "A House Divided" was presentêd by Harry Corson Clarke Co. and it made a hit. The story of the little playlet is very simple, but the lines are bright and the situations funny the house is kept in a roar of laughter from start to finish. The story, briefly is as follows: Grace and Cyril, a young married couple, have found that they cannot liv. happily together and each, without the know-ledge of the other, decides to seek redress for their fancied wrongs in the divorce courts. The sketch opens livorce courts. The sketch opens when they meet together at a lawyer's aughter. Another excellent musical number was given by a quartette calling them-selves "The Country Choir." These people sang old popular melodies in a way that delighted the audience and encores were demanded. Marcello and Malina. European novelty sculptors, did a very unique turn. They modelled busts in cloth with astonishing rapidity and correct-ness. The act is not only novel; it is really artistic and clever. The Three Delton Brothers, comedy acrobats; McCloud and Melville, harp-ists and song and dance artists; Wink-ster and Kress, comedy acrobats and the kinetograph made up the regular bill. At the evening performance, which was a benefit for St. Patrick's Club, a number of Mr. John Hack-eti's pujis took part and were well received.

"Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," with Scott Welch in the leading part, is to be presented at the Grand on Friday night by Klaw & Erlanger. Following out this theory, he has provided an en-tertainment that would succeed along either of two lines, and as a result scores unusual success along both. His play might be considered entirely by itself, for there is a real plot that is acted for all there is in it by a company of real actors and actresses, and in addition there are enough song hits to entitle the piece to recognition and fame on that score alone, and make the fame of a mediocre musical comedy. In this case the songs have been subordinated to the, drama, and both gain in strength-thereby. It is filled with delicious com-edy moments, and one characterization in particular that has been so extraor-dinarily success that it has been made the basis for another play with the part the dominant feature. This is the ex-prize fighter "Kid Burns," portrayed by Scott Welch, whose naive viewpoint and quaint slang have been the talk of the theatregoing world ever since he was given to the stage two years ago. They also danced some, and did a little funny business. They did not shine as comedians as they did as musicians, however. Donald. Smith's Falls, April 20.-Henry Mc-Donald, an employee of the woolien mill at Burritt's Rapids, a short distance below Smith's Falls, had an experience yesterday that few men live to tell of. He was doing some work at the flume when he fell in and was carried its full length and under the bridge. The water is very high at that point at present, and the force of it almost carried him into the wheel. Just as he reached it, however, the current, as if by a miracle, tossed him to one side, and he was carried away in the overflow to a point below the mill, where a fel-low workman rescued him. He was pulled out more dead than alive, appar-ently, but in a short time he had recov-ered and was but little the worse of his thrilling experiment.
