Letters From a Successful Business Woman to Her Niece.

Dear Niece Joan:—

Of course I'm glad its to be stenography and typewriting, both because I started that way, and because I believe there will always be a great call for first class stenographers. What you say you have heard about the field being crowded is all very true. The field is crowded—most fields are—but remember this, niece—the hill isn't. And that's where I expect you to be.

I don't happen to be acquainted with either of the two schools you speak of, but when you say that one of them offers to make you a good stenographer in three months, that settles it. I don't want any introduction to that one.

Never lose sight, niece, of the fact that you can't get something for nothing in this world, and you'll have an axiom that will fit in, in love, and business, and a good many other relations of life.

Your specific training is to be your stock in trade, and if you pay little in time and money for it, you must expect it to inferior, just as a shopkeeper's would if he didn't pay standard prices.

The most hindering haste you can possibly make is in preparation for work.

I had a stenographer once who came from one of those schools and after a few weeks, instead of dismissing her on some pretext as her four previous employers had, I told her the truth, and said that I would lend her a hundred dollars and give her a position when she was ready for it, if she would start in all over again and really learn the business. She is one of my best stenographers to-day, but she wasted a year making haste too fast.

Of course I know you are anxious to get to work and earn money, but it's the race to the tortoise every time when preparation is the race track.

You think I'm lucky, niece, because I make better money than most of the men who started out when I did, but if it doesn't sound too much like self glorification your aunt would like to tell you that it wasn't all luck.

When I started in to be a stenographer I was in as tight a place financially as anyone could be and then a bit tighter. I had to borrow the money to take the course, and I can tell you it took a good deal of courage to borrow one hundred dollars and spend eight months, when some schools were offering to do it for fifty dollars in three months.

One of my girl friends took the shorter course and tried to persuade me, and I don't think I'll ever forget how I felt when she began earning her eight dollars a week while I was still paying out money.

How I used to envy her the pretty new clothes she kept buying. The only new thing I had that winter was a five dollar coat, the buying of which was such an event in my life that the whole family went in to help me select it.

I can tell you her eight dollars a week looked like a fortune to me then.

But, somehow, the twelve dollars she is earning to-day doesn't.

You see, niece, you are getting just what you asked for—my honest opinion.

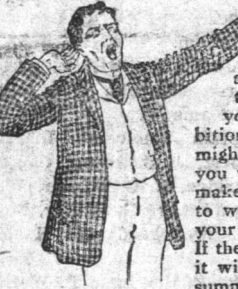

I wonder if you are like most people who only ask your advice in the hope that you will take the responsibility off their shoulders by advising them to do what they want, but know isn't best.

How about it?

Your plain speaking but affectionate Aunt.

Ruth Cameron

Do You Feel This Way?

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at nights unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to force ahead in the world left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your lazy liver to work. It will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. It will purify your blood. If there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about a cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice.

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good." Dr. Pierce's medicines are for serious consumption. HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Boiling, not hot, water greatly simplifies the peeling of tomatoes, the peeling of peaches or the scaling of fish. Simply plunge the fruit or fish into the boiling water for an instant.

Camphor is a valuable assistant for checking colds through inhalation, and stains on mirrors or windows are easily vanquished with camphor poured on flannel and rubbed on until dry.

When next cooking prunes, just before removing them from the stove add a little arrowroot, wet with cold water. This will thicken the syrup ever so slightly, enhancing the flavor of the fruit.

The odor of onions may be removed from the hands by rubbing them with dry mustard. Articles if sprinkled with mustard and then lightly shaken, will be freed from all odor left by gasoline or other cleansing fluid.

Raisins or currants, whether for cake or pudding, will be richer in flavor if they are plumped the day before they are used. To do this, plunge the fruit into boiling water and then spread it on pans or a pastry board to dry.

A good old-fashioned way of cleaning iron kettles when they are rusty is to fill them with hay and water and let the water come to a boil.

Another way is to put potato peelings into the kettle and boil hard for a short time.

Terra-cotta figures may be washed with soft water, applying very little and using a brush when necessary. A little soft soap could be used, putting it in the water; fuller's earth removes grease stains; polish with an old silk cloth.

When ink is spilled on the carpet take up as much as possible with blotting paper. Then apply milk with a cloth, changing the milk often. When the ink has been removed, wash with ammonia and water and the stain will vanish.

An excellent way to freshen a carpet is to put a tablespoonful of ammonia into a pail of warm water and wipe the carpet with a cloth wrung out of it. This removes the dust, brightens the colors and will kill any insect harbouring there.

Slippers for dress occasions, especially when of the light-colored silk or leather, should be kept carefully wrapped in soft tissue paper when not in use. Not only should the slippers be slipped on shoe-trees, but they should be kept well protected in boxes or drawers.

Individual shortcakes either of dough or cake batter are attractive as a luncheon dessert. Bake in deep gem pans, flat on the bottom and three inches in diameter. When baked cut in half, fill with fruit mixture, heap fruit on top and serve with whipped or plain cream.

It is a comparatively simple matter to remove paint stains, which are old, from cotton or woolen goods, if this method is followed: First cover the spots with olive oil or butter, rubbing in well. At the end of 15 minutes sponge vigorously with chloroform until every vestige of the paint disappears.

When silverware gets tarnished, if it is washed in a pint of very hot water to which has been added one teaspoonful of aqua ammonia, rubbed with a soft brush and dried with a clean linen towel, then rubbed very dry with chamolis, it will become again very brilliant and will last much longer than if polished with powders.

White marks on mahogany are often caused by hot dishes having been put on a table without a mat underneath. To remove, rub with a little sweet oil, then with spirits of wine and polish with a soft, clean cloth. For ink stains drop one drop of nitre on the spot and then wash it off, using lukewarm water and a soft rag.

To remove grass stains from children's clothing, wet stains well with alcohol, then wash. Mildewed articles should be wet in soapsuds, the spots covered with a paste of soft soap and powdered chalk, and the article exposed to the sun for several hours. When washed the spots will usually disappear after one treatment. If not, repeat it.

Cable From the Pope—Magnificent Sight at St. James' Cathedral.

Balmoral, Sept. 6, 1910.

His Eminence Cardinal Vannutelli, Montreal:

"I sincerely thank your Eminence and all who are present at the International Eucharistic Congress in Montreal for the expressions of loyalty and good wishes contained in the telegram which I have received to-day with much pleasure and satisfaction."
