King Dines With U. S. Ambassador Choate-Col. Lynch's Case Comes Up in the House.

London, June 12.-While many positive statements respecting the British anti-Morgan shipping combination are printed, it is probable that nothing will be done until the conference of colonial premiers meets. Mr. Chamberlain is greatly interested in the question, and is taking it up as one of the gravest imperial interest. The king's good-will toward the United States was manifested by his presence last night at the United States ambassador's dinner, accompanied by the Queen and Princess Victoria. Proposed Changes in Discipline and Church Government.

Report of Committee on Memorials to General Conference Received.

Sarnia. June 11.-The London Conference completed its labors this morning, after one of the most interesting and busy sessions on record. In anticipation of the meeting of the general conference many memorials for changes in the discipline and church government were discussed. The proposal to recognize by legislation the usage of issuing of invitations to ministers, the term of ministerial appointment, and the recognition of the principle, now more or less accepted in practice, of laymen having a voice in making appointments by the stationing committee, will be brought before dian Electric Association is being heil the general conference for memorials. Secretary Birks read the following message of greeting from the Toronto Conference, which, he explained, was received the previous evening, but had been overlooked: "Fraternal greetings from Toronto Conference to London Conference; See I. Corinthians, i., 10: "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ve all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you, but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

Rev. H. W. McTavish suggested that in the light of the admonition contained in the greetings from Toronto the vote on the prohibition question be taken over again. The suggestion was received with laughter and applause, which was renewed when the secretary stated that their Toronto brethren had in their message returned the same passage of exhertation which this conference had sent to them. Rev. Dr. Gifford suggested that the cause of Methodism would be advanced if a man were set apart in each conference who would devote himself exclusively to mission work within the conference bounds. If this proposition were adopted it would be necessary, in order to insure success, that the man appointed to the work be willing to accept a moderate salary, similar to that of a fair average country circuit, and would not expect a fat thing. He was willing to make such sacrifice, and offered his services for the work if the suggestion met with the approval of the conference. It was decided that the matter be made the subject of a memorial to the general conference.

The report of the committee on memorials to general conference was taken up. The clauses referring to the length of the ministerial term elicited not a little discussion, amendments being offered making the term three, four and five years respectively. The committee recommended a fiveyear limit, but conference declined to make any recommendation, and left to general conference the responsibility of fixing the term. The question of regulations governing the usage of issuing invitations to ministers also gave rise to considerable discussion. Rev. Dr. Gundy's proposal that invitations be sent through the president, and that no invitation be recognized which is passed prior to the February meeting of the quarterly board preceding the annual conference, was adopted. General conference was also asked to make disciplinary provision regulating invitations to ministers, and requiring a majority vote for an invirequiring a majority vote for an invi-tation. The proposal that the lay delegates to annual conference be elected by ballot at the fourth meeting of the quarterly board in the pro-portion of one layman to each min-ister was forwarded without comment. The memorial for the selection of men of special ability for conference anniversaries was dropped. That providing for the examination of probationers and candidates by one central committee was indorsed. Conference decider to forward with approval the proposal to amend the manner of electing ministerial delegates to General Conference so that one-half the number be elected, and the other half be appointed in rotation from the men engaged in the active work, and conference declined to express disapproval, as recommended by the committee, of the memorial asking that the stationing committee be composed of one minister and one layman from each district. The remainder of the report was adopted. The statistical secretary reported that the increase in membership in the conference during the year was 384, that the amount raised for ministerial support was $129,894, leaving a will be enabled to leave for a vacation deficiency of $4,096. The total value of church property was $1,941,632, and
