The Tecs made an even split of the twin bill staged between the Brants and The Tecs made an even split of the twin bill staged between the Brants and themselves on Saturday over the river, taking the first by the meagre margin of 5 to 4, and presenting the last as a very, very slight token of the good visit the visitors had given them, 6 to 3. A record crowd saw the pastiming.

Despite the fact that it was a fifty-fifty split on the day's work, there was more loss than profit for the local braves on their afternoon. Herbst opposed Herman in the open-ing number, this being the former's third straight win since he and Bonesetter Reese came to grips. He held visiting red-stockinged gents to ten hits, five of which were sufficient, com-ing as they did, rather opportuntely in the third and fourth sections, to register four runs. Orme's triple and Werre's sacrifice fly brought in the first brace, and to make up the second pair, a walk and a scratch infield hit were mixed up with a ground out and Herman's single.

The Tecs had gathered one run in the third, when Curry on third as a result of a wild peg over second to cut off Herbst 1. him off, came in on Vandyke's centre-field sacrifice fly. ### THE SECOND GAME.

It would be a far happier task to drop a curtain on what happened in the sec-ond turn than detail how London ed it in the fat. Pinto was opposaropped in the three transfer and in the brief but sad affair was found for a dozen hits, whilst his team mates gave a sad exhibition of circus throwing, tumbling and two per cent punch. By the time the fifth had rolled around six runs had been accumulated by Orme and his men. runs they got in the second on hit to Shay and Shay's wild peg. In the third Stupp singled, was sacrificed and stole third, coming in on Hartline's hard smash through the infield, a fast double play retiring the side. In the fifth three runs came in. Stutz threw wild to get Werre, and Stupp walked. coming in on Dye's double, which was within inches of the foul line. Babe came in on Culley's smash to centre.

Fans Thirteen Wolves—Held Umpires—O'Hearne and Cavanugh.

This generosity found an answering spark in Oscar Beecher, who started in to show in the sixth that there was still worse baseball in the world than this. He was helped out, too, and the result was a brief exhibition of the kind of ball that puts managers in warm, comfortable, but padded cells. Shay singled to start, and then Stutz sent down a slow bounder to Edgren, who had plenty of time to make his choice. He chose to get Shay going into second, and while Stupp was waiting panelalantly to take the easy page. into second, and while Stupp was waiting nonchalantly to take the easy peg. HAMILTON, Aug. 14.-Kitchener's pitchers had another rough passage against the Hams in this afternoon's game, and the locals took the third straight game, sweeping the series. The score was 10 to 2. Mattes, who joined the Hamilton club only two weeks ago, won his third straight game, allowing seven well-scattered hits. Kitchener started out with Condon, but he was pounded hard in the first and sixth inpounded hard in the first and sixth in-mings, finally retiring in favor of Karl. He was harder to hit, but the Hams had a big lead at that stage, and did not have to hustle.
