Society, by stimulating its future efforts in the cause of science. Your Council therefore feel that it is unnecessary for them to urge upon the members of this Society the necessity of cordial unanimity and zeal in their exertions to contribute to so desirable an object. Your Council, under this impression, adopted the Report, and proceeded to make arrangements for the disposal of the present building, and the erection of a new one, hoping that this might be effected before the meeting of the American Association. Plans of a new building were accordingly prepared and submitted to a special Meeting of the Society. However it was found that the sum of £2000, for which the Council were authorized to dispose of the building, would not be sufficient for the purpose contemplated; it was,
