

"Dorothy, as she lay there . . . suddenly saw the flashing of gold and steel in the firelight, and became aware that her cousin Frank was kneeling by her side."—(p. 158.)