STUDENT LIFE.

THE Rev Dr. Robertson delivered a very interesting address here recently on "Mission work in the North West." If Dame Rumour speak truly, his efforts have not been fruitless, for we have heard that some of the graduates and under graduates are hearkening to his and Horace Greeley's words of counsel: "Young man, go West."

One of these shadowy individuals called insurance agents, hovered round our halls for a few days. He evidently was seeking to waylay our graduating class, but failed to report his success at our office.

H. C. Sutherland has been elected the valedictorian of his class. He is favorably known as an advocate of wholesome brevity in all college exercises, and there is ample room for an application of this sound principle on the night of convocation.

Two of our students have distinguished themselves outside the college. We quote from an account in a daily paper of a concert in the Fraser Institute: "John R. Dobson entertained with some readings, and Donald Guthrie was heard in a couple of recitations. Both gentlemen displayed much elocutionary skill."

Photographers seem to be reaping their harvest now. The First Year Theology is getting a class photo, and it is rumored that the Arts Freshmen are following their example. The JOURNAL staff has had the annual photos taken with everyone, of course, deeply interested in an article that is being discussed. The graduates expect their class picture to excel all the others, but there is differences of opinion on the subject.

We sympathize with some of our fellows in the loss soon to overtake them. The telephone is to be removed from the college, and after the kalends
