discourage a fish diet or the making of good country or city roads as to open a campaign against the special instruments that facilitate Sabbath-breaking. There is no more immoral steel or rubber about a bicycle in use on Sunday than on Monday. A war upon the wheel as a wheel is sure to expose the warrior to ridicule. Such a campaign is useless. The only route to reform is through the intelligence and conscience of riders. It is easy to see that some men on wheels on Sunday may be in a better state of mind or soul or morals than some others who go about on foot. The sole test is in the intent and spirit of the rider. Every person can judge for himself, but is not a final and authoritative tribunal for others. Some people abstain from walking out on Sunday lest they should seem to identify themselves with others who 'do their own pleasure' on God's day. The Bible contains a prohibition for those who 'go with the multitude to do evil.' If a Christian man has legitimate errand of mercy on Sunday he is as much entitled to ride on the wheel as he is to walk."
