

This chart shows the constant shift in Canada's population from the country to towns and cities during the past century. Canada's total population is approximately 14 million.