

markets. Singapore's exports consist either of raw materials, primarily rubber and tin from Malaysia and Indonesia, and manufactured products from, among others, its electronics industry.