

Should Canada Take The Lead In Signing The Treaty?

Two thirds (66%) of Canadians think that Canada should take the lead and sign an international agreement banning landmines by the end of this year, whether or not most of the other countries are ready to sign this agreement. Three in ten (29%) feel that it would be better for Canada to wait until almost all of the other countries are ready to sign it as well. Five percent (5%) of Canadians aren't sure which option they prefer.

Views of Signing Ban for Anti-Personnel Landmines

Which of these two views is closer to your own?"

Base: All respondents: 1500

Canadians most likely to support Canada taking the lead include British Columbians (77%), men (70%), university graduates (76%) and more affluent Canadians (76%).