MOBILIZATION ACT—MEN OF CALL-UP AGE IN RESERVE ARMY

Mr. STOKES:

1. Are men of call-up age who are serving in the reserve army not required to report for training, service and duty, pursuant to the National Resources Mobilization Act?

2. If so, what are the reasons for not requiring them to report for service and duty?

3. Are any conditions attached to their postponement of service and duty?

4. If so, what are such conditions?

Mr. MITCHELL:

1. Those of the rank of corporal, or lower, are called in the ordinary course. Those above the rank of corporal are not sent "Order—Medical Examination" without the consent of the representative of the Department of National Defence.

2. Section 10(15) was put in the regulations at the request of the Department of National Defence. As the men are being called for that department, it was felt that they were best able to decide how the men could be most usefully employed.

3. Yes.

4. Only that they are in the reserve army with the rank senior to that of corporal and the Department of National Defence has not requested that they be called up.
