

The fruiting corymb becomes widely divaricate and dichotomous. The fruit is dry, club-shaped, pedunculated, having its 5 angles beset with rows of very glutinous asperities. The seeds are even, oval and oblong.

THE END.