PRIVY COUNCIL A TRAVELING BODY

That is Haldane's Solution of Vexed Question of Supreme Court.

COULD SIT IN CANADA

Appellate Tribunal Would Consequently Not Be "Outside Ourselves."

LONDON, Nov. 4. (Wednesday.)—The A. P. Lord Chancellor Haldane, speaking last night at University College upon "The Legal and Political Unity of the Empire," made some interesting remarks on the establishment of the judicial committee of the privy council as a movable imperial court.

He thought that it was a very great deal of thought to this subject, and the other day when in Canada he was struck with the feeling among those best competent to give an authoritative opinion that if any change took place they did not want to appear to some new court outside the Dominion. It was easy to talk about an imperial court of appeal. It was not easy to do a thing which did not trench on the just claim of the Dominions across the seas to be self-contained.

"Canadians valued the appeal to the King in council very much and if anything was to be done after the judicial arrangement they hoped the foundation of appeal and from which they did not want to be varied. He thought that it was a very great deal of thought to this subject, and the other day when in Canada he was struck with the feeling among those best competent to give an authoritative opinion that if any change took place they did not want to appear to some new court outside the Dominion. It was easy to talk about an imperial court of appeal. It was not easy to do a thing which did not trench on the just claim of the Dominions across the seas to be self-contained.

How It Works Out.

"Well," proceeded the lord chancellor, "both parties in the state agree that the existing second chamber must be reformed in a fashion that will make it possible for the Dominion of Wales, Scotland and Ireland, and that when that comes we can have a new appellate court. What can that be? I have the impression that it will work out so that presently we will have to think of it in this way: "That this great link of empire will be further developed and that in the future, whether from the course forming part of the King's dominions outside these islands, or from the course forming part of the King's dominions outside these islands, will be to the King in council, just as it had been proposed with Irish appeals to the home office."

"That will involve a certain change, and the work will be far too great for the judicial committee as at present constituted. Supposing that body were still more enlarged and an important part of the work of the committee, and as the privy council is an imperial body, containing chief justices in most of the different parts of the empire, you have got at once a court that does not offend the canon which self-governing dominions set up that the supreme court should not be outside themselves."

"In this scheme," continued Lord Haldane, "I see a ready solution of the problems vexing the minds of many statesmen. Supposing we had a boundary case out in Canada. What would be more easy so and sit as the King's imperial privy council committee in Canada, and deal with these things in the spot?"

Imperial Unification.

In conclusion, he said that the reform of transferring appeals to the King in council and enabling the judicial committee to sit in the dominions, would be a good step in the solution of the problem of imperial unification.

Tannary Admits Rout

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Can. Press.)—Thomas Smith, secretary of Tannary Hall, late tonight said: "It looks like we have lost everything. Mitchell was elected by 100 votes, and I look as if we had lost every other place, including the New York County ticket."

CONDUCTED BY MRS EDMUND PHILLIPS

The president of the Academy of Medicine and Mrs. Hamilton gave a very large at home yesterday at Queen's Park, to meet Sir Rickman J. Godlee, Bart., and Lady Godlee, who wore a very handsome gown of black moire velvet, with a black thread lace over white, with diamond ornaments; her hat was of black velvet with wreath and upstanding plume of black ostrich feathers, and she carried a sheaf of sunset roses; the president received also Sir Rickman Godlee, and Mrs. Hamilton, the latter wearing a very bonnie black embroidered net, the bodice over white satin, with collar of Carrickmacross lace and diamond and enamel ornaments, her bouquet was of bride roses and mauve orchids. The company was so large, over 500, that a large marquee had been erected on the lawn at the back of the building, where the long tea-table was arranged with scarlet silk and vases of white and yellow chrysanthemums; the whole of the room was decorated in the academy looked very pretty, the mantelpieces banked with ferns and chrysanthemums and groups of palms in the corners, the decorations of the past presidents making a very admirable background. Lady Gibson was present, accompanied by Mrs. Mallock (Hamilton) and Major Caldwell.

Mrs. Walter Willison (formerly Miss Vivian Boulton) received yesterday for the first time her bride, Miss Lucy Lucie wedding gown of ivory velvet with lace bodice trimmed with iridescent grapes, made over pink chiffon, the petticoat also being of pink chiffon; she carried a bouquet of pink Killarney roses. Mrs. McIlroy looked very handsome in black and white brocade crepe de chene with drapery of black lace with white over the bodice, diamond and pearl ornaments and a bouquet of orchids and lilies. The drawing-room was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and the polished tea-table in the dining-room was centred with real lace and a large silver bowl of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Elsie, Mrs. Cyrl Watson were in charge of the tea, assisted by the bridesmaids in their pretty imported gowns; they were Miss Clouston, Miss Marjory Haskins, Miss Claire Corson and Miss Eleanor MacKenzie.

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Peuchen gave a very smart dance last night for their only daughter, Miss Jessie Peuchen, who is coming out this season, and looked lovely last night in white satin and lace with an armful of velvet rosebuds; Mrs. Peuchen looked very handsome in black and white velvet and satin, the black lace bodice mounted on white lace, a necklace of magnificent diamonds stars and a bouquet of mauve orchids. The ballroom was decorated with a profusion of chrysanthemums, ferns and beauty roses, the orchestra playing behind a screen, and the refreshment table at small tables with beauty roses, and the 350 young people danced until the last note of the program was played. A very few married people were present. Among them were Col. and Mrs. J. B. Miller, the latter wearing a blue and white gown with a crown of blue and white flowers, and a crown of blue and white flowers, and a crown of blue and white flowers.

Receiving Today.

Receptions Miscellaneous.

Mrs. Rose J. Craig, 14 Westminster avenue, had a reception on Thursday, but the 13th inst. and not again until the new year. Mrs. H. H. Jackson, Dundas street, had a reception on Thursday, Mrs. W. J. Colworth, Sunnyside avenue, not until the first Wednesday in December.

WARD ONE TORIERS ELECT OFFICERS

Chas. Doughty President After Stiffest Election in Many Years.

HON. A. E. KEMP SPOKE

Hon. Dr. Pyne Discussed Bilingual Schools—Some Criticism.

The annual meeting of Ward One Conservative Association last night was one of the largest for some years. Polling for the election of officers started at 5 o'clock and continued until 8, finally resulting in the election of the following: President, Charles Doughty; first vice-president, William Fenwick; second vice-president, Henry Fassano. Among those on the platform at the meeting, which followed were: Hon. A. E. Kemp, Dr. Pyne, J. C. McDonald, controller, Church and former president of the association. Hon. Mr. Kemp dealt with the work of the Board of Government during last session, and said that the government was now framing an act which would make it impossible for the opposition to conduct another campaign of obstruction. A way would be found, he said, to enable Canada to contribute to the defence of the empire.

Hon. Dr. Pyne.

Hon. Dr. Pyne discussed the various by-election results, which showed, he said, that the Whitney administration still had the entire confidence of the electors. With regard to the bilingual schools, he claimed that the government would make it a point to see that English was the only language taught in the schools of Ontario.

J. C. McDonald, K.C., criticized the government's attitude regarding bilingual schools, claiming promises made had not been carried out, and that privileges had been extended which could have been curtailed.

MEASURING OF THE INFINITELY SMALL

Billions of Billions of Atoms Contained in Pinch of Salt.

We know that the big telescopes, aided by the photographic plate, reveal stars to the number of at least one hundred millions lying utterly beyond the confines of our solar system. It is the smallest particle of matter visible under the microscope is greater by far than the total human population of the globe since the race developed. And a little instrument composed of two fragments of gold-leaf makes it possible to perform the miracle of counting these denizens of the realm of infinite littleness.

Within the smallest atom there is a something, almost two thousand times smaller than the atom itself—a something which is detachable from the atom, and susceptible of being measured as to its mass, and tested as to its electric charge with the aid of apparatus actually in use in the laboratory.

This ultimate particle of matter is called the electric corpuscle of electron. We owe our knowledge of it chiefly to Sir Joseph Thomson. It is the smallest thing in the world, and it is probably the least substance out of which all matter of whatever character is built.

As regards bulk, the electron is, according to the French physicist, Jean Becquerel, billions of billions of times smaller than the atom. To make the comparison vivid, Becquerel likens the electrons in an atom to a swarm of gnats gravitating about in the dome of a cathedral.
