ter: The market held fairly steady early, but towards the close suffered a sharp decline on liquidation, and closed weak at about the lowest point of the day. We see pothing in the situation to change our opinion, and believe in absence of demand prices will work lower.

Curn-Weather thruout the corn belt was simply perfect, and country offerings to-day were somewhat larger. Cash demand was rather quiet. The market, after ruling firm early, later developed weakness and suffered a severe decline, especially the nearby futures. If the country continues to sell, and cash demand does not improve, prices will have to work lower.

Oats-There was a fairly large trade in oats to-day, and the market ruled weak in sympathy with corn. There was considerable liquidation by longs, also good covering by shorts on the decline. Country offerings are increasing, but there was a somewhat, better cash demand on the break. Our stocks are so heavy they are a weight on the market, and likely to carry prices still lower.

Playfair, Martens & Co. say in their fortnightly letter: The recent discovery on the Hargrave mine at a depth of on the Hargrave mine at a depth of 380 feet has added immensely to the ore reserves, and it now appears that there are good possibilities of this mine rivalling its neighbor the Kerr Lake. The new vein runs into the Hargrave east lot from the Kerr Lake property and was reached by tunneling from the bottom of the deep shaft on the south lot. It required 456 feet of cross cut ting before the vein was struck, and it was opened up about 20 feet below the lowest Kerr Lake workings, so it is lowest Kerr Lake workings, so it is now known that values extend upward for at least 150 feet, and probably more.

The only COBALTS which are now being sold are coming from speculators who bought cheaper and are now taking profits. An advancing market has always to contend with this seiling, and when it appears prices are held in check for a time. COBALT STOCKS are by no means plentful, and this means another rise shortly. A much better price is now ruling for silver and this is a big factor on the profits of the Cobalt companies. We favor purchases of HARGRAVE, RIGHT-OF-WAY, BEAVER and PETERSON LAKE.
