Lemieux, and Herbert, the paying teller, could have managed to rob the bank in the manner it had been done. The president said that at different times, when he was absent from the city, he had entrusted the keys of the inner vault to these two men, and he was of the opinion that, they had openly conspired to rob the institution. Says Everybody Will Be Paid.

Finances of the Bank.

The capital stock of the Ville Marie on May 31, the end of the bank year, was 449,620, circulation $211,865, savings deposits $1,256,357, deposits on demand $227,298, discounts $1,3/3,333, of which only $67,000 was overdue, real estate $52,879, bank premises $66,503, and other assets $201,044, much of the latter being $70ck owned by the bank. The net profits of the year were $37,000.

The bank had 19 branches and did a good deal of business in the rural districts of the province. There were three offices in Montreal and these branches: Berthier-ville, Lachute, Lachine, Avonmore, Ont., Nicolet, Ste. Therese, &t.
