COMMERCE CHAMBER TO BOOST BUILDING OF MEDICAL SCHOOL SAYS UNIVERSITY

The newly-reorganized Chamber of perce is likely to come out strongly aind the proposal to build a new dical school in London. In the questionnaires that were sen the members it was found that large number of them had ed their opinion that the developof the Western University was ne of the projects that should be aken in hand at once. It is the inention to gather those interested in welfare of the Western University the welfare of the Western University into a strong committee which will aim to advance the interests of the university generally. The immediate task will be to get behind the movement for the building of a new medical school, which it is expected will be submitted at the end of the year to a vote of the ratepayers.

The accommodation at the medical school has been taxed this year more than any year in the history of the institution, and the directors say that it is evident that in the next few years the classes will steadily increase, and any further increase over this year's attendance will have to be turned, away unless something is done in the immediate future,

PRESIDENT SMITH OF L. D. SAINTS SPEAKS IN CITY

"Many people are afraid to look into and study the gospel of Christ, because it is, then that they see the frailty of their nature and their unbelief in the Almighty, and this cuts. They would rather be in the dark, as to their petty weaknesses," said Frederick M. Smith, president of Latter Day Saints, Reorganized Church, speaking by the Maitland Street L. D. S. Church Sunday. dwelt on the duty of a church ber to his or her church, during member to his or her church, during which he brought in the text, "Am I my brother's keeper?" which he fully discussed and described the attitude of different people towards God.

FACULTY RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY TONIGHT

The second of the series of faculty recitals will be given at the London Conservatory Hall tonight. A particularly interesting program will be presented by two artistes, Miss Dorinda Abbott and Mrs. Arthur Lyster, including some of the finest works of modern and classical composers.

Miss Abbott is a brilliant exponent of the singing methods of the famous Shakespeare, while Mrs. Lyster is a distinguished pupil of the pianist Godowsky.

NOVEMBER 1918 QUITE SUMMERY

Rainfall in November of this year was much heavier than in November 1917. This year 1.91 inches fell, while a year ago only .087 inches was measured.

Less snow fell this year in November, one and one-half inches, than in 1917, when eightl inches fell in November.

The temperatures this year ranged from 64 on November 7, to 19 on November 26. Last year November was much coller, the thermometer figures showing the highest .58, on the eleventh, and the lowest, 5 above, on the twenty-seventh.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock a Bible class for men and women was started under the direction of Raymond Smith, in connection with Christ Church, Jack Dickenson being appointed president of the men's section. It is proposed to develop the class on a united plan with both a male and female set of officers, so that eventually they may be separated, if desired, without any rupture or rearrangement.

President E. E. Braithwaite Urges Preparation For the NEEDS EXTENSION Influx of Population and Includes as Necessities New Medical School and Extenmodation.

President E. E. Braithwaite of the Western University and a director of the London Chamber of Commerce, is looking forward to the day when London is to be a great educational centre in the Dominion. "There is no city in Canada more favorably situated for higher education," he declares, explaining the reasons why.

Not only does he dream of a great influx of students to this university centre, but of a large increase in the population within the next few years, owing to the coming of immigration to Canada from the old world.

Europeans Coming.

He says: "After the American civil war there was a great movement of people to the western states. The northener fought by the side of the westerner and learned from him some of the advantages of life in the newer sections of the country. Similarly, many Europeans will have learned from Canadians, with whom they have been closely associated in the recent war, of the wonderful opportunities of this great Dominion, and in view of the fact that their homes have been broken up and their communities devastated, they will flock to this new world to make a fresh start. The west will absorb a large proportion of the newcomers, but many will remain in this premier province.

London's Opportunity.

"London, as the centre of this rich section of the province, will have a service, a nice, family, sociable kind, in which everybody took part from the preachers present to the tiniest babe who was obliged to crow to let its presence be known.

London's Opportunity.

"London, as the centre of this rich section of the province, will have a good chance for providing a permanent home for many of these, as well as for many of the returned soldiers from all parts of Western Ontario who will come back here for demobilization. I fully believe that this city may reasonably anticipate quite a considerable increase in population during the next few years.

Important Needs.

Interesting Decorations.

Just as on every other anniversary of the usual and decorations added the note of festivity. This year the touch of adornment was added by big clusters of chrysanthemums and flags, any number of them. There was a story about those flags which gave them unusual interest. To get back to the sermon which started with that query to the boys in the congregation about swimming. It was about a river that started as a tiny little trickling streaty from under the altar in a church and flowed out eastward, away towards the desert, increasing in volume as it made its way toing in volume as it made its way to-wards the sea, bringing health and heal-

During the service, Stretcher-Bearer Gordon Golby, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Golby, $20 Charlotte street, who was recently killed in action by a gas shell on the west front, was especially mentioned. Sympathy on behalf of the congregation was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Golby by Mr. McIntosh.
