OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

SOMEHOW.
Somehow the moonbeams linger,
Somehow they speak all day,
The night winds are whispering softly,
Somehow, I'm lonely, too,
Somehow the starlight's softer,
Somehow I don't know why,
You seem to be so near me,
Somehow it makes me sigh,
Somehow I hear you calling,
Somehow you're calling my name,
And the it seems but a whisper,
Somehow it's just the same,
Somehow I know you're waiting,
Somehow I know you're true,
The your eyes do not seem as bright,
Somehow they're just as blue,
Perhaps I'll never claim you,
Until we meet up there,
But somehow I know you'll greet
There on the golden stair.

A Golden Wedding To-Day

To-day the pioneer of the Canadian export provision trade will celebrate the diamond jubilee of his marriage. Sixty years ago, on Sept. 7, 1848, Dean Grasset solemnized the marriage of a young English couple, Herrington Cuff and Mary Stroud. To-day at the residence of their son-in-law, J. W. Thompson, 58 Howard-avenue, a family reunion, including seventeen grandchildren, will celebrate the 60th anniversary of the marriage. There are nine sons and daughters living and one daughter deceased. They are Mrs. Harold Mumford, Albert Cuff, Mrs. J. W. Thompson, Mrs. Wm. Caldwell (Montreal), H. W. Cuff, Jr., Fred Cuff (Philadelphia), Arthur Cuff (Trenton), Clarence Cuff (Sacramento, Cal.), and Thomas Cuff, Toronto. Mrs. Caldwell and her children are present from Montreal to attend the reunion.

Mr. Cuff came from Liverpool, where his father was a provision merchant, when 18 years of age. Speaking of that time to The World he exhibited a wonderfully retentive memory and vitality for a veteran of 84 years of age. "Toronto," he said, "was a small place then, there were not more than 20,000 inhabitants. There was only one brick building. It belonged to the Canada Company. East of the St. Lawrence Market you could get a clean sweep of the eastern district, which was taken up with lumber and coal yards, with only scattered buildings. I went into business on King-street and afterwards bought out Liddell's store at the St. Lawrence Market. At that time Toronto was the only grain market in the province and the farmers from long distances, especially in the winter when sleighing was good, used to bring their grain from as far as the most western parts of the province. It was a common thing when navigation was open for grain to be brought from the farmer's wagon and carried direct from the wagon on board ship.

"I had five stalls also in the St. Lawrence Market, and after a time disposed of three to Wm. Davies. There was no export ham or bacon to England and I sent an experimental shipment of a couple of tons to my father at Liverpool. The export was successful until the year of the Black Friday in New York, in 1869. Its effects were so bad in England that my shipments were sold for such low prices that it cleaned me out and I discontinued exporting. I confined myself afterwards to the retail provision business and had among my customers Sir John A. Macdonald and family. I remember him as a most affable man. I have always been a Conservative, tho not taking any active part in politics. I have always been an interested observer of municipal affairs and believe that Toronto is a great mistake when it failed to secure possession of the old Grand Trunk bell line. "I have always been a Methodist and was a member of the Methodist Church which met in the old church on the corner of Adelaide and Toronto streets. While there Rev. Dr. Punshon came to Toronto. He had no pastorate and occupied the next seat to mine. We became intimate friends, and when my daughter, Nettie, was on a visit to England he officiated at her wedding there. The members of the old church purchased McGill Square for the site of the Metropolitan Church. A wooden tabernacle was erected in which we worshipped at first. Dr. Punshon became pastor and it was thru him that the Metropolitan Church was built. I consider Dr. Punshon, Dr. Potts and Dr. Stafford the leading pastors there in the past. My wife and I keep up our membership at the Metropolitan, and I hope to among Metropolitan people when I get to heaven."

The respected couple have a very extensive circle of friends who will wish them many happy returns of their wedding day.

Marking Photographs.

Every one who has felt a sense of helplessness in looking over an old family album, full of photographs of those long since passed away—photographs without a mark to tell who the subject was or how old he was when the picture was taken—will agree that, if we are wise, we will write on the back of every photograph in our possession and on every photograph we give away, the name, date and age of the person. We may be sure that our descendants will be grateful to us for our pains.

The Kitchen Greenery.

Now is the time when, in the woods, to gather some rich earth and prepare for your kitchen "greenery." Take a small bowl or box, fill it with rich earth and plant in it mustard and turnip seed and lentils. You will have sufficient green all winter for garnishing or seasoning purposes. It also will add a pretty little touch of "summer" to your kitchen.

In Society.

On the eve of his marriage, the employees of Warwick Bros. & Rutter Saturday presented Mr. Geo. H. Weldon, head shipper, with a purse of gold. The firm also presented him with a check. The presentation was made by Mr. Harry Wilkinson on behalf of the employees and Weldon, who surprised, made a happy reply.

At the Western Baptist Church pastorage, 42 Macdonell-avenue, Miss Mabel Lombberger of 14 Melbourne-avenue was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Minnis of 75 Pearson-avenue. The young couple were attended only by the immediate relatives, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Irma H. Cawsett. They will continue to reside in this city.

Labor Day Excursions.
On account of Labor Day the Grand Trunk Railway System will issue return tickets at single fare between all stations in Canada, also to Buffalo, Black Rock, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge, N. Y., good going to-day, returning to-morrow. Secure tickets from any Grand Trunk agent.

Toronto World's Beauty Patterns

A Little Pleated Dress.

No. 804. This smart little dress is one of the prettiest of the pleated models and is suitable for the boys or girls. As represented in the illustration, it is laid in pleats that broaden out over the shoulders, in a way becoming to all children. The sleeve is in regular bishop style and a standing band affords a neat finish for the neck. A patent leather belt encircles the waist and completes the design. Serge, flannel, pique, gingham and gaities are all suggested for the making. For a child of four years
