TORONTO VERY PROUD OF WOMEN'S WAR WORK

Residents of This City Who Are Busy With Belgian Relief Within Reach of the Hun Shells.

Toronto has many women who have done and are doing exceptional work along patriotic lines, but there is no one anywhere of whom other women are more proud than they are of Mrs. Agar Adamson and those who were or are associated with her—Mrs. Irene-Taylor and Miss Margaret Saunders—in the work of caring for Belgian children and refugees at Furnes.

Almost since the war started this special work has been carried on with Mrs. Adamson as its directing head. The extent of the labors involved and the responsibilities that came with it can be only gleaned on this side of the water, yet, from letters from the Belgian Government, under which the schools and other benefactions are carried on, and thru letters, some of which have humor and pathos most interestingly mingled, sent from time to time by Mrs. Adamson herself, we get some very vivid glimpses of the splendid things being done by women from Toronto.

In a letter published this week the public is given one of the most graphic pictures of the results of a bombardment, yet the plight of the refugees, of whom Mrs. Adamson herself is one, is described so humorously that half the sting is taken from the recital without in the least minimizing the vision of the dangers to which the group of children, nurse and villagers were subjected.

Mrs. Irene-Taylor, it will be remembered, was honored by the King of Belgium with the Military Medal for her many offices, among which was attending the sick, in the course of which she contracted blood-poisoning. Miss Saunders was wounded by a bomb, which killed the girl with whom she was walking. Mrs. Adamson so far has escaped severe injuries, but has undergone many privations during her nearly three years of exceptional work for those whom she took in hand to serve.

It is well to concentrate on this idea of bread, for the household keeper that does her "bit" even to the extent of reducing the consumption of bread in her home to the appreciable amount of one-fourth of the quantity used up to the present, is doing something tangible and is showing an appreciation of the message sent out by the food controller, that "Victory is dependent upon the extent of your food service."

WOMEN DISCUSS ECONOMY. Special to The Toronto World. St. Thomas, Aug. 14.—An enthusiastic meeting of women, including the president of the Doherty Act League, Mrs. Thomas and Elgin County, was held in the city hall today for the purpose of discussing the purpose of the Doherty Act, which is to reduce the consumption of food.
