

NOT MONEY, HEARTS DESIRE OF CHURCH

Rev. Russell MacLean Pleads for Continuity of Historical Downtown Church.

A most enjoyable function was held in the hall of Garrison Church, corner of Portland and Stewart streets, last evening, the occasion being a social and supper tendered by the male members of the church. The late Ex-Ald. John McBrien occupied the chair and there were about 150 present.

Assistant Bishop Reeve spoke on the spirit of life to the congregation and the great necessity of holding up before the people of the present day the banner of a Christian character.

R. W. Allen spoke in relation of the congregation to the great work of the church. He considered too many congregations were marked with too narrow parochialism, each sameli one living for itself, and he advised that to get the best results, all must unite in the work throughout Canada. He referred particularly to the need for the continuing of St. John's in carrying on the great work in a district in which so many foreigners had their abodes.

A Historical Past
Rev. J. Russell MacLean, minister of the church, reminded those present that St. John's Church had an historical past. It had been built to meet the spiritual wants of the military, who were at one time stationed close by; and he earnestly urged that there was as much need just now for the church in the district as ever there was and asked all present to help bring about this result. "It is not money our church is seeking. It is the hearts of the people," said Mr. MacLean.

A splendid musical program of music was rendered by the Band of H. M. Army & Navy Veterans, under the baton of Mr. H. Chessell. In addition there were a number of songs and musical renditions, which were much enjoyed by those present.

The male attendants, under the capable direction of Mr. Tom Proctor, performed their catering duties in a most creditable manner.

Tag Day Receipts Top Thirty-Five Thousand Dollars, Not Including Cheques.

Those who were responsible for the organization of the Amputations' Association "Fragments from France" campaign were wearing a splendid smile when it was announced yesterday that the tag day receipts were $35,000. This figure, it was stated, was the largest ever secured on the streets of Toronto in a tag day, the nearest figure to that being $24,000. The grand total of $35,000 does not include several large cheques. These, added to those which the special subscriptions committee are out for, will, it is hoped, make the final figures at least $20,000 more. With this amount it is thought the endowment will be sufficient to carry on the club without further appeals.

"If the good people of this city could only see how grateful the men are, if they could only know how their great generosity has meant to these men, they would feel amply repaid for making the day such a success," said one of the women officials. This spirit prevailed everywhere yesterday among the workers who were so loyal to the maimed and blinded soldiers.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS FROM GAS

Suffering from the effects of gas poisoning, Mrs. Marshall was found unconscious in bed in her home, 143 Reconsfield avenue, at noon yesterday by her fourteen-year-old son, Harold. The police ambulance removed the woman to the Western Hospital. Her condition was reported as improving last night.

JAPAN WILL RENEW BRITISH ALLIANCE

Considers Pact Desirable as a Negative Instrument for Peace.

Tokio, May 31.—The cabinet has decided to open negotiations for a renewal and revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which Great Britain is said to be willing to maintain with modifications, according to The Yomiuri Shimbun. Some of the covenants will be changed to harmonize with the league of nations, the newspaper says it is believed there will be no alteration of the principle with regard to safeguarding the peace of Eastern Asia and the integrity of China, and maintenance of the rights and special interests of Japan and Great Britain in the far east.

Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, former premier, has issued a statement saying that altho the downfall of Russia and Germany has removed the original positive reasons for the alliance, the uncertain conditions in China and Siberia and the agitation on the part of the Mohammedans of southern Asia make a renewal of the pact desirable as a negative instrument of peace.

every word of evidence that he submitted. But the case will have a very different bearing if the defendant presses his charges and fails to prove them," added counsel.

Mr. Roebuck: "This case stands entirely on its own feet. It is absolutely dissociated from any previous case."

Evidence was then led and did not differ in any material respect to much of the evidence given in the recently heard case of O'Leary against Simpson, arising out of circumstances analogous to those in the present case.

In the O'Leary action the evidence was reported in full in The World.

Herbert Davis, manager of the International Poultry Company, gave an account of what transpired at the meeting of employees in June, 1919, when General Gunn came in, dressed in uniform, and made a statement in the course of which he mentioned Hevey by name and referred to him as a very conservative labor man.

He placed a credit of $5,000 in the name of Hevey and O'Leary in their own bank. No accounting was mentioned. He told plaintiff the story when he called at witness' plant. He afterwards made an affidavit, which figured in Simpson's statement.

Under cross-examination, witness swore that General Gunn had said at the meeting that Hevey and O'Leary were friendly towards employers, in that they were moderate men, opposed to the One Big Union and massed action. The suggestion of Gen. Gunn was not well received. Q. "On July 20 you swore an affidavit that Hevey solicited subscriptions?" A. "Some-one told me."

He had no personal knowledge of the fact stated in his affidavit that Hevey and O'Leary had made a canvass of the manufacturers personally and had got the money.

Mr. Barker, in the employ of the Dominion Shipbuilding Company for three years, when shown cheque was asked: "Do you recognize this cheque?" When Mr. Lucas objected to the line of evidence, but after a long argument the judge allowed the question. Witness then answered the question in the affirmative and stated that the cheque was endorsed by The

HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

Gillett's Lye has long been regarded as a household necessity because of the fact that it is useful in so many ways, and so satisfactory in every respect that no woman feels that she can keep house without it. labor leader. He said it was not an unusual thing for his company to subscribe to labor papers. "We subscribe to a great many just as we do to this one. By subscription I mean advertising subscription."

Defendant's Evidence.
Examined by Mr. Roebuck, defendant went over pretty much the same ground as was covered in the O'Leary action. He was familiar with the terms of the affidavits upon which his statement was founded. The affidavits were more clear than the statements given orally by the two gentlemen who gave him the information. He had made enquiries after Davies had made his affidavit. He decided after getting his enquiries completed to lay the matter before the Trades and Labor Council. He had seen the Metal Trades' Council on the night before the meeting, when he made his statement. They decided that witness was justified in laying the matter before the Trades and Labor Council. Prior to that he had prepared the statement complained of. He compiled the statement from the affidavits, except as regards the preamble and the last clause. He had no personal differences with Hevey. Witness, continuing, said that others were in possession of the information he had, but from other sources.

A Progressive Radical.
Cross-examined by Mr. Lucas, witness said that for eight years he had been honorary manager of The Industrial Banner before assuming his present position of managing editor about a year ago. He agreed that he was a progressive radical. Hevey he considered a reactionary or moderate. He admitted that a labor paper was better to be supported by labor men, but that was impossible. So long as editorially it was not affected by subscriptions from employers, he saw no reason why their advertisements should not be taken. His paper, The Banner, obtained and still gets a share of employers' support. He was not in favor of war between capital and labor. There should be negotiations. He was not an extremist. Q. "With all the evidence before you, you said you thought it was your duty to put the matter before the Trades and Labor Council?" Witness admitted that such was the case. When he made the charges the galleries were full and the press was in attendance, but he denied that he had anything to do with the setting of the stage.

At 5.45 the court adjourned to resume this morning.

Hot Days Are Salad Days

It's funny how even big meat eaters like to "pass it up" during the summer months for the more cooling, more easily digested salad. And think of the variety that is possible.

Salad Days Are Big Bread Days

To just "put that salad across" there is nothing like fresh, thin bread and butter. You must be sure, though, you get Lawrence's Bread—it's always fresh and doesn't pull apart or crumble in slicing. You are sure to like any of our bread, but when a special treat is desired, get our Dutch Brown Loaf. It cuts as thin as paper and tastes—well, it brings back that school-day appetite with a vengeance.
