MUNICIPAL POWER INQUIRY WHAT IT MEANS TO PUBLIC

Ontario Has Never Yet Enjoyed Its Own in Respect to the Great Power Sources.

"Electrical power is a driving and lighting medium is one of the great instruments of modern trade and commerce. It is a most important factor in the industrial and commercial development of the country. The benefits accruing from an abundant supply, distributed according to the needs of consumers, at a price within any reasonable degree of the cost of production are incalculable and far reaching," said W. P. Ellis, chairman of the Municipal Power Commission, to The World yesterday.

"Every dollar that the manufacturer saves in his cost of production enables him to make a still larger abatement in the selling price of his product and gives him so much extra leverage for the invasion of export markets and the building up of that great fabric of foreign trade which in the past has been described as the backbone of Britain's wealth. Every dollar that the manufacturer saves in his cost of production enables him to make a still larger abatement in the price of his domestic product and thereby increases the wealth of the home market, consumers, upon whose prosperity and accumulating wealth depends the power of a country to finance its own development and the giant undertakings that such development involves in the case of a young country like Canada.

Ellis, "are not accomplished at the cost of the manufacturer. They represent the necessary consequence of a decreased cost of production under the normal operation of competitive laws. Neither of course are they accomplished by any wave of the magician's wand. Time is required to reveal the full effect and reap the harvest involved. The harvest however is none the less real.

By Gradual Development.

"In laying down a great railway system, such as the Canadian Pacific Railway, from ocean to ocean, there must be, first, the conception of the project, next, the survey of the route, following which comes the building of the lines and equipment with all the mechanical construction involved, finally, the operation of the system, and, as an ultimate consequence, the linking of previously inaccessible wealth to the ports and markets of the world's commerce. Then, and not till then, are the foreseen fruits of the great project gathered. By similarly gradual stages is the production of the nation's wealth increased by an intelligent utilization of the gifts of nature and the scientific application of every means of increased efficiency.

"The manufacturer shares in the advantage of the increasing export and weather home markets amply compensate him in their larger demands for his far-reaching gift to the public of the savings effected by the various discoveries and improvements for diminishing costs. The direct benefits conferred upon manufacturers as a class, by economical development of this kind, are not monopolized by them, but are conferred also with a liberal hand upon society generally. Municipal corporations participate to the extent of their reduced power and lighting bills, the consequence of which is a diminution of taxation. Private householders participate similarly in reduced lighting accounts, with, in consequence, increased savings.

A Great Factor.

"The individual saving should be small and insignificant, and even so it should be apparently lying idle and unproductive in a savings bank account, it swells the great fund that performs a most important function in the development of the country. At 21st December, 1902, the small savings deposited in postoffice and government savings banks, in savings banks and in the loan and savings societies amounted, after making allowance for sums held in the chartered banks under deposit receipts, probably to the sum of $250,000,000. By means of this enormous fund the commercial and industrial development of the country is assisted and the financial necessities of government in part supplied. The direct result of this is a great accession to the national wealth, and therefore, a great impetus will be given to the trade and prosperity of the community.

There'll Be Obstruction.

"The work will not be carried to completion without criticism. It stands to reason that the electrical companies already in the field will not welcome the advent of a competitor whose single object is that of the most economical development and transmission of power for the public good. The public and the future may be trusted, however, to grasp at the proper time the advantages to be obtained by the municipal development indicated. Manufacturers will not pay from $100 down to $35 per horse power per annum for the power consumed. They will get an equivalent of acquiring 'he same service at, say, $15 per horse power per annum, or even less.

"Municipal and individual lighting bills at present rates will cease to be palatable when the opportunity presents itself of acquiring an equal service at a price involving reduction proportionate to the above. The public spirit of the municipalities that whose efforts the authorizing legislation is secured is commendable in the highest degree; and I can safely say that the work of the commissioners, who are charged with the duty of investigating the problem and advising the best mode of development will be watched with great public interest. The result of their investigation is awaited with equal interest, and most important of all, the public developments may be expected as a consequence thereof."

An Omen.

"The people of the Province of Ontario have never enjoyed their own in respect of the great sources of power within the province. Under recent legislation it has been made possible for the first time for municipalities to engage in electrical power development, the municipal power commission which has been appointed by a group of Ontario municipalities, of which Toronto is the chief, is at present engaged on an inquiry into the best mode of utilizing the resources of Niagara Falls for the well-being of the community.

"The work is being conducted under the supervision of skilled expert engineers and solely with the view of benefiting the municipal corporations, the manufacturers and the consumers generally of the province. No government or municipal expenditure could be more wisely made than an expenditure of this kind. If the efficiency of Niagara Falls should be brought to the doors of the manufacturers and the consumers of this province at the low cost at which it is capable of being transmitted, a great impetus will be given to the trade and prosperity of the community.

Baptist Society Concludes Convention—Discusses Canadian Affairs.

A busy day's work, Thursday concluded the annual convention of the Baptist Women's Missionary Society. It was held in the mission hall and most encouraging reports were received from the officers in charge of the home section of the society's work.

The Northwest was the subject of an address by Rev. D. B. Harkness at the morning session. There were in the past year 624 conversions and 327 baptisms. The church membership is 13,115. New churches have been organized. The membership 30 years ago was 1,000.

In the afternoon the following were elected to the mission board, to retire in 1905, Lady Boyd, Mrs. Dryden and Mrs. Alexander of Toronto; Mrs. Popplewell, Bramford; Mrs. W. E. Brantford; Mrs. John Hunt, Port Hope; to retire in 1907, Mrs. Hunt, Toronto; to retire in 1908, Mrs. Winkler, Toronto; to retire in 1910, Mrs. Moore, Toronto.

A resolution of appreciation was sent to the W.C.T.U. convention, now in session at Cornwall, and also of sympathy to the relatives of the late Mrs. John Harris of Bradford.

An address was delivered by Mrs. Peur, wife of the pioneer missionary in the Northwest, who spoke of the encouraging growth of the work in New Lisles, British Columbia, and the district.

Mrs. A. E. Massey of the Institute at Grand Lake spoke of the work there. Ten churches were now in operation in the district and there were 2100 women and several colporters. The Institute had 170 pupils, French, Protestant and Catholic, and the Indian and Chinese there had been 71 conversions.

Miss Little, the corresponding secretary, reported a cash balance of $102.22. The sum of $500 had been spent on the Galician sisters in the Northwest and the first Galician Protestant church in the world had been established in Overton, the society had spent $3100 on the work in Quebec.

Miss C. J. Holman gave an interesting talk on "Self-Abnegation."

Dr. Perry, addressing the evening meeting, taking as his text: "The Harvest Truly is Plentiful, but the Laborers are Few." The steps in mission interest, he said, were: first, prayer and then the personal calling. Sheep without shepherds were to be found all over the world and they needed pity and sympathy. This called for personal sending.

He told his troubles to Inspector Stark, who instructed Detective Cuddy to find the money on the thief. The result is that Young Horton is locked up on the charge of being the man who got that first.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Nov. 11.—(Cable.) On the objections to the Newfoundland agreement of the Newfoundland government, Premier Borden said the government deserved commendation for safeguarding the rights of the people. The situation was becoming more and more difficult, and it was wise to effect an arrangement to secure peace. The convention preserved to France the right of fishing for cod and lobster on the treaty shore. France gave bounties to fishing boats, thus giving an advantage over Newfoundland rivals. French fishermen could get the necessary bait if the owners of the fishing boats were willing to send supplies by steamer.

PERSONAL GOT MONEY LETTER.

Edgar Horton, who lives on Elm Grove-avenue is a student at Dr. Smith's veterinary college. So is J. E. Duff, whose home is in Cookstown. Duff receives remittances from his father.

A few days ago the postman left word at the college that there was a registered letter in the postoffice for Duff. When Duff went for his letter he was surprised to learn that some one had impersonated him and received the letter.

He told his troubles to Inspector Stark, who instructed Detective Cuddy to find the money on the thief. The result is that Young Horton is locked up on the charge of being the man who got that first.
