

MISS LONGFELLOW'S AMBITION. Miss Stepharie Longfellow, the star of "In the Bishop's Carriage," doesn't hope to write her name as high on the scroll of fame as the name of her illustrous uncle, the good, gray poet of Cambridge; nevertheless, Miss Longfellow is very ambitious. "I am very proud of my name," she said to an interviewer recently, "proud of the man who made it so great. But I sometimes wish I had been born just plain "Miss Nobody," and then I could make a name all by, myself. I want to do things-big things-but no matter what a Longfellow of this generation could do, it would seem a very mediocre achievement compared o "Hiawatha."

"I never play in Minneapolis that I lon't run out to Minnehaha Falls. No matter how hard I'm pressed for time, how frequent or long the rehearsals, I always make time for these little pil-

FLEET FOOTED AND PLUCKY. grimages. And I love it. But then,

Bert Crawley, the eleven-year-old who could be a Longfellow and not youngster who, in the R. C. B. C. love Minnehaha. And yet he never youngster who, In the R. C. B. C. even saw it—I think I'm the only one Marathon recently ran 10 miles in of the name who ever visited Laughthe remarkable time of 1 hour and 18 minutes. Bert stands 4 feet 4 inches high and weighs 65 pounds. of the name who ever visited Laugn-nearer to him than to gaze upon that pretty scene which he has never be-Fine public school, modern and up-to-date, recently erected at Fort Erie, Ont.

held, yet must have loved with is imagination. "The poet, you know, is only my grand-uncle. Not very close, is it? but it seems very near to be to such a great man. My father, Stephen Longfellow was his nephew, and I am called for him, Stephanie. Some day, when I am a little nearer to the distant goal my name sets for me, when I can play the parts I choose and not the parts chosen for me, I want Minnehaha, Hiawatha's sweetheart, done into a play for me, and a Longfellow shall give Longfellow's sweetest heroine to the public. Isn't that a nice ambition?"

Scene from "In the Bishop's Carriage," at the Grand Opera House this week.

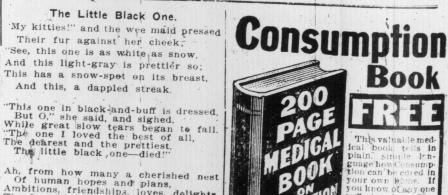

The Little Black One. My kitties!" and the wee maid pressed Their fur against her cheek; See, this one is as white as snow,

This has a snow-spot on its breast, And this, a dappled streak. "This one in black and buff is dressed, But O," she said, and sighed, While great slow tears began to fall. "The one I loved the best of all, The dearest and the prettiest, The little black one-died!"

Ah, from how many a cherished nest Of human hopes and plans, Ambitions, friendships, loves, delights, The dearest dreams of days and nights, The brightest and the preciousest Of woman's life or man's.

Some watching soul has missed the best. Some grieving heart has cried Over and over, sore bereft, And careless of the blessings left, "Ah me! Fate snatched the loveliest! The little black one died!" —Elizabeth Akers.

granted. Husband: Well, isn't it? Wife: No; I wish I hadn't married you.—Illustrated Bits.

and the second

stage of s they had tr d their cas

The J

mainly

upon th

An

on the

is repo

accordin

trouble

thru ret tobacco

USIN

Member Strar

LOND

The who

ed in the

try is d compose lords' a

the bud the hou solute co tion. Th issues, s trade, b the back the two While busy se of the g

general had lon

nance it to grow In Lo of their against

the mo

seen

pers

term

The

gain st Trafalga

too grea effect: Southpor and sho succeed Spencer Leith, created dressi

Foiled ed the sot their the win ecretar interru ly for chambe

Mr

perience in the lieved their case hopeless. Write at once to the Yonkerr sumption Remedy Co. 1437 Ros Kalamazoo, Mich., and they will from their Canadian Depot the a generous supply of the New T absolutely free, for they want even to have this wonderful cure befor inter Don't wall will the the befor you te. Don't wait - write ean the saving of your

WHEN SHIPS PUT INTO HARBOR. Stone Hookers' lying in winter quarters at the foot of Port Credit wharf. The "Stone Hooker" can afford to take Manufacturers' League Baseball Team, winners of the Manufacturers' League, with would be no chances after navigation closes. b .

LAYING PLANS FOR NEXT SEASON. Preston, with trophy and mascot.

n