DEMPSEY MAY

GET $300,000 FOR

ONE MINUTE WORK

(Mail and Empire, Toronto)

Whether the bout lasts one minute or fifteen rounds Jack Dempsey will be richer by $300,000 from his fight with Georges Carpentier, while the French boxer will receive $200,000 for his share in the battle. This is talking in big figures, and would certainly make strange ceding for those great fighters who many years ago used to fight, fight and finish an argument within the twenty-four hours. In the old days the argument of "pursue" did not enter into an argument; they fought for honor, and it was not necessary to build a special arena capable of seating sufficient people to enable the promoters to pay the enormous demands made by the fighters. In the early days the combatants would meet and make arrangements for a bout, and would then proceed with their many friends to the country, where ropes would be placed around to form a ring. It was not necessary to pay $20 for a ring-side seat, but you took your chance. Often the fight would have to be moved several times before the men could get down to business, because fighting against the law in those days, and police would often come on the scene and try to stop the fight. The fighters usually selected a piece of land situated on the borders of two English counties, and on the police of one county appearing the ring would be transferred to the other county.

How different are conditions today. Here for instance is a partial list of famous purses, and they appear to be growing by leaps and bounds.

Don't Get Unreasonably Alarmed Over it, Says a Magazine Writer.
(Forbes Magazine New York)
Don't you recall that not so long ago the talk was all of $100 suits this Fall and Spring, $20 shoes, 50-cent cotton, 30-cent sugar, $3 wheat, higher prices for automobiles and, in fact, almost everything else? Well, these prices have not materialized. You can buy suits for less than $50 instead of $100; shoes have been marked down and will probably go still lower; cotton is around 20 cents a pound instead of 50 cents; sugar is below half of 30 cents a pound; wheat has brought no $3 a bushel; automobiles have been substantially cut in price, and so have many other things.

What cost $5 can now be bought for $4, the authoritative "averages" record. In other words, the dollar, which couldn't buy even 50 cent's worth of merchandise a few months ago, can now buy considerably more than 50 cent's worth.

Yet what do we find? Widespread alarm over the way things are going. Panicky talk is indulged in. Business men who ought to know better talk as if the downward movement will never end—just as they talked so confidently not long ago to the effect that rising prices would go on and on. There is a limit to every trend, every industrial, every financial, every price swing. Extremes rarely last long. Normal conditions, so to speak, are the usual, the most common, the normal thing. What has been happening is the return towards the normal. Some prices no doubt will collapse too far, in fact, some of them appear already to have dropped to unreasonably low levels.

The wise policy to pursue is to keep one's head and refuse to be stampeded by seamy predictions that everything is bumping along towards predilection. The time to be ultra-conservative is at the height of a boom. The time to exercise confidence and courage is when prices become illogically low. Certain long-headed, far-sighted financiers and executives are now placing large orders for certain materials on the theory that a recovery in them will be witnessed during 1921. It is proverbial that the best time to buy is when everybody wants to sell.

This is a thought worth keeping prominently in mind during the current unsettlement and alarm.

"What to Wear!"

Personally, I'd prefer not to wear anything at all. And I'd not be ashamed; but others would, and I am compelled to wear all kinds of clothes, I do not care for.

"I was born lucky. I cannot knit, crochet or sew; but there are plenty of women who think they are doing me a kindness when they spend their leisure moments supplying me with dainty garments I do not need. I have a number of coats, hats, dresses; I'll hardly have a chance to wear them at all.

"I hate jewelry; yet I have enough rings and bracelets and earrings to last a lifetime. People seem to think that jewelry for all special occasions is what I crave. Yet I hate their special occasions and their jewelry. I'd much rather lie about perfectly naked and stare at the ceiling.

And it's all because people cannot appreciate simplicity! They seem to like it because I am simple; they are justified in making a fuss over me. They torture me with manifestations of their love, never troubling themselves to investigate whether I care for them or not. I despise their conceit.

You think I am silly? Perhaps. I am the baby!—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
