HOW GEO. B. JONES M. P. P., AT APOHAQUI, OBSERVES THE LAW

A few days ago an enterprising photographer had occasion to visit Jones Bros. mill, which is situated on the Millstream very near its junction with the Kennebec. There is an immense pile of sawdust along the Millstream at that point, the foot of the pile being in the bed of the stream, so that at every rise of water the stream enters into the bottom of the pile and carries away great quantities of the sawdust. As the autumn rains and high water may now be expected soon, it is evident that many tons of the sawdust will be swept away and carried into the Kennebec, and evidently the sawdust is dumped on the Millstream bank with the expectation that it will be so disposed of. This is the old story.

The photograph herewith published gives some idea of the extent of the sawdust pile, and shows a man with a horse and dump cart at the top of the pile. This exhibit is a particularly interesting one because of a letter written by Jones Bros. a few weeks ago when the Dominion fishery inspector was at the mill, in which they further intimated of the law against the pollution of streams. In that letter Mr. Jones or his firm (George B. Jones is one of the members of the legislature for Kings county) solemnly asserted that while he had attempted to prevent sawdust from being dumped into the Millstream, or so placed that the stream might wash it away, he could not always ward his men and that early in the spring they had ignored his instructions and actually dumped some sawdust where it was subsequently reached by an unusual rise of water.

The picture of the man with the dump cart on the top of the pile of sawdust would seem to indicate that Mr. Jones' employees are still ignoring his strict orders in this matter of the sawdust, and that, although Mr. Jones has not yet discovered it, some of the men in his employ are placing him in a position that a careless and censorious public might almost be led to suspect that Mr. Jones' right hand did not know what his left hand is doing.

How the photograph is to be reconciled of the statements made in Jones Bros. letter at the time the Dominion fishery officer was made by the Dominion fishery officer is a question upon which light is needed.

what you like, provided you are not found out; in a day when the relations between the sexes takes one back to Pagan times, while the garbage on which men and women feed is as foul and loathsome as the stuff over which they gloat and chatter; in a day when marriage has become so degraded and defiled that not even the pledge of truth can make it long and endurable without change of prospective partners in the hope of legalized vice; in a day when there is no empty place but in the cradle, nor room in which to move but in the chair; at the time when the Parisian physician smug up the situation, exclaiming: "C'est une poutrière."

"Ourselves that the cleavage today as in no previous time since the dawn of Christianity, is between God and Mammon; or shall I say, in language more definite still, between Catholicism and Agnosticism; it is evolutionary materialism itself. For confirmation of my strong assertions read the story of present-day life, as it is reflected in society, as it is mirrored forth on the stage, as it is shown up in the law courts, as it is writ large on our book stalls, or if you will, as it is published in society journals, in the monthly magazine, in the weekly pictorial and in the daily press.

"With Mammon, then, asserting itself, as it does amid all sections of the community in this twentieth century, with home life gone with social life demoralized, with our minds of industry life gambling hell, and the very streets like a nightmare, what I ask is to lift up and proclaim the interests of God against the devastating plague of frivolity, folly and riot?"

"Note well that before this tidal wave of Paganism stretching from sea to sea and river to river everything is going under with one exception, and that is our holy religion. The church of Christ indubitably one, infallibly true, indelibly good is the one and only institution that is holding her own and is 'temper idem' unchanged and unchangeable, amid all the wreckage and ruin littering the spaces of the world-like Christ, the church, too, remains today as it was, today as it will be forever. Her centre of gravity never shifts.

STATUE OF SIR LEONARD UNVEILED

Hon. Mr. Pugsley Pronounces Eulogy in Address at Ceremony—Premier Hazen, Sir Sanford Fleming and Mayor Speak

The unveiling of the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley yesterday afternoon in King square was one of the most interesting functions ever held in St. John. Among those present besides the speakers, Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Premier Hazen and Sir Sanford Fleming, were many who are prominent in the councils of the temperance party with which movement Sir Leonard had been identified all his life. The unveiling of the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley was one of the most interesting functions ever held in St. John. Among those present besides the speakers, Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Premier Hazen and Sir Sanford Fleming, were many who are prominent in the councils of the temperance party with which movement Sir Leonard had been identified all his life.

After the ceremony, which was performed by Hon. Mr. Hazen, the general public inspected the statue and were won in their expressions of praise of the beauty of its workmanship. The acting president of the Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. E. A. Smith, presented to James A. Belyea, K. C., chairman of the ceremonies, a handsome wreath of laurel which hung on the side of the pedestal. The Artillery Band was present and furnished appropriate music. A detachment from the Infantry Regiment under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Baxter was also present, and occupied the walk immediately to the south of the monument.

Surrounding the platform on which the speakers stood, seats had been arranged for 300 invited guests. The two front rows of these seats were reserved for Lady Tilley and her descendants. All these seats were occupied and many of the guests had to be content to occupy standing room near the barriers. All the walks in the square near the scene were crowded and every point of vantage was occupied. The band stand was filled with people and the memorial fountain at the edge of the square was occupied by many adventurous boys. The weather was ideal for the occasion, and all the speeches were of a high order of merit.

The proceedings were opened promptly at 4 o'clock by the chairman, J. A. Belyea, who expressed regret at the illness of George Robertson, chairman of the committee, which prevented him from being present. He referred to the many letters of the federal opposition; Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. W. S. Fielding, who is at present in England. Lieutenant-Governor Tweedie, R. L. Borden, leader of the federal opposition; Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. W. S. Fielding, who is at present in England. Lieutenant-Governor Tweedie, R. L. Borden, leader of the federal opposition; Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. W. S. Fielding, who is at present in England.

Premier Hazen, before unveiling the monument, said he had been recognized in the public life of the country, and in what high regard his memory is held by the people not only of this city but of the Dominion.

Sir Leonard Tilley was a very prominent figure in the politics of New Brunswick, when it formed one of a number of ununited provinces, having but slight intercourse with, and still less interest in, each other. Sir Leonard, with Sir John A. Macdonald, the Honorable George Brown, Honorable Charles Fisher, Sir Charles Tupper, that other eminent New Brunswicker, Honorable Peter Mitchell, and many other distinguished statesmen of that day of comparatively small things, had visions of the grand results which would follow both to the provinces and to the empire, from a union of the provinces of Canada, consisting of upper and lower Canada, with the maritime provinces, and directed all their energies towards its accomplishment. Many public men, of great influence, of undoubted wisdom and sincere patriotism opposed the project as being likely to result in disaster rather than benefit to the maritime provinces especially. Forty-three years passed since Confederation was accomplished, and while at times during that period the progress of the Dominion has not been entirely what might have been expected, and the development has at times been slow, yet upon the whole it has been satisfactory, and now, when we are approaching the close of the first half century of our history as a United Canada, few are found to question the wisdom of the great movement which resulted, first in the act of Confederation and subsequently in the bringing in of Prince Edward Island, Rupert's Land and British Columbia. Today the Dominion extends from coast to coast.

"Sir Leonard Tilley was one of the ablest, most prominent and most influential of the Fathers of Confederation. With a prophetic eye he looked into the future and predicted for the New Dominion a great and glorious destiny. While others doubted, he moved, and encouraged those who had confidence in his judgment, to move steadily onward in the path which would lead to the accomplishment of that destiny which he so clearly foresaw. For this every patriotic Canadian honors his memory."

His work, in accepting the trust, said he took it as a great honor. The tributes already paid to the memory of Sir Leonard Tilley by the premier of the province and Hon. Mr. Pugsley left little for him to say. Many times when he was a boy he had heard Sir Leonard Tilley speak on the advantages of confederation. Clever men had been arrayed on the opposite side of the question but the project of union had prevailed and they had come to realize that in union there was strength.

Sir Leonard Tilley had given the best that was in him freely to the service of his country and he hoped that the beautiful memorial that he unveiled that day might be a source of inspiration to the men of the present and future generations, and induce them to emulate the life of a man who had done so much for Canada, his native province and the city he had loved so much.

At the conclusion of the speech-making, the Artillery Band played the national anthem and the proceedings came to a close.

Among those present were: Hon. Geo. E. Foster, M. P., Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., Hon. J. K. Fleming, provincial secretary; Hon. Robert Maxwell, J. E. Wilson, M. P., and many other members of the local house. There were also many of the city clergyman of all denominations present, as well as prominent temperance workers.

Dr. Pugsley referred to Sir Leonard's loyalty to the empire and said: "It was my good fortune to serve as one of his honor's advisers when Sir Leonard Tilley was lieutenant governor of the province and the late Honorable A. G. Blair was premier. In that position I naturally enjoyed confidential relations with the governor and had a very good opportunity of forming a correct judgment regarding him, not as the politician, but as the man."

"He was always kind and considerate and I look back upon that period as among the happiest among the many happy epochs in my political career. His disposition, and kindly acts all made for the happiness of his friends and the benefit of his fellowmen."

"It is fitting that in this city, which he so long represented in the councils of the country, this city, which for many years has been his home, in this one of the city's beauty spots, should be erected this statue and strikingly beautiful monument, both as a token of the esteem in which he was held by those who have assisted in securing its erection, and by the general public, and to be a reminder to future generations of the far-reaching influence of a noble life such as was the life of Sir Leonard Tilley.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I esteem it a great privilege to have the opportunity to be present and take part in this interesting and impressive ceremony."

Sir Sanford Fleming
At the close of the address of the minister of public works, Sir Sanford Fleming said a few words and the chairman called upon the acting vice-president of the Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. E. A. Smith, who walked forward to the platform and handed to him a handsome laurel wreath which was hung on the northern side of the pedestal. Mr. Belyea then formally handed over the monument in trust to Mayor Frink and the members of the common council.

ROOSEVELT HINTS HE MAY AGAIN BE IN PUBLIC LIFE

Warns Manufacturers, if He Does, He Will Show Them No Mercy

Prepost, Ill., Sept. 8.—Colonel Roosevelt admitted today that there is a possibility of his returning to public life. In this connection he issued a warning to corrupt corporations that any aid they might extend him in obtaining any official place, would be at their own peril, and not with the idea of getting official favors or pardons later. The statement was in his address in connection with the fair of the various national organizations of railroad employees for the benefit of the home for the aged, railroad men of America at Highland Park (Ill.) P. J. Morrissey, former grand master of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, introduced him.

"I don't suppose I ever shall be in public life again," Colonel Roosevelt said, "but if I am there is always the chance that sometime it may come up when I shall make my words good. No corporation, no politician must ever support me for anything under the idea that I will pardon that corporation or that politician if he or it is corrupt."

"If either corporation or politician, either one or the other helps at any time to put me in a position of influence, let them remember that if they are corrupt, if they encourage corruption in others or if they benefit by it themselves, they help me at their peril, for I will hurt them if I get the chance."

Colonel Roosevelt also read an open letter by Wm. R. Hurst, in which Mr. Hurst advised the colonel to return to New York and take up the fight on the Republican organization there saying that if he did so, Mr. Hurst would be in sympathy with him.

The colonel said: "I am going back to my state, as mentioned by Mr. Hurst, to fight with the bosses. I welcome the support of any man who wishes to aid in that fight."

Colonel Roosevelt's experiences on the way from Milwaukee here were lively. At the various towns at which the train stopped large crowds were out to greet him, and he made a number of speeches relating his decision of honesty and good citizenship.

The Funeral Directors
About 100 of the delegates attended the banquet in White's restaurant last night, Sept. 7, when Miss Margaret Fitzgerald was in the chair. The toasts were: The King; City of St. John, Mayor Frink; Local Government, Hon. Robert Maxwell; Ladies, C. B. Olive; Our Guests, Prof. Dodge; Manufacturers, A. W. Murray; The Press, F. W. Walker; Nova Scotia Association, President John Gower; New Brunswick Association, D. A. Jones, and the Traveling Fraternity, G. W. Smith and R. W. Kay.

The secretary read telegrams of greetings from W. B. Thompson, secretary New Jersey F. D. Association; J. C. Vancamp, of the Canadian Embalmers' Association, Ontario; Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Genuing, of Waterloo (N. Y.), and H. P. Stone, secretary of the Alberta F. D. Association, Red Deer (Alta.) Rev. Dr. Phillips sent a letter in which he regretted his inability to be present.

The next place of meeting of the association will be in Halifax, the date to be decided on by the executive.
