

European Intelligence.

The Steamship Persia, from Liverpool 12th inst. arrived at New York on the 22d inst.

The steamship Indian Empire was appointed to sail from Galway for New York touching at Halifax, on Friday, the 18th of June.

GREAT BRITAIN.

On the 9th the House of Lords was not session, and the proceedings in the House of Commons were of little interest.

The bill relating to tenant-rights in Ireland was rejected by 135 majority.

On the 10th, in the Lords, on the motion of Lord Brougham, a bill was read a first time, the object of which was to render the fraudulent negotiation of bills of exchange penal.

The bill abolishing property qualifications for members of Parliament, was debated and read a second time.

The Earl of Malmesbury said that a final answer from the Neapolitan government, in regard to the Cagliari affair, might be expected in the course of the ensuing week.

Lord Goderich asked the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs whether there was any truth in the statements alleged to have been made by Mr. Mason, United States Minister to France, that there had been some communication between the governments of England and France upon the subject of the exportation of negroes from the west coast of Africa, in the course of which the British government had informed Count Walewski that they would not object to the French scheme for that purpose while the wants of the British colonies are being supplied by the Coptic trade.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that there must have been some grave misapprehension on the part of Mr. Mason in the statement he was alleged to have made. There had certainly been frequent communications with the government of France, but they principally consisted of expressions of regret that such a scheme should have originated, and still more that it should have been persisted in by the French Government. No concession had been made at any time or any kind, nor was there any intention of doing so.

The French government had, however, consented to the appointment of a commission to enquire into the scheme, and of that commission the British government could name one member.

The bill extending the franchise in counties to occupiers of ten-pound tenements, the same as in boroughs, was brought up for a second reading. Government opposed any action upon the measure at present, but upon a first vote there was a majority against government of 58, and the bill was read a second time.

On the 12th, in the Lords, Earl Malmesbury announced that the Cagliari affair had received a satisfactory solution. Naples had consented to pay £3000 by way of compensation to the English engineers, Watt and Park; the steamer was to be placed at the disposal of Queen Victoria and the Sardinians were released, and would be forthwith sent back to Genoa.

This announcement was received with loud cheering.

In the House of Commons, in reply to an enquiry, Lord Stanley said government had sent out a despatch to India, disapproving of the policy of annexation, disavowing the annexation of Dahr. He also stated that Lord Carnarvon's proclamation on the fall of Lucknow had been issued in a modified form, and that a spirit of conciliation had prevailed with a most satisfactory result.

Sir Charles Napier asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer if it was his intention to ask for an additional force of seamen and marines in consequence of the preparations making in some parts of Europe by sea and land, and whether, when the additional troops were sent to India, it was the intention of the government to call out an equal number of the militia, to replace them.

He contended that, from the present state of the army and navy in France, an attack upon England might be made with great chance of success.

Mr. Disraeli said that the Government was sensible of the responsibility under which it lay both of defending and vindicating its flag.

The gallant Admiral seemed to assume that those with whom it was now on terms of cordial friendship, not only intended to attack it suddenly, without the usual forms of declaration of war.

It was on terms of not only friendly, but of constant and confidential communication with France. There was no proof that any extraordinary preparations were making by sea or land in any country in Europe. England was now engaged in intimate endeavors with France to settle the most delicate subjects, and with every prospect of success.

It was true that questions had arisen between England and America which were of an embarrassing and even of a mischievous nature, but those are incidental to public affairs, and he believed that nothing would occur to disturb permanently the friendly feeling between the two nations. It was most injurious to the interests of England to assume other nations entertained hostile intentions. This policy of suspicion was unjust to other powers as it was hurtful to England. The government had, within a few hours, received a proof of the friendly feeling from a power whose real disquietude there had been fear. Mr. Disraeli then made a similar statement to that made by Lord Malmesbury in the House of Lords concerning the Cagliari affair.

Summary other members spoke on the subject, and Sir John Pakington declared his conviction that, at the shortest notice, England could assemble a fleet which would be able to cope with that of any country.

Mr. Enderstall called the attention to the arrest of Capt. Jenkins in New York.

Mr. Fitzgerald said Government had no official information on the subject, but would give it due attention.

The India resolutions were taken up, and after the rejection of a proposition by Lord John Russell, to limit the Council to twelve members, it was resolved that it should consist of not more than fifteen or less than twelve.

The London Times draws serious attention to the fact that France is arming on a large scale, both by land sea, with a method, a system, and a deliberation truly formidable to all her neighbors, and indicating that "she is gathering up her colossal strength, and would appear to be on the eve of some vast enterprise, in the prosecution of which that strength is to be put forth to the utmost."

The Times thinks the season arrived when England ought to speak plainly in the matter, and let the Emperor know that "he asks too much if he expects that he has at once to enjoy whatever power, support or influence his alliance with England may give him, and at the same time to inflict upon us, by his vast military and naval preparation, a war expenditure which we are most unwilling to incur, and which casts upon us many of the evils of a state of actual hostilities."

LATER FROM ENGLAND.

St. Johns, N. F., June 26. The steamship Ariel, from Southampton 16th inst. for New York, was boarded by Cape Race yesterday afternoon at 10 o'clock, by the News Yacht, of Associated Press, and a summary of the leading features of her news forwarded to this place.

Her advices present no political feature of special interest.

The Paris Maitre in referring to the statements of the British press, denies that any extraordinary war preparations are being made by France.

The screw steamer New York, of the New York and Glasgow line, was wrecked on the coast of Scotland on the 12th inst. Her passengers and crew were saved.

Later dates have been received from China.

It was rumored that the Chinese were preparing a general attack on the European settlements, and that they intended to destroy the European dwellings on the Honan side of the river.

It was further reported that the Imperial troops had taken possession of Nankin. The submarine cable between Reggio and Messina had been successfully laid.

Ship Norfolk, from Australia, with £100,000 in gold dust, had been spoken outside the channel, and would arrive in a few days. About £1,000,000 in gold is known to be en route from Australia for England.

The London Times containing the recent article on the French armaments was suppressed in France by the authorities.

ELECTION.—The writ for the election of a member for the city of St. John has been received by the Sheriff. We understand that Friday the 9th July will be nomination day, and the following Tuesday the day for election. The opportunity which the law of nations no English cruiser has the smallest right to interfere with any ship bearing the flag of the United States, save in so far as that right has been conferred by treaty. They will therefore withdraw the blockading squadron from the Cuban waters, and there is an end of our difference with the States upon this disagreeable subject.

The arrivals of Australian gold for the week exceed four hundred thousand pounds and other vessels conveying still more than this were looked for in a few days.

Funds were flat on Friday, and declined one-eighth. There was further increase in the demand for money.

MARKETS.

Consols 96½. Cotton declined ¼d. to ¼d. Breadstuffs depressed. Sugar steady. Timber continues at a depressed state with no indication of improvement. Supply during this season must be on a very reduced scale as compared with past years, otherwise the importation will leave a disastrous result to those concerned.

"THE BRITISH OUTRAGES" as they are termed by the blustering portion of the United States press are likely to dwindle into insignificance. After all the fuss and threats there appear no hopes of a war with England. The reports of outrages turn out to be nothing more than in one or two cases examining in the most gentlemanly and official manner the papers of suspicious looking craft; the irritation is fast passing away, and it is now positive that those dunghill cocks, who crowed so loudly and flapped their wings so valiantly are to be disappointed in their attempts to get up a fight or war between two great nations, whose interests are almost identical, who speak a common language, and are united by kindred blood. The proceedings in Parliament with reference to this matter, leave no room to doubt the Americans will receive indemnification where it is justly due; and the present movement may result in some beneficial change in the vexed question of "Right of Search." The British officers seldom exceed their instructions, and in every case where such has happened satisfaction has been rendered to the injured—and the official punished according to the nature of the offence. In the present issue we have yet to learn that there is anything to be gained by the Americans beyond perhaps a little political capital, and holding out hopes to the unemployed navy officers and shipbuilders of being soon called into active service—but they will be disappointed, and find out that the mission of the two great powers is not one of war, but of commerce and the arts of peace. May it ever continue.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Visiting, Invitation, and other Cards struck off at short notice.

The Standard.

ST. ANDREWS, JUNE 30, 1858.

Latest from Europe.

ARRIVAL OF THE ARABIA.

After our paper was ready for press, the following items of late news by the R. M. Steamship Arabia were received; some articles omitted this week, will be published in our next number.

The Arabia, Capt. Stone, from Liverpool 1 p. m., Saturday 19th, arrived at Halifax 1.30 p. m., Monday 28th.

Steamer Indian Empire was appointed to leave Galway for Halifax and New York—18th, as she was entering Galway harbour she ran upon a sunken rock and remained 2 hours but got off uninjured; two pilots in charge have been commended for trial for wilfully causing the disaster.

Nothing important had transpired in Parliament.

The Crown Princess of Sweden had given birth to a son.

The Danish election had resulted in favor of the Ministry and against the claims of the German Diet.

PRUSSIA.

It was rumored intended to increase the navy. The King of the Belgians had arrived in England on a visit to Queen Victoria.

Insurance in Candia ended peacefully. Considerable modification was spoken in the Belgian Cabinet, but not on political grounds.

The Rev. Jabez Bunting, one of the principal members of the Methodist Church, was dead, after 50 years spent in the Ministry.

A company has been formed for a Submarine Telegraph between England and India, via the Red Sea. Capital one million sterling.

Lengthy details of India news have been received including the march into Rohilcund, but nothing important additional, to the telegraph despatches. Russell the special correspondent of the London Times was preceded by a sun stroke.

LAFEST.

The London Times of the 10th, in a leader congratulates the government on having taken the advice of the law officers of the Crown, whose decided opinion it is that by international law we have no right of search and no right of visitation whatever in time of peace. Upon that opinion, Lord Derby and his colleagues are prepared to act. By the law of nations no English cruiser has the smallest right to interfere with any ship bearing the flag of the United States, save in so far as that right has been conferred by treaty. They will therefore withdraw the blockading squadron from the Cuban waters, and there is an end of our difference with the States upon this disagreeable subject.

The arrivals of Australian gold for the week exceed four hundred thousand pounds and other vessels conveying still more than this were looked for in a few days.

Funds were flat on Friday, and declined one-eighth. There was further increase in the demand for money.

MARKETS.

Consols 96½. Cotton declined ¼d. to ¼d. Breadstuffs depressed. Sugar steady. Timber continues at a depressed state with no indication of improvement. Supply during this season must be on a very reduced scale as compared with past years, otherwise the importation will leave a disastrous result to those concerned.

"THE BRITISH OUTRAGES" as they are termed by the blustering portion of the United States press are likely to dwindle into insignificance. After all the fuss and threats there appear no hopes of a war with England. The reports of outrages turn out to be nothing more than in one or two cases examining in the most gentlemanly and official manner the papers of suspicious looking craft; the irritation is fast passing away, and it is now positive that those dunghill cocks, who crowed so loudly and flapped their wings so valiantly are to be disappointed in their attempts to get up a fight or war between two great nations, whose interests are almost identical, who speak a common language, and are united by kindred blood. The proceedings in Parliament with reference to this matter, leave no room to doubt the Americans will receive indemnification where it is justly due; and the present movement may result in some beneficial change in the vexed question of "Right of Search." The British officers seldom exceed their instructions, and in every case where such has happened satisfaction has been rendered to the injured—and the official punished according to the nature of the offence. In the present issue we have yet to learn that there is anything to be gained by the Americans beyond perhaps a little political capital, and holding out hopes to the unemployed navy officers and shipbuilders of being soon called into active service—but they will be disappointed, and find out that the mission of the two great powers is not one of war, but of commerce and the arts of peace. May it ever continue.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

Our contemporary the "Investigator," though young in years is rapidly attaining maturity in growth—its proportions are already of goodly size, but it appears that its weekly visits are not sufficient for its friends, and that it is to be published twice a week. Our contemporary's sketches of Charlotte County are true to the letter—as well as other sketches of a political nature. The independent course carved out by the "Investigator" is the best one in the end—for Congressmen as well as men; although they do not like their faults and failings pointed out before the world; yet, have more regard for those who dare to expose them, than for the miserable sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters. As the "Investigator" cannot be purchased, by either side, its sting may occasionally be felt by some of its friends, as it does not spoil a joke for the sake of the sycophant or tame follower, who can only utter such language as may be sanctioned by his masters.

"Some years ago, the Synod of the Church of Scotland in this Province, ever zealous in the good cause, with the view to assist such young men, natives of or settled residents in the Province, as are desirous of becoming candidates for the ministry in connection with their Church, and who, without assistance, might be unable to devote themselves to the acquisition of the knowledge necessary, ordered yearly collections to be made in the several Churches belonging to the Synod, that thus a fund might be raised and supported, to be applied to the above purpose. The means at first required having been raised, two or three young men came forward to claim the assistance offered, who at once received it. One of these, now the Rev. Henry M'Lardy, of this city, has returned from Scotland a short time ago, having there completed his studies and procured a licence to preach. On Wednesday night last, in St. Andrew's Church here, he was ordained after having passed, we are told most satisfactorily, the necessary examination. Mr. M'Lardy, as the first result of the Synod's praiseworthy scheme, must, we are confident, already amply reward that body for their exertions, and in him they will find much cause for congratulation, as thus, even at its outset the success of their scheme has been most triumphant. Mr. M'Lardy is still but a very young man, nevertheless he has convinced more than ordinary talents as a preacher, and since his return from Scotland, he has been listened to by large and highly edified congregations wherever he has preached throughout the Province. A three years' engagement, as a Missionary in New Brunswick, we believe, was entered into by him previous to his departure from Scotland."—Courier.

The above named Reverend gentleman, preached in the Scotch Church here on Sabbath last, morning and afternoon, to large and attentive congregations. His enunciation is clear, his voice and manner pleasing, his periods well rounded, and his discourses eloquent. What is of greater consequence, he is a sincere and pious young man, and calculated from his talents to be a clergyman of no ordinary power—a blessing to the people and an ornament to the Church. New Brunswick may well be proud of him as one of her sons.

Rev. Mr. M'Lardy, accompanied by the Rev. John Ross, proceeded to Whittier's Ridge Church, on Monday, and preached to a large and delighted audience. On Tuesday morning he returned to St. John. —Ed. Standard.

PORT OF ST. ANDREWS.

ARRIVED.

June 25.—Bac. Vortex, Allan, Cardiff. Iron rails for the New Brunswick & Canada Railway and Land Co.

P. STARKEY,

Saddle and Harness Maker.

RESPECTFULLY announces to his friends and the public in general, that he continues to manufacture Carriages, Waggon and Cart Harness, Ladies and Gentlemen's Riding Saddles, Bridles, &c. He is also prepared to trim and decorate carriages in the latest style.

Thankful for the patronage he has received since commencing business, he trusts by attention and a desire to give satisfaction, to merit a continuance of the same.

Shop adjoining Mr. Butler's, West street, nearly opposite the "British House." St. Andrews, June 30, 1858.

Land for Sale.

THE Subscriber offers for Sale that valuable Lot of Land situated in the Parish of St. Patrick being described as lot No. 2, in the 2d Range of the Clarence Hill Settlement, and known as the "Ryan lot"—containing 100 Acres more or less. The land is well wooded with hard and soft wood, and among the latter is a good growth of pine. For terms, apply to John W. Hinkley, Eastport, or to

NATHAN SMART.

N. B.—All persons are forbid trespassing on said lot.

St. Andrews, June 30, 1858.—rm.

BAZAAR.