LIEUT. BORDEN FALLS.

Minister of Militia's Son Killed in Battle Near Pretoria.

LORD ROBERTS CABLES NEWS.

Young Canadian Soldier - Cel, Sam Hughes Is Coming Home - Cel. Herchmer's Case - Canadian Casualties - Field Marshal's

Army I. Active. Ottawa, July 18.—When a hero dies the whole country mourns. Another name was yesterday added to the long list of Canadian heroes killed in South Africa. A gloom fell upon the House of Commons, a shadow will fall upon Nova Scotia, and at least one home is made disconsolate. At 5 o'clock Hon. Dr. Borden sat in the House of Commons chatting genially with Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick. A few minutes later he was called out of the Chamber to hear the saddest news that a father can hear.

Squadron and an efficient officer.

The deceased was a great favorite in Nova Scotia. He received his early education in Mount Allison College and Sackville University, took an active part in athletics and was known all over the province.

He was one of the handsomest mea who went out with the second contingent. He stood six feet three inches, and weighed 198 hs. The deceased sisters are spending their vacation at Canning, N. S.

Dr. Borden and Mrs. Borden leave for Canning this morning.

Was thome the minded? It was rumored yesterday afternoon that the son of Thomas Mackie, M. P., had been wounded in the same fight as Lieut. Borden was killed in. Mr. Mackie, however, had received no such news. The last word from his son was received last Monday, when he was in excellent trim. The Militia Department has no news of Capt. Mackie.

The Militia Department has no news of Capt. Mackie.

The News at His Heme.

Kentville, N. S., July 18.—The news of the death of Lieut. Borden came as a shock here and in Canning, his home. Everyone was anxious to learn if it was confirmed. His sister is now at home in Canning, and is grief stricken. Mrs. Dr. Borden is his step-mother, but loved him as a son. He was popular here, and was an ideal soldier. He commanded the King's County Hussars at Aldershot one year, and was an ideal soldier. He commanded the King's County Hussars at Aldershot one year, and was complimented for his work. He held a first class certificate of the Royal School of Cavairy, and was qualified for high rank in the second contingent is with the force. At half past four yesterday after-noon His Excellency, Lord Minto, received the following cablegram:

"Pretoria, July 17, 1900.—Regret to inform Hon. Dr. Borden that his son was killed in action yesterday. (Signed) Roberts."

The message was sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier with the request that he should break the news to his Minister.

Broke the Sad News.

Sir Wilfrid hurriedly left the House when the cable was handed to him, and in his private office, with Col. Pineault and col. Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid feeling told Dr. Borden of his great sorrow.

The doctor was overcome and was taken to his home by Col. Pineault. In the corridors of the House the mews was received with more than ordinary melancholy, many a message of sympathy was sent to the Minister, while on every hand words of condolence were uttered.

in moving the adjournment, confirmed the rumor of his death, speaking with deep sympathy for his colleague.

Mr. Davin, who was leading the Opposition, voiced the grief of his fellow-Conservatives.

Death of Lean Burden.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made the following reference to the death of Lieut. Borden Before this motion to adjourn the House will agree that I may properly take this opportunity of confirming the sad rumor which has been circulated through the corridors of the House will agree that I may properly take this opportunity of confirming the sad rumor which has been circulated through the corridors of the House this alternoon to the effect that Lieut. Borden, son of the Minister of Militia and Defence, met his death yesterday in South Africa. This afternoon His Excellency received a telegram from Lord Roberts informing him that yesterday near Pretoria Lieut. Borden was killed in action. Lieut. Borden was killed in action. Lieut. Borden was a young man, who enlisted recently to fight for the Queen in South Africa. He was only 23 years of age, a young man of great promise, a thletic in figure, bright, intelligent, a model boy in every way. He had, as I am informed, already made a mark in his career, attracting the attention of his chiefs by his coolness under lire, by his daring, by his courage, and had won the affection of his comrades by his anniable disposition. This precious life has been cut short by the uncertainties of war. Now this event, I am sure, will reach the heart of every member of this House, and a popular member, and as I am reminded the only son. Whatever bitterness there may be of strife, I am sure that before such a misfortune all such bitterness disappears, and that on both sides of the House friends and foes will unite in offering to the bereaved father and to the bereaved mother that aympathy which can be the only solace of such a misfortune on this father and to the bereaved mothe that sympathy which can be the only solace of such a misfortune on this side of the grave.

Mr. Davin.

Mr. Nicholas Flood Pavin—I could wish that the hon leader of the Opposition (Sir Charles Tupper) were in his place in order that he might echo the sentiments which have been so fitly expressed by the right hon, gentleman (Sir Wifrid Laurier). A great statesman, sir, belonging to Athens, said that of great men who died the whole earth seems to be the mausoleum. I think it may be said that even of the humblest here who dies now under modern condi-weary grind had ended, and all the estimates were wound up.

At 5 p.m. the Criminal Code, with the Senate amendments thereto, was passed in review. Mr. Fitzpatrick said the only controversial amendment was the one refusing to make getting credit on talse pretences a crime. The Commons agreed with this.

The Election Act amendments with the commons agreed with the common agreement was the common agreement was the common agreement with the common agreement was th

d. The Commons agreed with this.

The Election Act amendments were accepted by the Commons, all except those relating to the conduct of elections in Prime Edward Island.

The bill of the subsidies was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Mulock's resolution regarding the sub-letting of contracts and the payment of current wages was presented.

Mr. Davin said he would support the resolution if a bill would follow.

Mr. Mulock explained that if the resolution pa sed it would be an obligation on the Government to embody the principle in all contracts, and that there are now several important contracts pending in which he wished authority to place this condition. As the payment of these wages would increase the cost of public buildings, etc., he desired fo have the sanction of Parliament before embodying it in the contracts. He pointed out that a clause in the subsidy act will make it applicable to all railways built under them.

Wr. Davin said that after such a positive declaration and that after such a positive declaration are provided to the provided by the principle in all contracts, and that there are now several important contracts pending in which he wished authority to place this condition. As the pointed out that a clause in the subsidy act will make it applicable to all railways built under them.

Sunday School Union Bible Dictionary "The heathen nations in the north of Europe dedicated this day to the Sun, and hence their Christian descendants continu to call the day Sunday."

"The ancient Saxons called it this name because upon it they worshiped the Sun"
Rel. Encyclopedia.
"It is also called Sunday from the old Roman denomination of diss solis, the day of the Sun to which it was sacred." Donay Catechism.

If the sacredness of the Seventh day abbath had such an origin as the Sunday had we would blush to advocate it, and if the pagan Sunday ever had any higher dedication or sacredness than the heathen gave to it we would be glad if some one would give us the proof. But we know they cannot do it, as Father O'Keefe says:— "they know that their best policy is to "lay low" and they have adopted it." "The Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it," Ex. 20:11.
