This was American day, and the Stars and Stripes were very much in evidence on the building, but the American citizens were few and far between, yesterday's storm having prevented many from venturing upon the trip across the straits, and as one of the sitors put it, others who would have liked to come were too busy to leave. However, those who did come seemed to be very well pleased with the exhibition looked after. For the races the track was in excellent condition, yesterday's rain and the warm sun of this morning having materially improved it. The races were all well filled and a good day's sport was the result.

Wiggins had made a pretty good guess, nessed for many years. Despite all this good sport. a few hundred people attended the exhibition, but only a handful ventured out en by J. H. The track was very heavy, the mud being a couple of inches deep, but with the exception of the steeplechase, which was postponed until Saturday, all the races took place.

In the 2:40 trot, Snohomish Boy had t pretty much his own way, being able to plow through the mud and go along at a pretty good clip, while the others were floundering. He finished the first eat in 2:40; being followed closely by Gracie P. and Don. Some time was spent in scoring for the third heat, which spoiled any chance Rifton had of winning. He kept right with the mare around to the quarter, but passing the pole she pulled away from him, although he was under whip, and won without any pushing in :57.

PROF. ROBERTSON'S LECTURES. Prof. Robertson, the Dominion dairy commissioner, delivered two lectures vesterday. The one in the afternoon was on general matters of interest to farmers, and in fact the public generally. He pointed out the benefits exhibitions were to the agricultural communities, and gave some practical advice to farmers He also explained the working of the cream separator. Clover and horse beans were recommended as cheap nutritious feed for cattle and also to enrich the land. In the Northwest Territories a growing demand was arising for British Columbia canned fruits, and he predicted a large trade in this line. One of the most profitable branches of farming was poultry, and he advised farmers to pay attention to it. Farmers and their wives should gain as much information as possible from the travelling dairy during its stay on the Island.

In the evening Prof. Robertson lectured on "The People's Bread and But-- roper bread and butter conditions were necessary for the proper growth of man. Although the weather was not dis bright and warm as yesterday, there was a good attendance at the exhibition during the afternoon, and the largest crowd of the week is expected this evening. Mink made the running for the first quarter, but went into the air and gave first place to Challenger Chief, who maintained the lead, with Davis Boy at his wheels. The stallion was too much for the other competitors, however, and he had the race pretty much to himself, Davis Boy and Mink fighting for second place. Challenger Chief finished in 2:29 1-5.

Another notch was taken off the track record in the third heat, Challenger Chief finishing in 2:27 2-5. It was now useless to attempt to affect omanchie. Rifton won the first heat the betting. Challenger Chief started in the third heat to show the audience some fast trotting. He got a little the worst of the start and broke after going a hundred yards. This gave Mink and Davis Boy a slight start, which they maintained to the quarter, when on their going into the air simultaneously, Challenger Chief took the lead. He got down to work like a machine and continued to increase the distance between himself and his competitors. He finished without another skip in 2:211/2, which means about 2:15 on a mile track. The races on the whole were good, but the long waits between the events were very annoying, being caused by the fact that there was no clerk of the course.

FEEDING OF ANIMALS. Prof. Robertson yesterday afternoon delivered an instructive and interesting lecture on "The feeding of Domestic Animals." The first thing to do was to use the mind intelligently. The farmers, he was glad to say, were more given to thinking than they formerly were. A farmer must think about his cows and the food to give them. Albuminoids were fed to cows in order he nourishment it gave and its cheap that they may be in their milk for human food. The soil, climate and water to secure business, and as the price of rofessor said he was endeavoring to of the province are favorable for cattle, but other countries were also favorable. mowledge of the best and most econ- and came up into the market in competition. He argued that it was therefore necessary to use skill to obtain the best results. Skill was also necessary in cultivating the soil, the cost being reduced by cultivating crops for the purpose in view. All the daily nutrition a cow required could be placed in two hats, but owing to the formation of her digestive organs she needed bulky food, for she swallowed hastily and then had The filly Soliloquiser, which took first to ruminate her food. It was only neize, and is owned by J. T. Wilkinson, cessary to feed a cow twice a day, but Gentleness and kindness to stock paid well. The Professor next touched on co-operative creameries. A man could handle the milk of 400 cows in a creamery in a day, while it took half a woman's time to make buter from the milk of ten cows. It was true economy not to make the farmer's wife wear herself out making butter when it could be made so much easier in the creamery. The feeding of calves should not be left to the smallest boy on the farm, as they required to be Ther was a parade of stock at 2:30 well and regularly fed. After referring this afternoon, and at 3 o'clock Mrs. briefly to the care of pigs, Prof. Robert-Baker, president of the Local Council son closed a very interesting lecture. Dallas, Sept. 21.—The statement of Governor Culberson that he would stop the fight if there was enough people in fight were believed to have been settled by the decision of the court of criminal appeals two days ago. The attorneys of the Florida Athletic Club say they have shown that there is no law against prize fighting, and they are going to do nothing until the governor makes his move, when they will find means to keep him from interfering.

The club people are going right along with the building and making their preparations to pull off the fight. The ablest lawyers here say the governor's only means of interference is by calling out the militia, and an injunction would most effectively stop this move.
