THE BORN AND REV. BAPTIST NOEL'S BOOK ON CHURCH AND STATE.

Whatever is bred in the bone can never be eradicated from the flesh. This fresh proof of this homely adage is presented in Mr. Baptist Noel's 'Bill of indictment' against the Church of England. It is contained in his last and longest publication—a work, in octavo, spun out to upwards of six hundred mortal pages—absolutely much more formidable to wade through than any score of President Pook's last dying speeches and confessions, however interminable.

Mr. Noel's Book only confirms the correctness of our recent hypothesis—he rails at prelacy, particularly at Bishops who tyrannize the State. But, unless we greatly forget, Mr. Baptist Noel took his active part in sympathizing with an ecclesiastical rebel, the name of Dr. H. H. Snow, in his unwholly war with the Bishops of Scotland, and of which Dr. Thomson, one who knew him well, the Rev. Robert Montgomery, the poetical author of many works, and of a new poem, entitled 'The Christian Life', was constrained to confess that Dr. Noel was worshipped—who? why? Dr. Thomson lived for Mr. Montgomery, and Mr. Noel was his 'him'.

Mr. Noel's grandfather was made First Lord of the Admiralty on the impeachment of Lord Brouncker, in 1680, being then an infant. He was educated at the Charterhouse, and on accepting office, he stipulated that he should not be expected to attend any Sunday Cabinet Council, or any other religious duty, which was not a very popular First Lord, and in particular, he has been much censured for his refusal to attend any religious duty, which was not a very popular First Lord, and in particular, he has been much censured for his refusal to attend any religious duty, which was not a very popular First Lord.

HISTORICAL AND STATISTICAL SKETCHES OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Lecture delivered at the Mechanics' Institute, St. John, N. B., Friday 26th January 1849, by the Rev. Robert Conway, Wesleyan Minister.

The very title of these lectures involves questions of the highest consequence. The history of the British Empire, is in fact, an epitome of universal history; and hence this designation, though as modest as one could be assumed, is not only just, but highly appropriate on the magnitude. I assure my respected friends, that the sentiment I am about to utter is not a mere flourish of oratory, but an expression of a truly and honestly felt conviction.

The precise nature of this theme, and the facilities afforded by the present times, may be illustrated by one or two easy and agreeable comparisons. It is like one of those massive and venerable edifices that still exist in England, and are monuments of the past, exhibiting in their architecture and in their details, without any signs of weakness or decay.
