Andover.

Worthy of mention is the excellent paper prepared and read by Miss M. Everett, at Andover meeting, the title being, "Lessons We May Learn from Nature." At the close of the term this summer, the Institute awarded a medal in Grade IX, for highest average, and it was won by a young lady.

Campbellton.

For a statement of money raised and expended in one year on patriotic work, what branch of an organization with twenty-seven of a membership can beat these figures from the Campbellton Institute, in which there is also a Red Cross Society and a Soldiers' Comforts Association. Total money raised, $12,145; total expended, $10,045.44. If space would permit, we would like to publish in detail the financial statement as it would surely prove an inspiration to any society.

Chocolate and Cummings' Cove. At the June meeting of the Chocolate and Cummings' Cove Institute, much interest was taken in the knitting contest when a prize for knitting the smallest mitten was awarded to Mrs. Roscoe McNeill, it being three-quarters of an inch in length.

Corn Hill.

School Sanitation and Decoration was the subject for a meeting of the Corn Hill Institute, when many members expressed their views and made plans for a school housecleaning.

bee Institute, writes that she has been in communication with the leader of the Boys' and Girls' Agricultural Clubs in the State of Maine, and by means of the instructive material sent to her has succeeded in organizing such a club among the young people of Debec. Much enthusiasm is being shown and home garden plots have been started. This is a splendid work and it is to be hoped other Institutes will take just such an interest in the young folk of their community.

The Royal Standard Chapter, I. O. D. E. met yesterday at the home of their secretary, Mrs. F. J. G. Knowlton at Ononette. They were entertained at tea after the meeting, and a very delightful time was spent. Among the subjects for consideration was the

GOOD VEGETABLE RECIPES FOR MEATLESS DAYS.

Omelette of Peas.

Beat up three eggs to which add one tablespoon of grated cheese, pepper and salt, and mix thoroughly. Butter an omelette pan and pour in the mixture, keep moving it gently with a fork, while you sprinkle in with the other hand some cooked green peas or canned. The omelette will be cooked by the time you have sprinkled in two handfuls. Slip it off on a very hot dish, fold over and serve at once.

Paranip Fricassee.

Fry cubes of salt pork until brown, add four raw parsnips scraped and cut into small pieces; allow one cup of pork to 16 parsnips; cover with boiling water and simmer until tender, drain off water and add sliced boiled potatoes and milk to cover; when this boils up season with salt, pepper and a lump of butter. Pour into dish containing squares of toasted bread one inch thick.

Peppers Filled With Cheese.

Take a cupful and a fourth of cream cheese, with a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice, a dash of red pepper, thicken with cracker crumbs and fill the peppers. Bake a light brown and serve with tomato sauce.

Baked Asparagus.

Cut asparagus into inch lengths and boil. Drain and put a layer in a buttered baking dish. Season with salt and pepper; dot with bits of butter, sprinkle with crumbs and finely

LYRIC.

"Double Cross Mystery." The identity of the Masked Stranger is learned in the seventh episode but it is learned by one of the characters and he being a newspaper reporter won't tell until he can make a good story of it. That is not quite fair to Dick Annesley (Gladstone James), a new actor in the "Double Cross Mystery," for his reason for keeping silence was more of a chivalrous nature. He is a debonair young man and in the scenes at the ruined castle (looking rather remarkably well preserved it struck me), he shows up in fine contrast with Bentley. At one stage of the search two doors confront the characters. Between them is a note which reads "Behind one of these doors lurks death; enter at your peril." The Masked Stranger, Annesley walks right in and meets with nothing more serious than a suit of armor while Bentley has been frightened by a bogey.

The other pictures shown at the Lyric consist of an amusing cartoon in which Farmer Alfalfa proves that a cat has nine lives. He tries to kill his cat named "Glas," but she sticks to her old friend. On the same reel is a Dittmar animal picture with an eating race between a monkey, a cat, a pillar and a grasshopper. I should have bet on the monkey but the hopper gets there first.

Vaudeville consisted of a lady and gentleman who sang several duets. "Ireland Must Be Heaven for My Mother" came from them. "Caroline" and others. The Russells, the couple are named, and they were for two weeks at the Strand, New York.

UNIQUE.

"Perils of the Secret Service." "Lonesome Luke's Honeymoon." The first of the series "Perils of the Secret Service" proved a gripping picture and "The Last Cigarette," that played so important a part was watched closely as it turned to a finish. These are produced by the Universal Company and feature Kingsley Benedict, who nonchalant and unporturbed, in the midst of danger, goes on his way and accomplishes his object. A detective sort of plot that appeals to a great many people this series should be well worth seeing if the rest are up to the first one shown. The setting of the society ball is remarkably well done.

That Lonesome Luke is a great favorite was shown by the fact that both the matinee and evening performances at the Lyric gathered large crowds to see the antics of this fun-maker. His tumblers, his blows and his interrupted caresses all proved a source of great merriment to the audience. The incidents which he was in good comedy follow each other in very rapid succession.

Another picture included in this bill was a number of scenes in Central Texas.

Betty Compson, according to one of her admirers, should be known as "the prettiest girl in pictures," and every one who knows Miss Compson on and off the screen admit this correspondent is a good judge of beauty. This petite actress is a Salt Lake City girl who did her first professional work as a violin soloist in vaudeville. Later, mimed boiled eggs. Add more asparagus, and repeat in the order mentioned until the dish is filled. Have crumbs on top and bake brown.

It takes a man to explain things to a woman that he doesn't understand himself.

IN THE GARDEN.

"Yes, plants have their ailments." To be sure," said the sweet summer boarder, "I have heard of hay fever, and I am not surprised they have gets feverish out in that hot field."

with a partner, she played over the big time vaudeville circuits. About one year ago she came to Los Angeles on tour, and Al. E. Christie seeing her work in the playlet "Wanted a Leading Lady," immediately sought her services, and since she has been "a leading lady" in films. Her first subject was titled the same as the playlet, but had an entirely different story. It showed her discovery by the producer and her first work at the studio. Many screen fans will remember her second release, in which she appeared as a Scotch lassie in "Where the Heather Blooms." For a year she has been featured in leading parts in one and two reel subjects. Included in the list of her releases are "Love and a Savage," "Those Primitive Days," and a number of others, all of which were made under the direction of Horace Davey. Miss Compson is a pretty blonde with blue eyes, five feet two inches in height, and has a very attractive personality.

WANT AN "ALL DAY" SHOW.

Motion Picture Craze is Fast Sweeping the Celestial Kingdom.

China has capitulated to the picture show, says the Seattle Times. So much so, in fact, that Chinese women now make attendance a social event, to be observed with a display of their choicest and most beautiful silks and most dazzling jewels.

Instead of social functions at home, with tea and music and that sort of thing, Chinese women who would be in fashion eat a large breakfast, adorn themselves like a New York society woman bound for the opera, and sally forth for a day of watching the films flicker.

"The motion picture craze in China," said Ernest Young, who has been several years in the Orient, "now has reached a point where the natives are demanding an all-day show."

L. G. Kornloff, commander in chief on the southwestern front, has been appointed generalissimo. Gen. Tschernisoff, commander of the eighth army, has been appointed to succeed Gen. Kornloff on the southwestern front.

Army of Women.

As the result of the heroic conduct of Miss Vera Butchikoff's female battalion in the war, the movement for the creation of a great woman's army is progressing throughout Russia like wildfire.

CAN'T PICK ALL THE BERRIES

The river steamers brought down very light consignments of vegetables and berries to Indian town yesterday. The few new potatoes that arrived in the city were going at $2.25 a bushel. A small quantity of raspberries that came down were disposed of for 15c. a box, and strawberries were selling for 7c. a box by the crate, and 8c. to 10c. retail.

A man conversant with conditions up the river, stated yesterday that the season was rather late for blueberries but, as the crops are large he expected that the city would be flooded with them in a short time. Strawberries were about ten days late in ripening, the result being that the picking of the berries has greatly hindered the farmers in the cutting and taking in of their hay. The two recent days of intense heat was a veritable boon to the farmer, and those who took enough time off from picking berries to cut and take in the hay were able to mow a large quantity.

Some of the farmers proceeding with their haying and letting the strawberries look after themselves, and as a result large quantities of this luscious fruit are rotting and going to waste.
