clouds of smoke. At midnight the same day flames, accompanied with rumbing noises, lighted the sky over an immense area, causing widespread terror. May 4, hot ashes covered the whole city

May 4, hot asnes covered the whole end quarter of St. Pierre an inch thick and made Mount Pelee invisible. At noon May 5 a stream of burning lava rushed 4,400 feet down the mountain side, following the dry bed of a torrent and reaching the sea, five miles from the mountain in these minutes. In its rush and reaching the sea, nive muces from the mountain, in three minutes. In its rush the fiery flood swept from its path plan-tations, buildings, factories, cattle and hu-man beings over a breadth of about half a mile. At the rear of the mouth of the Riviere Blanche stood the large guerin sugar factory, one of the finest in the island. It is now completely entombed in lava. The tall chimney alone is visible. One hundred and fifty persons are esti-mated to have perished there including
