APPEARED ON NECK, LEGS

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, on the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize the fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

THE WELL DRESSED MAN.

A Writer of Feminine Fashions Discourses on Masculine Attire—Olive Harper a Class Broom Student.

Like the well dressed woman, it is not so much the cost of the garments as the suitability for special occasions and the way they are worn and cared for that make the well dressed man, writes the well-known New York fashion correspondent, Olive Harper. From shoes to hat the well dressed man is clean, and his garments always look neat and fresh, but how much of the apparent freshness is due to the creases in his trousers and careful brushing we neither know nor care. It is the general effect that we respect. The well dressed man respects himself and his clothes. He remembers Shakespeare's advice, "Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy," and then he takes care of what he gets.

What he gets this season or what he should get to be in fashion makes rather a formidable list, though still very far behind that considered necessary for lovely woman. He needs first for business a covert or oversack overcoat, with a jacket or cutaway coat, and his vest in this case should match the coat, though many prefer one of different material. There is no hard and fast rule about this. Trousers may match or be of quite different material. White is the best style, though if it is an elderly gentleman and he wears a cutaway suit a high silk hat is suitable. Colored shirts are proper for business wear or general morning wear. The collar is an important part of a man's attire, and immaculate freshness is the first consideration. The shape may be wing, poke or high band turnover. The proper cravat for business suits is either the ascot, the tie, the once over, the four-in-hand or culross. I hope the gentlemen will recognize these shapes by their names, which I must confess are all Greek to me, but that is the places told me. Gloves for morning or business should be tan or dark gray. It seems that shoes are also prescribed in these several outfits, and with business or morning suits calfskin shoes are worn with the suits and patent leather with the cutaway.

After business is over a frock coat is the correct thing with a Chesterfield or a skirted overcoat. The vest is generally like that of the coat, but may be of fancy duck or other linen. Vests for this purpose should be double-breasted, and the trousers should be of striped worsted, light or dark, as the wearer prefers. Only a high silk hat should be worn with this sort of suit, and the collar must be either poke or bat wing, while the cravat is only allowed to be ascot or culross. The gloves should be tan or very light gray suede and the shoes patent leather buttoned boots.

For afternoon visits, receptions, matinees and day weddings the frock coat and Chesterfield overcoat are de rigueur. Vests are the same, and trousers are of dark gray chevrot or worsted in striped design. The high silk hat is here, too, and, as for afternoon wear, the shirt must be white and the collar must be wings of poke. The cravat could be white, black or light toned ascot or culross, the gloves gray, and patent leather shoes complete this costume. We all know that an evening dress coat is necessary for all evening functions, and this season the Chesterfield or skirted overcoat is used. One may wear a white or a black vest, another double-breasted or single. Trousers are to be of the same material as the coat, and this is of fine broadcloth in preference to anything. Of course the shirt must be white and stiff as tin, with the cuffs sewed to the sleeves. The collar is to be as high as one can wear it without danger, and it may be lap front, standing or poke. The tie must be a broad end white harrath tie and the gloves white, glass or pearl. The shoes must be either patent leather button tops or pumps.

For informal dinners, club, stag and home dinners an evening jacket is the newest thing. A covert or raglan is worn with this when one is going out. Vests are double or single breasted, of the coat material or white with gold buttons. The trousers are of the same stuff as the coat. A white shirt with plated bosom and with the cuffs fastened on is right for this, and a standing high band turnover is the collar, while only one cravat is suitable, a broad end black silk one. For this informal affair a derby or black alpine will do, but for full dress an opera or a high silk hat with a cloth band is demanded.

Large Loaves.

The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves 2 feet or 3 feet long, while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls, 4 feet or 5 feet in length, and in many cases 6 feet.

Sickness steals more savings than the burglar. Slowly, coin by coin, the money that has been so hardy earned is paid out for drugs and doctors. Sickness is the worst enemy of the working man, and the common cause of the working man's sickness is disease of the stomach often involving the heart, lungs, liver, or kidneys.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will stop the stealing of the savings by sickness. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., when these diseases are caused by the diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs. "About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Wm. Connolly, of 333 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "It got so bad I had to lay off quite often two and three days at a time. My stomach would bloat, and I would belch up gas, and was in such distress at such times. I have employed and been treated by the best doctors in the city but got no help whatever. By some way or other I happened to get hold of a bottle of your 'Pellels,' and I thought they might help me. It was then I wrote you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had liver complaint, and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have taken as directed, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start and have not lost a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel tip-top, and better than I have for ten years."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing else is "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

Beauty as a Bane in Italy.

Florence and Venice and the rest are cursed with the burden of a most dangerous legacy from their past—the legacy of beauty. Because of this beauty (which the people themselves do not enjoy) the rich of all nations flock to them, bringing full purses and a disposition to spare no expense. The native begins to regard these visitors as his natural prey. Why should he work when foreigners are so easily fleeced? Accordingly he does not work—at least in the productive sense; he touts and begs and sells ornaments at three times their real value. The victory instead of going to strength goes to weakness. Parents of the poorer class look upon a deformed or crippled child as a blessing, since its pitiful helplessness makes it a more efficient beggar. Into these cities, where such a fine harvest can be gathered on such easy terms, the strong, industrious peasantry are sucked till they become idle, demoralized gamblers, and all because they are the most beautiful places in the world, because their past is so glorious that strangers come from the ends of the earth to see its grave. Thus the modern Florentine lives, like some horrible cannibal, upon his own dead.—London Outlook.

BOERS FOR MEXICO

MANY OF THEM WILL SETTLE IN TAMAU-LIPAS STATE.

A Large Tract of Land Already Purchased—Wholesale Colonization Planned by General Joubert—Will Pay Mexico No Taxes for Years, But They Will Pay $3.50 an Acre for Their Land.

Some of Oom Paul's people will start on another "trek" when 300 Boer families are brought from South Africa by January to settle on a large tract of land in the state of Tamaulipas, of which Ciudad Victoria, is the capital. Negotiations have been closed for the purchase of 100,000 acres, which are to be used in providing homes for the self exiled Boers. The land lies about a hundred miles from the Texas border and was selected from a tract of 1,000,000 acres, on the balance of which the former citizens of the Transvaal republic have an option. If the Boers prove successful in the new country it is probable that more land will be purchased and many more families transported within the next year.

The idea of colonizing the Boers in Mexico was conceived by General G. D. Joubert, a nephew of the famous General Joubert of the Boer army. General De Wet and other Boer officers. Former United States Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina, who represents a gold mining company, arranged for the sale of the land bought from his company by General Joubert, Captain W. S. O'Donnell and the committee now in Holland. The price agreed upon is $3.50 per acre, and the Boers will have twelve years in which to pay it. The Mexican Government has agreed to exempt them from taxation for the next fifteen years. All household goods, agricultural implements, etc., of the settlers will be allowed to enter without payment of duty, bounties will be given for all special crops and everything done to encourage immigration. The first settlers will be furnished with 3,000 cattle and 1,000 horses.

GENERAL G. D. JOUBERT.

they to select them from the vast numbers in the possession of the mining company. The Mexican Government is delighted with the coming of the Boers. When General Joubert and Senator Butler called on President Diaz and explained to him what they had done and proposed to do and had secured his indorsement of the president, after listening for a time, interjected a characteristic remark. He said, "We have a great country full of nuts, but no teeth to crack them."

General Joubert is very democratic and has a massive frame. His height is about 5 feet 10 inches, and he weighs about 180 pounds. Apparently he is about forty years of age, and his expression is one of great determination. General Joubert's father was one of the first Boer officers captured by the British. The general had five brothers in the army. The brothers were neither killed nor maimed. General Joubert was taken prisoner three months before the surrender of the Boer forces. He expresses himself as having great hopes for a permanent settlement of his people in Mexico.

If things turn out as General Joubert expects 1,000 families, he says, will be in Mexico within a year. These are not the usual class of immigrants, but are people of some means in search of homes in a new country and capable of any amount of hard work and application in the development of their holdings. Tamaulipas, formerly New Santander, the future home of the Boers, is bounded on the north by Texas, from which it is separated by the Rio Grande River. On the northwest it is bounded by Coahuila, on the west by Nuevo Leon and San Luis Potosi and Vera Cruz and on the east by the Gulf of Mexico. Its area is 32,128 square miles. The coast is low and fringed with lagoons and separated from the sea by belts of sand. Tamaulipas is said to be the richest state in Mexico, and two splendid rivers flow through it. The climate is so temperate and healthful. The soil, which is free from malaria, is generally fertile. Most of the grains, fruits and woods of the temperate and torrid zones are included in the vegetable products. Cattle, horses, mules, sheep and goats are reared. A considerable trade both in them and in other articles is carried on. Iron, silver and salt are the chief mineral products. The population in 1900 was 218,948.

When the colony is established the Boers will recognize the sovereignty of the Mexican Government. It was originally their intention to locate in the western part of the United States, but owing to the high price of land and the fact that the Boer officers could not get exactly what was wanted they moved on to Mexico.

The Slave Trade.

That the slave trade is still being carried on at Muscat was shown recently when Portuguese gunboats captured slave dhows and set free 700 slaves.
