A Thrush's Song.

The fire burned low, the day was nearly ended. ended.
And I was sad at heart and all alone;
My thoughts with pain and sorrow so were blended.
I turned impatient with a heart-wrung

A sweet thrush raised its lovely liquid strain. So am I, said I, vainly ever trying To sing my songs through rain that always falls.

Through night winds bleak that never stay their sighing.
Through such a strife that all my soul appalls;
There is no room for me; why should I try
To sing at all, when surely I must die? The bird sang on, and through his stream of singing
I seemed to hear him tell of Summer-time;
The Summer that pale Spring is surely bringing.

To bless us with its rosy perfumed clime, And so I did forget my present woe In thinking that this cold gray time will go.

The bird was silent, and no more forever Could I distinguish him from all the rest; Such birds are all alike; how could I sever This one wild songster with the speckled breast From that vast tribe whose songs are sung when daylight dies, and mourners sadly grieve?

What did it matter? 'tis the song that lin-Hid in the place that memory claims as And none may tell when Time's cold withered fingers

May still live on, e'en thou thyself art fled.
And if all dies, yet hast thou done thy best,

On Monday, June 28th ult. the French Canadians of Windsor, Sandwich and vicinity celebrated the tannual feast of their patron saint, in an enthusiastic and patriotic manner. The day was an exceedingly fine one and rather warm. By nine 'clock a. m. a gay assemblage had congregated in the shady avenues before the old church, once the Cathedral.

Shortly after the society, led by the Great Western Band, of Detroit, marched into the church and took seats in both sides of the main alsies. His Lordwill Bishop Walsh, with a numerous retinue of Priests and Acolytes, entered immediately afterwards, passing around the aisles giving his benediction to his kneeling parisinoners; seated inside the sanctuary ralling were the persons representing the usua historic characters of Jacques Cartier, the Indian Chief, and little St. John Baptiste; of which there were two. Delegations from all the societies in the County of Essex were present, including the Presidents and several other officers, a large number of members and the little St. John Baptiste of the society of Stoney Point. A soilemn High Mass was celebrated in the presence of His Lordship in full canonicals; on this occasion the ancient and pious practice of blessing and distributing the Holy or Biessed Bread, was observed, as is usual, at at this church on all the great feasts. The music ot the Mass was the feature of the eclebration, no finer sacred music was ever listend to in Western Ontario than that of the mass on this day.

ARRIVAL OF THE GENERAL MAR-QUIS DE CHARETTE.

(From the Quebec Chronicle.)

There was a very large demonstration n Tuesday night at the Palais Station on on Tuesday night at the ratias station of the occasion of the arrival from Montreal of the General and Madame la Marquise de Charette, accompanied by the Marquis de la Rochefoucault, attended by their respective suites. Several thousands of people must have been present, and the crowding large competing immense, numbers of peowas something immense, numbers of peo ole crying out from time to time, fearing that they would be crushed to death. The Marqius may be looked upon as the very embodiment of the idea of the temvery embodiment of the idea of the tem-poral power of the Pope. Such he is in fact actually regarded by the masses of the people. The most popular of the Generals who opposed Garibaldi in the struggle to maintain the Pope's temporal power, he was also one of the most suc-cessful commanders on the French side in the Franco-Prussian war, where the nucleus of his army was composed of the old Zouaves who had served under him in Italy, soldiers fired with a devotion similar to that which inspired the followers of Joan of Arc and the Iron Sides of Oliver Cromwell. These facts will serve to explain the enthusiasm with which the to explain the enthusiasm with which the arrival of the General was received by our French Canadian fellow-citizens. The first wife of the Marquis was, we believe, a Fitzjames. By his second he is connected with the Count de Chambord. Amongst those to welcome the General on his arrival were the members in this city of the Cercle Catholique and Papal Zouaves. On the arrival of the train a ession was formed to escort him to St. Louis Hotel, the band of the 8th

The General was presented with two addresses on Wednesday. In the morning the Papal Zouaves presented him with address at the St. Louis Hotel, to which he responded. In the afternoon he visited the falls of Montmorenci, and subsequently received in St. Roch's the address of the Cercle Catholique. He also visited the scenes of the battles on the Plains and at St. Foye. Yesterday, General Charette and lady and the Marquis de Rochefoucault and suite, accompanied by Chevalier Vincellette and others, also visited the community of the venerable monastery of the Ursulines. They were shown through the parlors and Chaplain's room, and amongst other objects that interested them was the skull of the heroic Montcalm, which is preserved pecting Egypt, and Turkish troops will be sent to re-establish the status quo under the direction of the Powers.

MONTH'S MIND IN WAWANOSH.

On Friday last, June 23rd, a solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated in St. Augustines' Roman Catholic Church, West Wawanosh, County of Huron, for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Father McGauran of Goderich. The church was crowded with an attentive congregation, many of whom went to communion, offering it for the deceased. Rev. Father O'Connor, pastor of the church, celebrated Mass, assisted by Rev. Father McGrath, of Wawanosh, as deacon, and Rev. Father Cummins, of Mount Carmel, as sub-deacon. Rev. Father Watters, nephew of the deceased, and Rev. Father Shea, of Seaforth, assisted in the sanctuary. At the conclusion of the Mass, Rev. Father O'Connor delivered a magnificent discourse on the life and labors of the deceased. He also brought vividly before the eyes of the congregation the terrible sufferings the emigrants underwent in the year 1817, when the deceased, who was then pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Quebec, by his unremitting labors and constant watchfulness soothed the pillow of many a poor soul, who otherwise would have been left to the tender mercies of thoughtless strangers. He next dwelt on the many difficulties the deceased had to encounter when first he went on mission work, and the noble work he had performed in the vineyard of His Master, and concluded an eloquent oration by impressing on all present the necessity of constantly praying so that they might be able to surmount all the difficulties with which their path may be strewn through life, and at last arrive at that haven of rest, whereof the Apostle says, "The eye hath not seen; nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive the joys that God has prepared for those who love Him." I must not conclude without mentioning the excellent music furnished by the choir, under the leadership of Miss Le Marsh, who, as organist, has few equals in this part of the country. The choir, also, shows careful training, and they more than covered themselves with glory on the occasion referred to. Veritas. of the soul of the late Rev. Father McGauran of Goderich. The church was crowded with

OBITUARIES.

The Quebec Chronicle announces the The Quebec Chronicle announces the deaths of two well known citizens of the Ancient capital:

The late Benson Bennett, Esq., was one of the early founders of the lumber industry in that city, and for many years head of an extensive firm of lumber exporters. The deceased gentleman, who was widely respected for his Integrity, had been for some time in failing health. He was in his early youth a convert to the Catholic Church, of which he was a fervent and edifying member: he was for many years a member of the late Committee of Management of St. Patrick's Church, having been elected thereto in 1851. Mr. Bennett was of English descent. His funeral took place to the Basilica on Wednesday morning, where High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Mr. Belanger, assisted by Rev. Dr. Laflamme of the University as Deacon and by a sub-Deacon. The attendance was large and highly respectable, embracing representatives of all the lumber and other mercantile houses in the City, besides a number of relatives and personal friends. The interment subsequently took place in the cemetery of Our Lady of Belmont.

Another of the old settlers in Quebec.

Another of the old settlers in Quebec city has been called away, in the person of the late Mr. J. Nesbitt, for many years one of the leading shipbuilders at that port,—at the very advanced age of eighty years and two months. Deceased was a native of London, Eng., and having, while yet young, immigrated to Canada, settled down in Quebec. Having acted as foreman in some of the principal shipyards he, over forty years ago, commenced building on his own account under advan-ces from some of the leading mercantile houses here and in Belfast, Ireland. He houses here and in Belfast, Ireland. He was a striking instance of the uncertainties of the shipbuilding industries in bygone days, as at two or three periods of his life he saw himself independent but also, unfortunately, had the bitter experience of as often seeing himself bereft of everything. Deceased was a convert to the Catholic church, of which he always continued to be a practical and fervent tinued to be a practical and fervent member, and he was as far back as 1844 elected a member back as 1844 elected a member of the old Committee of St. Patrick's, a position he occupied till he removed from the parish. He also for a number of years served as one of the Commissioners of the Marine and Immi-Commissioners of the Marine and Mini-grant Hospital as the colleague of the late Captain Alleyn, N. R., Messrs F. X. Par-adist and Thadeus Kelly. He was also a Justice of the Peace. His death was quite unexpected, as he had retired in good nexpected, as he had retired in good health on Monday evening but was sud-denly taken ill with apoplexy. The priest and doctor were immediately called in and reached his bedside barely in time to see him breathe his last.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. J. J. NESBITT. The mortal remains of this gentleman were conveyed from his son's residence, Hare Point, to St. Roch's Church in the afternoon of SS. Peter and Paul day, attended by a very large concourse of mourners.
They were received at the main entrance by Revd. Fathers Gosselin, Cure, and Hamelin, chaplain of the General Hospital, of which institution one of depital, of which institution one of de-ceased's daughters is a member. After the chanting of the Libera and other appropriate hymns and prayers by the officiating clergymen and an efficient choir to organ accompaniment, the body still attended by a very large number of friends, was conveyed to St. Charles cem-etery, where it was interred. It must have heen year gratifying to the relatives of been very gratifying to the relatives of the deceased to see that, although he had the deceased to see that, although he had for years been out of commercial pursuits,
