

More and better shaves

Did you ever see a barber start to shave a customer without stropping his razor first? Never! Isn't this fact significant?

Stropping, you see, is needed to reform the saw-like edge that results from shaving; to keep the blade free from rust; and to give you for each morning's shave a keen-edged blade. The self-stropping feature of the AutoStrop Razor preserves the keen edge that makes shaving comfortable.

Stropping — shaving, cleaning, are all done without removing the blade from the razor.

THE EYEBROWS.

Give a Good Insight to Character.

It is now conceded that the Greek eyebrow is quite in accord with the conception of mere physical beauty in women. Like the rosy mouth, it does not indicate the highest order of intelligence, and the arch is expressive always of greater sensibility and greater sense of character, says London Tit-Bits.

Scant growth of the eyebrows invariably denotes lack of vitality; on the contrary, heavy, thick eyebrows indicate a strong constitution and great physical endurance. They are not beautiful on a woman's face, however much they may signify either mental or bodily vigor, and when they are not only heavy, but droop and meet at the nose, they are disagreeable and are said to accompany an insincere and prying nature.

Romantic women usually have a very well-defined arch in the centre of the eyebrow, while a sense of humor is indicated in the arch nearer the nose. Long, drooping eyebrows, lying wide apart, indicate an amiable disposition. Where the eyebrows are lighter in color than the hair, the indications are lack of vitality and great sensitiveness. Faintly defined eyebrows placed high above the nose are signs of indolence and weakness.

Very black eyebrows give the face an intense and searching expression; when natural, they accompany a passionate temperament. Very light eyebrows rarely are seen on strongly intellectual faces, although the color of the eyebrows is not accepted simply as denoting lack of intelligence. The form gives the key to the faculties and their direction. Red eyebrows denote great fervor and ambition; brown, a medium between red and black.

A SUCCESSFUL AVIATOR.

Something About the Temperament of a Flier.

What type of men does "the air" produce? The London Lanet has made some inquiries in this direction, and published a paper by "a pilot of 600 hours' experience" and a medical officer at a flying field. Their conclusions are as follows:

"The mark of the successful aviator is 'the possession of a suitable temperament.' He has, as a rule, 'a fund of animal spirits' and is athletic. He possesses resolution, initiative, tive, presence of mind, sense of humor, judgment; is alert, cheerful, optimistic, happy-go-lucky, generally a good fellow, and frequently lacking in imagination. His amusements when off duty are 'theatre, music (chiefly ragtime), billiards and dancing, and it appears necessary for the well-being of the average pilot that he should indulge in a really riotous evening at least once or twice a month. As for the 'flying aviator' as distinct from the ordinary aviator, he may be described as the same, only more so. He is full of the joy of life, has 'little or no imagination, no sense of responsibility,' and 'very seldom takes his work seriously, but looks upon 'fun-stuff' as a great game.' Oddly enough, it is—so these critics affirm—better that he should 'know little or nothing of the details of his machine or engine.' No exhaustive knowledge of mechanics seems to be desirable. Is this perhaps because it is necessary that his flying apparatus should become part of himself? He is constantly obliged to give his attention to something other than the conduct of his airplane, which becomes subconscious. A fit man upon a fit machine should apparently not be preoccupied with the state of his body or its mechanical adjuncts.

"Being absorbed in the interest of their subject, and anxious to compare their observation with that of others in a good position to judge, the aviators and the doctor issued a questionnaire to fully qualified pilots and found their own conclusions marvellously confirmed, many of their points being very strongly emphasized. For instance, a very large number of those who replied to their questions as to the mental make-up of the successful aviator declare lack of imagination to be essential. In slightly different words, one aviator after another enumerates this negative requirement. 'Very little imagination'—again and again we read the same thing all down the list. One witness is very concise, and declares the two essential characteristics to be simply (1) lack of imagination, and (2) audacity. It is not easy to be quite sure what they all mean by lack of imagination, but other phrases of a similar kind may throw light upon the matter. An aviator should show, we read, 'abandonment of care,' and the words 'happy-go-lucky' and 'suggestions of irresponsibility' are constantly repeated. Does 'imagination' mitigate against a light heart? We suppose that it does.

"The aviators who fall—i. e., who begin well and do not finally make good—are those who cannot stand loneliness. They have pluck enough, they can stand any danger in company with an instructor, but 'solo' flying is too much for them. As soon as they begin to fly alone they are constantly faced with a terrible choice. They must fly too low for safety or go up and chance getting 'lost' behind a cloud. This getting 'lost' seems to be of frequent occurrence and no especially grave danger, but one can well understand that a man of 'imagination' could hardly bear it in solitude."

Worth Remembering.

Cold boiled cabbage may be baked in a dish in alternate layers of white sauce, sprinkled with grated cheese. Good!

One teaspoonful of baking soda in a pint of water makes a good wash for plants covered with insects.

A very simple and good remedy for weak, tired eyes is to open and shut them several times in warm, salt water. Do not have solution too strong. They will also tend to brighten the eyes.

You can keep nickel ornaments on a range bright with ammonia. Nickel should be rubbed up every day to keep it looking nice.

When using salt to remove stains from silverware, the salt should be melted and a strong solution applied, otherwise you run the risk of scratching the silver.

To take iron rust out of white goods, cover with table salt and saturate with lemon juice. Expose to the sun till stain disappears. If badly rusted, you may have to repeat the process.

An Epsom salt bath is said to be good for women who are nervous and have any kidney trouble. Dissolve two pounds of the salts in a bathtub of water and stay in the tub 10 to 15 minutes, soaking. Water should not be too hot. Take a good rest afterward.

DIEMAL SWAMP.

Would Be Very Valuable, If Drained.

Diemal Swamp, which lies just south of Norfolk, Va., partly in that state and partly in North Carolina, is one of the most picturesque wildernesses in the eastern United States. Although it may be reached from the busy port of Norfolk within a few hours by a boat which plies daily up and down a small canal, the Diemal Swamp remains an unspoiled wilderness where black bears and panthers still roam, while the smaller creatures of the wild exist in abundance.

The thick jungles and bottomless bogs at once offer perfect hiding places for the wild things and obstacles to the hunter which are often impassable. Then, too, the swamp is alive with snakes—the deadly copperhead and moccasin being especially abundant—and this fact alone detracts considerably from the popularity of the place as a pleasure resort.

It is nevertheless regularly visited by some hardy hunters and is the delight of naturalists and scientists of all kinds, who here find what they most love—unspoiled, primitive nature.

The Diemal Swamp has great possibilities of future usefulness. In the first place, it contains some of the deepest and richest deposits of peat in the United States, and this fuel is undoubtedly to be used in the country in the near future. Furthermore, engineers say that the swamp can be drained, and that it will then become one of the richest bits of farmland in America. Indeed, one man has already demonstrated this by draining a few hundred acres of the swamp and raising phenomenal crops on it.—Chicago Daily News.

LILY WHITE Corn Syrup

For Preserving Thousands of the best housekeepers have discovered that using half sugar and half Lily White Corn Syrup makes preserving more uniformly successful.

To start with, the consistency is bound to be just right from the very nature of the syrup; there is no danger of the preserves crystallizing; the syrup brings out the natural flavour of the fruit; the keeping quality is excellent and the preserves do not have the cloying sweetness of all sugar.

For better preserves, use Lily White Corn Syrup.

Sold by Grocers everywhere—in 2, 5, 10 and 20 pound tins.
